TROOPS CIRCLE DUBLIN IN HUNT FOR TERRORISTS

Search Thousands; Fear IRA Outbreak.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 27.—A cordon of troops was flung around Dublin, Ireland, and thousands of persons were searched today in an attempt to avert new troubles fomented by the outlawed Irish Republican army.

Reports reaching London stated that a new era of outbreaks by the Republicans, to whom many deeds of terrorism have been attributed in their campaign to accomplish a complete break by the Irish from England, was feared by both the Ireland and Ulster governments.

The basis of these fears is the recent Republican raid on the Phoenix Park arsenal in Dublin, from which a million rounds of ammunition was stolen, and the mutiny of political prisoners in Londonderry jail.

The ring of troops around Dublin is searching day and night for that part of the munitions not yet recovered.

More than Half-Ton Found.

A quarter of a ton of the loot was found yesterday in Celbridge and a still larger cache was discovered tonight near Naas. Both towns are in County Kildare.

In the search for the rest of the munitions a house to house search was conducted in the Dublin area. All roads to Dublin were reported guarded, cars were stopped, trucks, lorries carts, and autos were examined, and buses held up. Women passengers had to disclose the contents of even their shopping and handbags on orders from the military. Armored cars, cooperating with police radio cars, patrol the highways as the search goes on in Kildare, Wicklow, Carlow and Kilkenny counties. The search was described as the most rigorous known in Ireland since the civil war years.

Military Board Investigates.

A military commission met secretly in Dublin today to investigate Saturday's raid on the Phoenix Park magazine. Nine members of the military guard are being held pending its report.

Four young men suspected of taking part in the raid were taken to the Bridewell jail in Dublin tonight by civil guards and three others were ordered held by a Dublin court today on charges of having been found in possession of guns and ammunition in Phoenix park shortly after the raid. Eleven more IRA suspects are said to have been arrested in Dublin tonight.

Belfast Houses Searched.

Another anti-IRA drive is going on in Belfast. Houses in the nationalist area of the city are being raided by police and the Ulster government has ordered border guards on the outskirts of Londonderry strengthened.

The Belfast Republican army members are secretly circulating a sheet called "War News." It prints a picture of a rifle superimposed on the title and carries a fierce attack on the Northern Ireland government.

In the mutiny in Londonderry prison on Christmas day about 60 Irish Republican suspects locked up their guards, fired bedding, smashed furniture, and leaned out of windows and sang Republican songs to street crowds before they were subdued after five hours. Commenting on this, the London News Chronicle today blamed "the dictatorial tendencies" of the Northern Ireland government for the outbreak. It said the government had shown appalling disregard for civil liberties in holding the men without trial.

MEXICAN CHAMBER PASSES BILL TO BAR RELIGIOUS TEACHING

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 27.—The chamber of deputies today approved the government bill to reform article 3 of the Mexican constitution, which regulates the education of Mexican youth. The government project excludes all religion and religious instruction from schools.

The bill states that the object of education is to prepare youth for a social regime in which the founts of production belong to the nation. It provides for confiscation of any building in which a private school is set up and provides prison terms for persons giving religious instruction.

HURRIES FRESH FORCES TO WAR AGAINST FINNS

Has 4½ Million Men Already in Arms.

MOSCOW, Dec. 27 (AP).—Soviet Russia called more men to arms tonight, poured large reënforcements into the Finnish fighting, and revived her active interest in the neutral Balkans.

Presumably the men newly mobilized were intended for the Finnish campaign. There was no estimate of their numbers, but they served to bolster at least 4½ million men already on duty on various frontiers.

[Finnish general headquarters said last night that 300,000 picked Red army soldiers had been rushed up to turn the tide of recent reverses, in which the Finns said at least 4,000 Russians had been slain in three days.]

Concerned About Turkey.

Arrival in Moscow of a Bulgarian trade delegation stirred speculation in foreign quarters as to whether the soviet union might be demanding a Black sea naval base from Bulgaria.

The U. S. S. R. has been concerned about its position in the Black sea, where its navy is known to be weak, ever since Turkey turned to the west and signed mutual assistance agreements with Great Britain and France.

The Bulgarians want soviet oil from Baku, especially since Germany began diversion of both Rumanian and soviet oil from Balkan trade channels. If the soviet union wants explicit trade advantages from Bulgaria, they have not been disclosed.

New Parley with Japan.

Conferences between soviet Russia and Japan for the settlement of a demarcation line along the Outer Mongolian border will be resumed at Harbin, Manchukuo, on Jan. 7, an announcement said. Differences over the boundary line were the subject of a month long conference of soviet, Japanese, Manchukuan, and Outer Mongolian delegations at Chita, Siberia, which ended Monday. Hostilities ceased in that area in September.

The only official information on the progress of the war in Finland today was contained in a brief communique which said:

"Dec. 27.—Nothing important took place on the front. Soviet aviation made reconnoitering flights."

Little to Say About War.

Brief communiques printed in soviet newspapers remained the only news available to the Russian people of the Finnish war. Izvestia, the government organ, however, ran a special article entitled "White Finland on the Eve of Its End." The article especially assailed Eljas Erkko, former Finnish foreign minister, calling him a "British hireling."

The government organ asserted that Britain had advised Finland not to sign a pact with the U. S. S. R. and had promised help for Finland "in case of need." Then, the newspaper said, the Finnish government plunged its people into a "hopeless adventure."

The recently inaugurated Russian blackout claimed its fourth execution order. The newspaper Leningrad Pravda reported a man had been sentenced to death for snatching a purse during the blackout.

FINNS AGAIN INVADE RUSSIA

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 27 (AP).—Finnish troops made a crossing at a second point into Russian territory today, it was reported from the region east of Salla, where the Red army

GERMANY COLLECTS POTATO SACKS FOR DEFENSE PURPOSES

BERLIN, Dec. 27 (AP).—Members of the Hitler Youth organization today began collecting potato sacks and other jute bags from housewives. The populace was informed that jute bags were needed urgently "for food and defense purposes." The youngsters' attention was directed especially to air raid shelters where at the beginning of the war sand was poured quickly into jute bags but now is stored in wood containers.

Lasker Gives Huge Estate to U. of Chicago

Albert D. Lasker, advertising executive, has given his $3,500,000 estate near Lake Forest—one of the showplaces of the central west—to the University of Chicago, it was learned last night. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the university, announced that official notification of the gift will be made to the board of trustees on Jan. 11.

Albert D. Lasker.

Under terms of the gift the university is to hold the property for at least two years. If at the end of this period no educational use has been found for it the university may dispose of the land as it sees fit.

Includes Famous Golf Course.

The property, known as Mill Road farm, includes 480 acres between the towns of West Lake Forest [formerly Everett] and Halfday. Part of the estate is devoted to farming, but the most striking feature is the celebrated 18 hole golf course, rated by Bobby Jones and Gene Sarazen as one of the best three in the country.

Set in the center of the estate is a 50 room mansion of French manor house architecture, with flagged terraces to the south and west. One of the unique items in the house is a small automatic elevator used for raising the logs for a gigantic fireplace.

Adjoining the main house is a swimming pool. Not far away are greenhouses and gardens, and, half a mile to the rear, a stretch of woods. Deep in the woods is a rustic log house, a favored retreat of Lasker's. The golf clubhouse, transformed from an old farmhouse, is one of the finest ever built.

Mansion Built in 1928.

Lasker has owned the property for about 15 years, according to Lake Forest real estate dealers. The mansion and other improvements were set up in 1928. One indication that Lasker apparently was planning to abandon the estates came in September, 1938, when he sold his pure bred Guernsey herd of 37 cattle.

How the University of Chicago officials plan to use their newest gift had not been determined last night.

"Mr. Lasker's gift opens many interesting possibilities," President Hutchins said. "It may be that an important use connected with the educational or recreational activities of the university can be found for this magnificent property."

$50,000 Taxes Since 1928.

"Certainly the university will not decide to sell without exploring every educational opportunity that it can think of," he declared. "In any event, the estate is a splendid addition to the university's resources."

Records in the office of Garfield R. Leaf, county treasurer of Lake county, showed that Lasker had paid nearly $50,000 in combined real estate and personal property taxes on the property since 1928. His 1938 personal property taxes amounted to $1,429 and his real estate taxes to $3,162.

If the university uses the estate for educational purposes, it will be exempt from taxes. If it is operated for profit, however, taxes will have to be paid. Unlike Northwestern university, the Midway institution does not have a state charter making all its property tax exempt.

Member of University Board.

Lasker, a member of the university's board of trustees since 1937, made his first gift in 1928 when he and his first wife, Mrs. Flora Lasker, since dead, gave $1,000,000 to establish the Lasker Foundation for Medical Research for the study of degenerative diseases of middle age. In 1929 he contributed $125,000 toward the support of the university clinics.

SURVEY SHOWS BIG WORLD LOSS IN JOBS AS RESULT OF WAR

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 27 (AP).—Hundreds of thousands were added to the jobless ranks in both belligerent and neutral states in the first months of the war, states a survey published today by the international labor office.

The mobilization of millions of men and a boom in war industries have failed to absorb the idle created by trade restrictions, the appearance of women as job seekers, and the closing of peacetime industries.

Only the United States and Canada of the countries mentioned showed decreases in unemployment. No figures were issued for Germany, but labor office experts said unemployment increased there despite war-made jobs.

A world-wide lack of skilled labor was reported.

Police Nab 60 in Keno Game on North Shore

Wilmette's entire police force and a squad of special deputies swept into the Vista Del Lago resort in the old No Man's Land section last night and arrested six employés of the place and 54 patrons of a keno game.

All were taken in a bus to the Wilmette village hall. There the employés were charged with operating a gambling resort and the others with being inmates. Justice of the Peace George F. Scherzer fixed bonds for the first group at $100 each and for the second at $10 each.

No Man's Land Annexed.

Last August, acting under special legislation, Wilmette annexed No Man's Land, a tract of 22 acres lying along the lake and Sheridan road, and took over the duty of policing it. Nothing sensational happened. Then, about three weeks ago, the Vista Del Lago owners, Henry Zeitlin and Roy Junglas, distributed handbills that began this way:

KENO! KENO! KENO!
GOOD NEWS

The bill related that a keno game would be held every Wednesday night under the supervision of "men who formerly ran the keno games at the Chicago Beach hotel," and informed the public that Wilmette could be reached on the elevated lines.

Chief of Police Cloyd C. McGuire mobilized his entire force of 24 men. He called on eight American Legionnaires for help. And he hired a bus [Wilmette has no patrol wagon] from the Indian Hill Country club.

At the appointed time the police forces swept into the Vista Del Lago, a large stucco dance hall and bathing house, from all sides. The guests were all putting buttons on their keno cards, purchased at 10 or 25 cents each.

The prisoners, mostly women, were lined up and marched away.

Women Heckle Raiders.

"Suburbanites!" one woman shouted. "Why don't you raid the church socials?"

Zeitlin protested bitterly. "Why," he said, "there wasn't a gambling device in the whole place."

A count in the village council chamber, where Justice of the Peace Scherzer set up his headquarters, showed 42 women and 18 men under arrest. All except one woman gave Chicago addresses.

Puddle Jumper Brigade Takes to Wing Today

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

All of the old cartoonists' conceptions of mass aerial touring, of getting the average man and woman into the air at the controls of their own airplanes, will become an actuality today when the 1940 light plane cavalcade starts for Florida and the All American Air Maneuvers.

From the middle west—Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Ohio—from the eastern seaboard and even from Canada the so-called flivver plane pilots will begin what has come to be a dramatic and significant movement southward. Four years ago 50 of them putt-putted their way toward Miami at 65 miles an hour. This year between 700 and 1,000 are expected. And there will be more than 40 from the Chicagoland area alone.

The Puddle Jumper Brigade.

The airplanes are little single-place and two-place types [one and two seat ships] that air line and military airmen contemptuously refer to as "puddle jumpers." The pilots are amateurs, flying for sport only. Some are high school seniors or college students, middle aged automobile mechanics, doctors, welders, lawyers, and merchants. And there are many women pilots.

But their performance on its record to date has not been amateurish. These nonprofessional airmen have made the 2,500 mile round trip to Florida in midwinter—the season when the air lines have most of their troubles—with an unsurpassed safety record. In the four year history of the cruise only one person has been injured.

Start Made in 1935.

The annual cavalcade started in 1935 when a group of private flyers got together to arrange a mass cross-country tour. They pointed out that all of the country's aviation meets and most of the airways facilities were designed for the professional flyer. They decided to plan their trip for the nonprofessional.

They arranged to fly in groups of three to five with an experienced leader in each group to do the navigating. They established refueling bases in advance and plotted their courses so their longest stages between refueling halts were no more than 150 miles. And they went to Florida because they were certain to find good weather there.

Each year there were a certain number of adventures. Pilots landed their Cub or Aeronca planes in Georgia hog lots, on dirt highways near gasoline filling stations when they found themselves low on fuel, and even on mountain tops. But beyond a few broken propellers and tattered wing-tips the planes as well as pilots escaped.

Companies Take a Hand.

After the first tour the light airplane manufacturing companies joined in to do the staff work required. This year six companies are taking part: Aeronautical Corporation of America; Piper Aircraft corporation; Taylorcraft Aviation corporation, Luscombe Airplane corporation; Porterfield Aircraft corporation, and Stinson Aircraft division of Aviation Manufacturing corporation.

So large has this year's affair become that it has been organized in three wings—the eastern, the central and the southern—and each wing is to follow a different route. They will join at Orlando, Fla., on Jan. 2 and go on to Miami for the air races there on Jan. 5, 6, and 7.

There will be a plane or two in the cavalcade from nearly all the 17 larger airports in and around Chicago. From several fields there will be units of five planes. And nearly every airplane will be carrying a passenger as well as the pilot.

Dr. G. A. Stevenson Jr., 15425 Ashland avenue, Harvey, will fly his wife in their 50 horse power Porterfield. Paul T. Caraher, who operates an GIBRALTAR, Dec. 27 (AP).—British prize court proceedings were instituted today against 600 bales of cotton aboard the 6,071 ton United States steamer Oakwood.

[Lloyd's shipping register lists the Oakwood as operated by the Lykes Brothers Steamship company of Lake Charles, La. She left Houston on Nov. 26 for Lisbon and Genoa. SOLDIERS HUNT FOR BODIES IN SMOKING RUINS

Villages Destroyed; People in Panic.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Dec. 28, Thursday (AP).—Earth shocks spread new terror late last night in eastern and northern Anatolia, Reuters, British news agency, reported today in a dispatch from Ankara, Turkey.

ANKARA, Turkey, Dec. 28, Thursday (AP).—Catastrophic earthquakes in northern Anatolia have killed more than 8,000 persons, unofficial advices said early today. Officials said broken communications prevented a complete appraisal of the loss of life and damage.

Open fields became the refuge of thousands of panic stricken Anatolians shivering in icy winds. Turkish army rescue parties and fire brigades searched the smoking debris of towns and villages for bodies.

Whole Villages Destroyed.

The torches of rescue parties provided eerie illumination for the scenes of devastation.

Whole villages were destroyed. Terror maddened cattle and stray dogs stampeded thru the area which was shaken by the quakes in north central Turkey yesterday. Most water mains, railway tracks, and viaducts were shaken apart like match sticks.

Heavy damage was reported at Samsun, a Black sea port of 33,000 population; Sivas, an inland city of 34,000; Ordu, Tokat, Amasia, Yozgad and other places.

Four Shocks Felt.

Apparently centering in quake scarred Anatolia along the Black sea coast, four severe shocks were felt between 2 a. m. and 5 a. m. [6 and 9 p. m., Chicago time, Tuesday].

Terrified thousands abandoned their homes and took refuge in the open fields, fearing new shocks.

Aid was dispatched by the government and other agencies to the stricken zone, 100 to 250 miles east and northeast of this capital.

Previous Quakes Recalled.

Anatolia has suffered severely in three recent quakes. In April 19, 1938, a series of shocks lasted more than a week and 800 persons were estimated to have lost their lives. Thousands of buildings were leveled.

Subsequent earthquakes on Sept. 29, 1939, near Smyrna on the west coast, and on Nov. 23, 1939, in Anatolia killed 200 persons and 50 persons, respectively. Sixteen villages were destroyed in the latter shock.

Yesterday's quakes were registered at numerous observatories, including the West Bromwich seismograph in London, the Neuchatel and Zurich observatories in Switzerland, and the Uccle observatory in Belgium.

San Salvador Hit by Quake.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, Dec. 27 (AP).—An earthquake shook San Salvador at 5:55 a. m. today. It frightened inhabitants but caused no damage locally.

Whether the shock caused damage in the provinces is not yet known.

The quake was the second for El Salvador within a few hours. Several provinces were shaken late yesterday but no casualties or damage were reported.

Quake Jars Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 27 (AP).—An earthquake shook buildings and rattled windows in Los Angeles, Long Beach, and other nearby communities at 1:29 p. m., Chicago time, today. There were reports of serious damage.

In Long Beach the tremor lasted about 10 seconds. It was described as the most severe shock since that of March, 1933, which took 120 lives. The shock was said to be the sharpest in several years in Anaheim, Orange county. Windows rattled in Santa Ana, while Glendale, Alhambra, and Redondo Beach reported sharp shocks. San Bernardino and Riverside felt slight shocks.

Roof tiles on the weather bureau station on Terminal Island in Los Angeles harbor were cracked. In the 33 story Los Angeles city hall chandeliers swayed for a few seconds.

Denies Quake Hit Tangier.

PARIS, Dec. 28, Thursday (AP).—Havas, French news agency, in a dispatch from Casablanca, French Morocco, declared today that "the least tremor" had not been registered in Morocco. The agency denied reports from Madrid that a considerable number of deaths had occurred as the result of an earthquake at Tangier. Tangier is an internationalized zone on the Spanish Moroccan coast.

ICE COLD WATER THROWN ON BIG SALES PROSPECT

The car, a glistening model, purred sweetly. The salesman, Burt Beck, beamed. And the prospect, Angelo Ritas, was about ready to buy as they rolled merrily along the Midway last night.

"Just a little turn around Washington park," suggested Ritas, who lives at 4722 North Talman avenue.

"The very thing!" said Beck, of 4634 Drexel boulevard.

They crossed Cottage Grove avenue. But then something happened. The car missed the turn into the East drive. It continued straight ahead, jolted over the curb, ran across a few feet of lawn, then settled in the ice covered lagoon.

Beck, who weighs only 115 pounds, then opened a door, got out on the ice, and walked across it to shore.

But Ritas, who weighs 200, didn't find it so easy. When he stepped on the ice his weight broke the surface. He sank into ice water up to his waist. But he finally made the bank. Then—

"No sale!" shivered Ritas. And he called a taxi.

AIR LINES OFFER FELLOWSHIP FOR WEATHER STUDY

The meteorological committee of the Air Transport Association of America yesterday asked physicists and meteorologists for assistance in aeronautical weather forecasting. The committee established an annual fellowship of $500 for research along these lines and asked that applications for this fellowship be filed with the committee at the association's headquarters in Chicago.

The committee includes the chief meteorologists of the country's 18 domestic and foreign air transportation operators. It asked that the research be "along the lines of forecasting of icing conditions, fog, prefrontal squall lines, or some other subject . . . having a practical application to aerology."

Applicants were directed to state the subject upon which they proposed to conduct their research and name the institution where this is to be carried out. The winner of the fellowship may be any person who has the requisite degree to do graduate work on either a master's or doctor's thesis.

Vacations with Fiancée.

Theodore Patecell, 5301 West 65th street, Summit, a mechanic at the Howard Aircraft factory, is taking his 1940 vacation by flying his fiancée to Florida in his 40 horse power Cub trainer. James Merrick, 2616 Oak Park avenue, Berwyn, who owns and drives his own huge trailer truck, is also taking a vacation flying his new 50 horse power Cub sport.

Jack Vilas, an Early Bird [a pilot who flew before 1912] and one of Chicago's pioneer aviators who returned actively to piloting only a year ago, is to fly his new Stinson 105 with 75 horse power Continental motor. Dr. Alfons Bacon, 580 Hawthorne place, will fly a similar plane.

Most of the Chicagoans will be joined by groups from Dixon, Freeport, Aurora, Elgin, and Princeton, Ill., Gary, and Milwaukee, at South Bend, Ind., early tomorrow. Those with the 75 horse power planes, however, will start later in the day and join the slower machines—if all goes according to schedule—at Louisville, Ky., tomorrow night or early Saturday morning.

Chicagoans in the central wing will be joined in Louisville by other pilots from Lansing, Mich., Cincinnati, Detroit, Cleveland, and Columbus, O. From Louisville the route extends to Nashville and Chattanooga, Tenn.; to Atlanta, Ga.; Valdosta, Ocalla, and Orlando, Fla. The schedule has been loosely organized to allow for weather delays.

VOTE STATUTORY RELIEF LEVY TO HELP CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., Dec. 27 (AP).—Cuyahoga county voters today approved a 3.4 mill statutory relief levy to care for 40,000 persons for the next two years. They defeated a similar proposal in November, a few weeks before Cleveland's relief crisis.

Altho this city's 65,000 direct relief clients are not affected directly, Mayor Harold H. Burton said he was gratified.

"If it had not passed, a great additional burden might have been thrown upon the city in its share of the county relief cases," he said.

The levy is designed to care for the county's indigent sick and pay various statutory pensions. The unofficial vote was 63,713 to 27,721—favorable votes totaling about 70 per cent of those cast. A 65 per cent majority was required.

MOOSE IN DEATH LOCK WITH HORNS OF FOE IS FREED

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Dec. 27 (AP).—From the Kuskokwim river wilderness comes a rare tale of human hands releasing the "lock of death" in which two powerful bull moose had been battling.

Pilot Don Glass sighted the big animals with locked horns. He flew back to the spot two days later with Jack Benson, a wild life agent, and two other men. They heard a sharp crack as the younger bull went limp with a broken neck. They rushed in and hog tied both animals. With a small hand saw, Benson severed the entangled antlers of the victorious forest monarch. Released, it trotted away. The younger bull died soon.

Death in bull moose battles is no rarity, but wild life authorities said it was the first case in which they had heard of men freeing the combatants.

MILK IN PAPER CONTAINERS HIT NEW YORK FANCY

Visitor from Chicago Is Duly Impressed.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 27.—For more than five years New Yorkers have exercised a right currently denied Chicagoans by the Chicago city council—the privilege of buying milk in light paper containers.

The visiting Chicagoan who has taken a room with kitchenette in Manhattan for a few days finds it easy to understand why at present about 30 per cent, or 500,000 quarts daily, of the milk store deliveries in New York are made in paper.

Milk in paper is available in delicatessens, small groceries, and the larger stores. It has not the weight, bulk, nor the unyielding shape of glass bottles. The purchaser can carry it home in a sackful of kitchen supplies without the subconscious care which attends toting a bottle of milk. It fits handily in a small ice box; can be opened and resealed with ease, and the milk tastes no different despite contact with the paraffin container lining.

Cost is Cent More.

At present, milk in paper costs about one cent more in New York stores than milk in glass, not including the three to five cent deposit on the glass bottle. Paper containers are, of course, thrown away and forgotten once they are empty.

If you live in Brooklyn, you can buy a two quart paper container for three cents less than you can buy two one quart glass bottles, and have it delivered to your home. Brooklynites buy milk in glass for 15 cents a quart. They may buy two quart paper containers for 27 cents.

This privilege will be extended to residents of all the boroughs within four or five months, spokesmen for the major dairies said today. The two quart containers will go on sale in the rest of the city as fast as concerns which make the paper bottling machines can manufacture and install their equipment.

Most Users Buy Grade B.

Most New Yorkers drink grade B milk, which contains about 3.7 per cent butter fat. Grade A—premium milk—contains about 4 per cent butter fat, and sells for 18 cents, the highest price in the country. All Chicago's milk is grade A and sells now for 13 cents delivered.

Major dairies say that almost 80 per cent of their New York sales are of grade B milk. It is referred to here as the standard product.

Paper milk containers came to New York thru the schools. The dairy people, faced with large noon-day orders from the school children, started making deliveries in paper about 10 years ago—the large volume compensating for the slightly higher cost of the containers.

Sold in Stores 5 Years.

About five years ago, the installation of paper bottling plants began and paper became available slowly in stores—at first the large ones, then gradually the delicatessens and neighborhood groceries.

Home deliveries in paper were started earlier this year in experiments with two quart containers in several villages adjacent to New York. The test showed a satisfactory response, so the experimentation moved to Brooklyn. Having proved itself there, plans are going forward for inclusion of the entire city.

Chicagoans cannot look forward to purchasing milk in paper until the city council acts upon a change in the language of the milk ordinance recommended by the board of health, and permitting sales in paper. The board approved paper several months ago, but the council has failed to take action.

MILK UNION HOLDS ELECTION TODAY; FIRST IN 18 YEARS

Members of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union will go to the polls today in the union's first election of officers in 18 years. The executive board of the Teamsters' Joint council of Chicago will supervise the election, which was ordered after a faction of the union protested that the present officers have held their positions without a vote since 1921. Polls will be open from 11 a. m. to 8 p. m. in the hall at 330 South Marshfield avenue.

Candidates were nominated two weeks ago. The drivers voted at that time to hold an election every three years. They also slashed the salaries of the officers.

Robert G. Fitchie, veteran president, will be opposed by Henry Weber, a leader of the rival faction, and by Al M. Grant, H. Van Asten, and Walter Thomsen. Other candidates are: vice president, James Kennedy, incumbent, and Pete Didier; secretary treasurer, Steve Summer, 90 year old incumbent, Thomas J. Haggerty, George Bender, and William Dalesandro; recording secretary, Fred Dahms, incumbent, Pete Hoban, William Molan, and Andrew Evans; business representatives, Ray Bryant and Al Richards, incumbents, and Joe Therry, Nick Bauerle, Stuart Simons, Herman Meyer, Dan McDonald, and Max Elstner.

Havana Cook Gives Birth to Quintuplets; All Die

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 27 (AP).—Dr. José Ramirez Olivella, director of Havana's maternity hospital, today announced the birth of quintuplets—all girls—to Oscilia Valdes, 22 years old, an unmarried cook. The physician said two of the girls died at birth and the other three lived only a few hours. Dr. Ramirez Olivella added that the lack of prenatal care to the mother caused their death.

SUE 3 MILK FIRMS TO FORCE MARKET PACT COMPLIANCE

Suits charging two Chicago dairies and a Wisconsin farmers' marketing agency with failure to file reports with the federal milk marketing control were filed by the government yesterday in the federal district court. An injunction was requested to prevent the defendants from further violating the control order issued by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

The Chicago companies are the Wrightwood dairy, 2942 North Ashland avenue, and the White Eagle dairy, 4920 South Loomis street. The farmers' agency is the Kenosha Milk Products company. N. J. Ciadakis, federal milk administrator, said the reports were necessary each month so that the blended price to farmers could be figured.

The federal control went into effect in September. The blended milk price for farmers was $1.90 a hundred pounds [46.5 quarts] in November. Since the control pool began to operate retail milk prices have increased from 11 to 13 cents a quart.

ADEQUATE ARMY FOR DEFENSE IS WOODRING PLEA

Reviews Gains and Outlines Needs.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—Describing the national defense program as a protective shield instead of a rattling sword, War Secretary Harry H. Woodring today called upon congress to provide the nation with a well-rounded army, complete in personnel, organization and training.

Harry H. Woodring.

The plea was made in the secretary's annual report to President Roosevelt. Woodring made no suggestion as to the size of the army. He said that question is in the province of the people. He did emphasize that he will insist on an efficient and thoroly prepared force whether it be set at 450,000, 500,000 or 600,000 men.

"These are days," said Woodring, "when by the threat of the exercise of armed might, or by the actual employment of military violence, the maps of the world are being changed over night. The peoples of the world have lost faith in international agreements which have as their purpose the preservation of peace.

Road to Peace Is Defense.

"Under such circumstances there is one road along which a peace loving people can travel with security. That road is a national defense highway, with a foundation of such firmness as to assure the support of any required military load.

"National defense no longer can be considered in terms of dollars and cents. Nor can national defense longer be determined upon the number of men—the mere numerical enrolments of regulars, guardsmen, or reservists. One million naked savages armed with a million spears and a million shields would be slaughtered by 100 men armed with 100 of the army's new shoulder rifles and a baker's dozen of the army's new tanks.

"The determination of the numerical strength of the army of the United States with its various components lies with the congress of the United States. Be that determined total what it may—and that constitutional dictum devolves upon the representatives of a democratic people—there is no gainsaying the fact that to those upon whom we call for immediate action in the defense of the republic must be afforded complete equipment, clothing, supplies, subsistence, transportation, training and instruction to prepare them for any eventuality presupposed by military exigency. Our military establishment must be an 'army in being.'"

Progress Is Told.

In reviewing progress made in the army from 1933 to June 30, 1938, Woodring recounted development of the powerful striking arm in the general headquarters air force, the beginning of motorization and mechanization and experimentation of organization changes; all beginning to bear fruit in the formation of streamlined divisions.

The secretary said that in his last annual report he had told about deficiencies in organization, equipment and personnel and urged that they be corrected if the country is to have a defensive force adequate to its needs. He also recalled that he had urged that congress make the Panama canal impregnable, augment the air force and provide for prompt procurement of critical items in the event of war.

Congress made available one billion dollars, a staggering sum, Woodring acknowledged. However, he added, he is positive the majority of the American people fully approve of any expenditures which have as their sole purpose the assurance of the security and peace of the republic.

Now Seek 2½ Billions.

The Woodring report, released a week before the President will send his request to congress for a record peace time national defense appropriation of approximately 2 billion 250 million dollars, avoided any suggestion to congress as to the size of the army the war department will seek to create out of its share of the fund.

This omission was seen as confirming reports that the President will not try to swell the army, but to arm it with modern weapons. Mr. Roosevelt stepped up the personnel authorization of the army, navy, and marine corps on the outbreak of the Eropean war.

The army personnel limit was moved up from 167,000 to 225,000 and that of the national guard from 200,000 to 235,000. The navy personnel was moved forward from 110,000 to 145,000 and that of the marine corps from 18,247 to 25,000. The army and national guard with the organized reserve would provide an initial protective force of 600,000.

The army high command strongly advised the President against further increase at this time on the ground that it is more important to perfect organization, training, and material to give the nation a complete small army than to provide for an unorganized, ill-equipped and undertrained large force.

It is acknowledged the army is woefully lacking in modern equipment and is far behind in modern organization. A growing number of officers hold that even the newest pieces of artillery are obsolete by comparison with similar weapons in other armies and the army should concentrate on improvement rather than rearming with inadequate equipment.

Urges Coördinated Planning.

There also is a firm conviction that the army should perfect a program, based upon sound organization, and follow out the program rather than build a patch quilt by a series of unrelated appropriations.

In the light of the European wars, Woodring amplified a statement he made in his 1938 reports that in a military sense the Americas no longer are continents.

"As secretary of war, I do not visualize hemispherical defense as a pan-American protective alliance," he said. "All those considerations are political and do not lie within the province of the department of war of this nation.

"It is the simple fact that the range and destructive potentialities of airplanes have so shortened distance and time that any hostile air base within striking proximity of the Panama canal would prove a vital threat to that waterway and to the security of the United States. In speaking of hemispherical defense, I am speaking of the defense of this republic."

PAULETTE GODDARD.

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—Paulette Goddard was ordered today to show cause why she should not be punished for contempt for failure to appear in Supreme court in connection with a $150,000 libel suit against the Colliers Publishing company.

The suit was filed earlier at Syracuse by Joseph R. Levy, who asserted the company libeled him in a Collier's magazine article purporting to deny he was the movie actress' father.

She was subpenaed to appear in the New York court to give a deposition in connection with the Syracuse case. The publishing company had sought her testimony.

When she did not appear this afternoon, defense counsel applied to Justice Aaron Steuer to hold her in contempt. The justice signed the contempt order returnable Jan. 16.

At Syracuse, Levy's petition said the Collier's article, published Sept. 2, 1939, had damaged his reputation and caused him to lose his health and his job. The article, he said, described him as Miss Goddard's stepfather when he actually is her father.

LIBRARY CHIEFS ATTACK BAN ON NAME OF LENIN

Mayor of Cambridge Says He Won't Sign Measure.

Members of the American Library association assailed yesterday as dangerously un-American the action of the city council of Cambridge, Mass., taken Tuesday and reported in news dispatches, in voting to ban the words Lenin and Leningrad from all printed matter in that city. The association is meeting in annual convention at the Drake hotel.

Michael A. Sullivan, the Cambridge councilman who proposed the measure, which was passed unanimously, said he did so to combat the forces of communism. Leningrad, the former capital of Russia, was previously known as St. Petersburg and Petrograd. It was renamed in honor of Lenin, who is called the father of the Russian revolution.

Called Blow to Democracy.

"The Cambridge action is a blow to democracy and an infringement on the freedom of the press," said Forrest Spaulding, public librarian of Des Moines, Ia., and chairman of the committee on censorship for the library association. "Our danger is not in knowing of Lenin and other revolutionaries but in not knowing of them.

"This may be the beginning of another crazy superpatriotic wave that will bring back the burning of books in America. During the world war, we saw the books of Nietzsche and other German philosophers excluded, and Stephen Crane's 'Red Badge of courage' declared illegal by the war department.

"We already have limited censorship. John Steinbeck's book, 'The Grapes of Wrath,' has been ordered out of several cities and counties; Ann Morrow Lindbergh's 'Listen, the Wind' was excluded from one city because her husband accepted a German decoration. Hitler's 'Mein Kampf' has had only a limited circulation in America. We would all have been far better off if we had read it earlier and understood the workings of the Fuehrer's mind."

Harvard Would Be Hard Hit.

The anticommunism measure would eliminate every encyclopedia, every book of commentary, all annual editions of periodicals for the last 10 years, all modern histories, and all up to date geographies housed within the city limits. Harvard university alone has many thousands of volumes which would be affected by the ruling.

Fears that the resolution would become law were dissipated when Mayor John W. Lyons of Cambridge said last night he would not sign it. Such legislation must be signed in 10 days to be legal. Police Chief Timothy J. Leahy said the measure contained no provision for enforcement and added, "I don't think we'll do anything about it."

PETRILLO DENIES BAN ON LEWIS' NAME, BUT IT'S OUT OF TWO SHOWS

James C. Petrillo, head of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, denied yesterday that he intended to force two loop shows to delete references to John L. Lewis, head of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. But company managers of both shows, George White's "Scandals" and "The Man Who Came to Dinner," said last night that the lines would not be heard while the shows stay in Chicago.

"I was only kidding when the suggestion was made that it would be better if the references were deleted," Petrillo said. "I don't want to be placed in the position of being considered either a dictator or a censor. I am always ready to fight Lewis, but I don't want to tell the public what it can see or hear."

SCIENCE OFFERS MEANS TO SOLVE MANKIND'S ILLS

Savants Told: Preserve Freedom of Thought.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Dec. 27—The American Association for the Advancement of Science, which opened its 105th meeting here today, offers no utopia or golden age to mankind in the measurable future, but it does present a method and a way of doing things in which it has had much success and which is recommended as a way out of many present day problems.

Dr. Wesley C. Mitchell.

While thousands of scientists attended 40 sectional meetings and discussed new phases of their work in the inanimate and biological worlds, an effort to integrate all this with the public was made tonight by Dr. Wesley C. Mitchell, retiring president of the association and a distinguished economist of Columbia university. Similar efforts will be made by other leading scientists during the week.

Finds Public Approval Waning.

Dr. Mitchell sees an ebb at present in the tide of public approval of science, and finds a disposition to blame science for technological unemployment, the rise of autocracies, the suppression of freedom, and the heightened horrors of war. He warned, however:

"No fit of impatience over delays and relapses should make us forget that knowledge is won step by step, thru the toilsome efforts of thousands of men. To jump from this work with its numberless failures and its gradually cumulative successes, expecting to land in Utopia, is to give up faith in science for faith in magic.

"But science cannot flourish in the future and yield the fruits for which we hope unless freedom of thought prevails. That is a condition we have been inclined to take for granted as part of the heritage our predecessors won. Now we realize that what they fought to win we must fight to maintain."

Says Social Science Lags.

Dr. Mitchell asserted that the most urgent item in the unfinished business of science is the need to increase knowledge of human behavior. He was a little skeptical of social science programs.

"We all know that the social sciences lag far behind the natural sciences," he declared.

"For a long time to come we shall have to form our opinions on many social issues in the light of common sense rather than that of science. As citizens we shall do well to suspect the intelligence, the candor, or the disinterestedness of those who promise sure cures for social ills."

Shall Boy Kiss Girl on First Date? Women Are Against It

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Dec. 27.—How men and women differ and how they agree on matters of personal relationships formed the subject of a report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today. The study on which the report was based was made by Dr. T. M. Carter, head of the department of education and psychology at Albion college, Michigan.

These reactions to every day contacts, the professor said, may prove to be of more importance in life than any political theories an individual may hold. Following are some of the findings in the test, in which 173 men and 140 women were interrogated:

Both men and women approve when a young man dates many girls instead of one, and the young man who prefers the company of his mother to that of young women is given slight approval by the men. Women object noticeably.

It's O. K. to Wear Shorts.

Neither men nor women think it proper for a man to object when a woman wears shorts. They agree that a man should not urge the smoking habit on a woman.

A young man who expects to kiss a girl when he has his first date with her calls for the mild disapproval of other men. Women disapprove strongly. Becoming engaged frequently brings sharp criticism from both men and women.

Likewise they disapprove when women wear mannish clothes, or don satins and georgettes for work. Women who wear house dress and cap to the neighborhood store excite mild disapproval of the men, but the women object vigorously. Men—to a greater extent than women—object to women who use lipstick in public.

Baby Talk Is Out.

The woman who uses baby talk excites greater disapproval than the woman who telephones men hoping for a date, or one who asks a man to dance with her.

Men react more unfavorably to yellow teeth and tobacco breath than do women.

Men like people who can take the opposite side of an argument without becoming disagreeable, and they don't think it's right to criticize the play of partners. Women are lenient in this matter, but are more interested in clean finger nails than are the men.

As to frequent borrowers—well, every one, it seems, disapproves of them.

TWO REDS FINED, ONE OUSTED FOR FALSE REGISTRY

Soviet Agent Status Kept Secret from U. S.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—Two Russian agents and a soviet corporation pleaded guilty today to violating the foreign agent registration act and were fined $2,500 the maximum under the law.

Boris Nikolsky, president of Bookniga, Inc., and I. A. Ilyin, secretary-treasurer, admitted withholding material information in registering themselves and the corporation with the state department. They pleaded guilty before Justice Jennings Bailey an hour after indictment by a federal grand jury.

Nikolsky was fined $1,000. He said he would return to Russia on the next boat. Ilyin was fined only $500. It also was agreed that Bookniga, Inc., which was fined $1,000, would be dissolved and that a book shop in New York thru which Russian literature had been disseminated would be closed.

The justice department said Nikolsky formerly was chief of the export division of Mezhkniga of Moscow, the official soviet propaganda agency. It said Ilyin also was treasurer and chief accountant of Amtorg Trading corporation, the soviet trading organization in New York.

Attorney General Frank Murphy said in Detroit today that evidence of sabotage and espionage in Detroit, Flint and Lansing, Mich., will be presented next week in Washington to a special grand jury. The automotive industry and the war department have been cooperating for some time on various projects connected with munitions and armament.

"There are foreign agents at work in this country and we know who they are," said Murphy. "They will be prosecuted."

Nicholas Dozenberg, a former secret agent of the soviet army intelligence service and the second most important communist involved in American passport fraud charges, was indicted in New York today by the federal grand jury for using two passports obtained thru false statements.

Federal agents said Dozenberg, arrested in Oregon early this month, only recently had severed his connection with the Red army. He is charged with having obtained a passport in the name of Nicholas L. Dallant, on March 23, 1934, on the basis of an application in which he swore that he was born in Bismarck, N. D. The government says he was born in Russia and his name is Dozenberg, not Dallant.

In 1934 he had the passport renewed at the United States consulate in Tientsin, China, and repeated the false statements. He will be arraigned tomorrow.

YOUTH ANTIWAR CONGRESS OPENS FOUR DAY PARLEY

The second annual National Youth Anti-War congress opened a four day session yesterday in International House at the University of Chicago. Frank Littell of New York, president, said that the antiwar group now represents 3,500,000 youths. It was organized in May, 1938, in protest against the "Russian domination" of the American Student union.

R. Babu Lal Singh.

Five hundred delegates are expected to attend the sessions. Among the guests are R. Babu Lal Singh of India, member of the Indian National Congress party [Ghandi's], a student from the Canadian Commonwealth Federation, and a Porto Rican youth.

The convention is open to all American youths who are opposed to America's entrance into any war.

U. S. to Simplify Barometer Readings for Accuracy

New York, Dec. 27 [Special].—The millibar will replace the inch in barometic readings on daily official weather maps of the federal weather bureaus thruout the country next year, according to Dr. James H. Kimball, meteorologist of the New York weather bureau, the change will make pressure readings three times as accurate. A millibar is 1-1,000 of a bar, and a bar is normal atmospheric pressure expressed as 29.5306 inches of mercury at the temperature of melting ice at sea level at latitude 45. Readings of the maps will range from 948 to 1,050 millibars—28 to 31 inches on the barometer.

RED INVASION FLAYED AT U. OF W. MEETING AS BROWDER LISTENS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 27.—With Earl Browder, general secretary of the communist party in America, sitting only a few feet away, Joel Seidman of New York City, representing the League for Industrial Democracy, assailed Russia's invasion of Finland as "one of the most horrible things the soviet union ever has done" before delegates to the fifth annual conference of the American Student union here tonight.

Seidman was one of three speakers on a symposium dealing with the domestic and international aspects of the soviets. The others were Browder and Gen. Victor A. Yakhontoff, former officer of the Russian imperial army under the czar.

The audience, which was divided about equally between the 425 delegates and townspeople, who paid 35 cents apiece in the expectation of some excitement, was well behaved and good natured, almost apathetic, during the two hours of speechmaking.

Sometimes the audience laughed loudly, as when Gen. Yakhontoff said that Russia's army marched into Poland because the latter's people wanted to be liberated.

Agreement to End Strike of 45,000 Belgian Miners

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Dec. 27 (AP).—Mine owners and miners tonight reached an agreement that will end tomorrow a strike of about 45,000 workers. The men walked out on Christmas day in protest against orders increasing the work week from 45 to 48 hours. The owners agreed to delay the change until after a labor congress scheduled for this week-end, at least.

HOOVER CONFERS IN CITY TODAY ON HELP FOR FINNS

Herbert Hoover, national chairman of the Finnish relief fund, will arrive in Chicago aboard the 20th Century limited this morning to confer over local progress of the drive with Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the Chicago committee.

Hoover has been in New York City directing the campaign from national headquarters.

Clarke, who is president of the City National Bank and Trust company, said last night that of Chicago's $100,000 quota, a total of $34,000 has been received from 2,000 contributions to date. Most of these gifts were in response to letter sent to 5,000 individuals. This morning 2,800 Chicago corporations will receive similar letters asking their aid in reaching the quota.

Donations acknowledged yesterday include $1,000 each from Montgomery Ward & Co. and the Pure Oil company; $500 each from Arthur Anderson & Co., the City National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, the Felt & Tarrant company, and the Quaker Oats company; $250 from the Dryden Rubber company, and $100 each from the W. A. Alexander company and John Clay & Co.

2 FREED AFTER POSING AS G-MEN.

Gunnar Eckman, 1642 Division street, and Walter Szymanski, 1436 Erie street, were dismissed by Judge Jay A. Schiller of the State street court yesterday on charges of disorderly conduct. They were arrested Tuesday when they said they were G-men.

TELLS HOW REDS RULE CIO UNIONS AT STOCKYARDS

Only Communists Obtain Office, Says Witness.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—Evidence that a small minority of communists in key official positions dominate the Chicago local unions of the Packinghouse Workers Organizing Committee was received by the Dies committee on un-American activities at a hearing in Chicago on Nov. 17. The P. W. O. C. is an affiliate of John L. Lewis' Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The record of the secret hearings held by the Dies committee in Chicago has not been published. Alphonso Malachi of 5750 South Park boulevard, Chicago, former president of the Armour local of the C. I. O. Packinghouse Workers' union, told the committee that communists control all the local unions in the Chicago area, as well as the Packinghouse Workers' Council of Chicago, which is the central body representing all the locals.

Officers All Communists.

Malachi became a member of the communist party shortly after his election as president of the large Armour local in April, 1937. When he appeared before the Dies committee, he identified various officials of the P. W. O. C. as members of the communist party and testified that he had attended communist meetings with them.

No union member can be elected to an important position unless he is a member of the communist party, or takes orders from the communists, Malachi told the committee.

Certified by NLRB.

At an election ordered by the National Labor Relations board, a majority of the 7,000 employés of Armour & Co. in Chicago voted on Nov. 21 in favor of local 347 of the P. W. O. C. as their collective bargaining representative, and the board so certified the union. Prior to the election, there had been many work stoppages, strikes, and threats of strikes.

The Dies committee held its hearings in Chicago only a few days before the election in the Armour plant and the record was kept secret to avoid the charge that the committee's purpose was to assist the A. F. of L. and to injure the C. I. O. If congress extends the committee's authority at the next session, however, there will be public hearings on the communist activities in the Chicago stockyards.

Gets Orders from Lewis.

Malachi told the committee that he became interested in the C. I. O. shortly after settlement of the General Motors strike, early in 1937.

"I wrote to John L. Lewis in Washington, told him that I thought it was about time—or a good time—for the C. I. O. to come and organize the stockyards, and he wrote back to me and told me to get in touch with Van A. Bittner," Malachi related. Bittner was a regional director of the C. I. O. steel workers' organizing committee and later became national chairman of the P. W. O. C.

Malachi said he joined the C. I. O. packinghouse workers' local, became very active and was elected president. Shortly afterward, he said, Frank McCarthy, a P. W. O. C. organizer, now director of the Iowa district, persuaded him that the best way to learn trade unionism was to join the communist party. He joined in May, 1937.

Tells of Plant Units.

When asked what branch or section of the party he joined, Malachi replied:

"They have what they call different units out there in the yards. Each house has its own unit. Take like Armour, Swift, and Wilson, they have the different units for each house; and the small houses are combined in one unit. The small houses, such as Miller & Hart, Brennan, Illinois Brand, and Roberts & Oakes, they call those the small houses and they have a unit among them."

When Malachi declared that all the leaders of the Packing House Workers' union were members of the communist party, he was told to confine his testimony to union officials whom he knew, of his own knowledge, to be communists. He testified that he had attended communist meetings with Henry Johnson, assistant national director of the PWOC; Herbert March, PWOC director for the Chicago area, and Sigmund Wlodarzcyk, a PWOC organizer.

Only Communists Get Posts.

Malachi said he knew that William Mooney, another PWOC organizer, was a communist, but had not attended meetings with him.

"All the others told me that he was," Malachi said.

"The reason I know," he testified later, "is that it is a fact you had to become a member of the communist party before you could be an organizer."

Others named by Malachi as members of the communist party included Peter Brown, a PWOC organizer, and Arthur Shelton. McCarthy, the witness said, told him Shelton was a member of the communist party.

Dress Up Constitution.

When the Packinghouse Workers' council of Chicago was organized, Malachi said, he became recording secretary, McCarthy became president, and Brown became vice president. Malachi said he was on the constitution committee, being one of the executives.

"When this constitution was drawn up, it was carefully arranged that a majority of the members [that is, members of the council] be members of the party," Malachi said. "Before the constitution was brought back to the party to be approved, a few of us communists got together and straightened it out, just how it should read, strike out certain things we didn't like . . . the members of the party passed on the final draft."

McCarthy, Brown, and himself, the witness said, met in Forum hall on 43d street, described as a dance hall, to put the constitution in final shape.

Gets Shouldered Out of Job.

In 1938, Malichi said, the P. W. O. C. locals held a convention and decided to form a policy committee, with two representatives from each local. He said he wanted to be elected to the policy committee, but was opposed by March, because he was growing "cold" toward the communist party, and the Armour local selected Herbert Bezenhofer and Oscar Wilson, both "strong party men."

"I objected to these two men being the sole persons to tell just how the workers at the Armour plant were to act and whether they should strike," Malachi testified. "If the policy committee decided they should strike in the whole United States to get a contract, then those two men would have power to call out all of the workers at Armour's, whereas my contention was that each employé should vote on the strike."

Quarrels with Communists.

Malachi said he quarreled with the communists about various other matters, including union assessments for Labor's Non-Partisan league, the C. I. O. political agency, and the communist contention that "your boss is always against you and you are not supposed to talk to the boss alone."

Finally, he said, the communists took up his party membership book, accused him of embezzling $97 in union funds, to which he was entitled for expenses on union business; haled him before a kangaroo court and expelled him from the union.

CITES TESTIMONY AT NLRB INQUIRY IN COURT APPEAL

The Inland Steel company yesterday asked the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to take note of testimony given Dec. 20 before the house committee investigating the National Labor Relations board. The company filed a motion for leave to enter a transcript of this testimony in its petition to set aside an NRLB ruling. The ruling directed the company to recognize the Steel Workers' Organizing committee, a C. I. O. affiliate, as bargaining agent for its employés.

Ernest S. Ballard, attorney for the steel company, stated in his petition that the testimony before the house committee would show that Nathan Witt, secretary of the labor board, conspired with SWOC officials to bring about a controversy which would involve Inland Steel in a labor board hearing.

He also asserted that the testimony would show that the trial examiner, Charles A. Wood, had prejudged the case, sending telegrams to labor board officials in Washington indicating that he had made up his mind to rule against the company before the testimony was completed.

REDS CALL MORE TROOPS TO SEND AGAINST FINLAND

Add to 4½ Million Men Already Under Arms.

first set out to cut thru Finland's "waistline."

Finnish patrols crossed the frontier "without intention of invasion but because of tactical necessity in view of military conditions within the country," Finnish sources in northern Finland said.

It was at Salla that the Russians previously were reported driven back 50 miles after having reached 80 miles into the country, or nearly half way to the Swedish frontier.

Ski Battalion Advances.

The first crossing into Russian territory was officially reported several days ago at a point 230 miles south of Salla, near Lieksa. The Finns were reported to be improving their positions in the Lieksa area.

Copenhagen dispatches said a ski battalion was engaged in a daring thrust at the Murmansk railway, which is approximately 150 miles from the Finnish border at that point.

In the Salla district, however, the railway swings to within 50 miles of the border.

Attacking Russian positions in the Petsamo area the Finns found several dozen tanks encircling the Russian positions, forming improvised fortresses—like pioneers of the American west used covered wagons to defend themselves against Indian attacks.

The third contingent of Swedish volunteers to fight for Finland entrained tonight. The number was not disclosed, but their leaders indicated their present objective was to get three regiments into action on Finnish soil as soon as possible.

Finns Smash New Red Drives.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 27 (AP).—Unsuccessful Red army attempts to storm Karelian isthmus defenses were announced tonight by the Finnish army, while Russian bombers hammered again at key Finnish cities.

Supported by heavy artillery barrages, the Russian troops attacked repeatedly in the isthmus sector, but, the Finns said, defense lines held. The isthmus is the shortest route to Helsingfors.

"North of Lake Hatjalahti the enemy launched an attack at noon, but was repulsed and eight tanks were destroyed," the communique said. "The enemy again tried to force Aihti, but the attempt failed.

"In the evening a new attempt to cross Lake Suvanto was begun at Kelja. The battle continues. At Taipalejoki an attack supported by artillery fire was repulsed."

Bomb Munitions Center.

The Russian air force struck repeatedly at Tampere, strategic Finnish munitions center 100 miles northwest of Helsingfors, and other cities in a series of simultaneous raids. A Finnish communique acknowledged civilian casualties in some localities.

"In a raid at Kotka, on the southern coast, four civilians were killed and a few wounded," the report said. "Elsewhere there was no loss of life."

A dozen bombers appeared over Tampere this morning, but dropped only a few bombs. They returned two hours later, however, and dumped at least 50 bombs, destroying some dwellings and causing a few casualties.

The important seaport of Turku [Abo], on the southwest coast, was bombed twice, but most of the bombs fell into the water and caused no damage. Helsingfors, Viipuri, Hameenlinna, and other towns had air raid alarms.

Make Only Scouting Flights.

Finnish air operations were confined to scouting flights and driving off enemy aircraft. One Russian bomber was shot down. Red planes also were active over the isthmus supporting ground operations, but the Finns said damage to their military installations was "wholly insignificant."

The Finnish army communique told of the Russians losing about 50 men in patrol skirmishes northeast of Lake Ladoga. An enemy attack in the direction of Syskyjarvi, five miles northeast of the lake and just inside the border, was reported beaten back.

Northeast of Lieksa, where the Russians were reported to have suffered decisive defeats this week, the communique said "the enemy was retreating toward the frontier in the direction of Kivaara. Our own troops advanced to Laklavaara, capturing seven tanks.

"North of Suomussalmi, fighting took place at Piispajarvi, where one tank was captured from the enemy. Elsewhere there was nothing important."

[ADVERTISMENT]

WHAT TO DO FOR ECZEMA ITCHING AND BURNING

Wash the affected parts with Resinol Soap and warm water to soften scales and crusts. Resinol Soap is suggested because it contains no excess of free alkali, and cleanses the tender skin so carefully. Dry by patting with a soft cloth—do not rub.

Many doctors recommend an oily ointment because it holds the medication in contact with the irritated skin surface, giving prolonged action. Resinol Ointment meets this requirement, and does even more. For nearly 45 years it has been—and still is—successfully used to relieve quickly the itching and burning of eczema. It contains soothing ingredients that aid healing.

Use Resinol Ointment today and enjoy comfort tomorrow. Get a jar, also a cake of Resinol Soap, at any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 87, Baltimore, Md.

SWEDEN SIGNS WAR TRADE PACT WITH ENGLAND

Normal Flow of Goods Aim of Agreement.

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—The economic warfare ministry announced tonight that a war trade agreement had been signed between Great Britain and Sweden.

The ministry said this agreement was designed to adapt British-Swedish trade arrangements to wartime conditions, with a view to maintaining trade between the two countries at the normal level.

A joint standing committee will be set up to meet periodically.

Swiss Balk at Pact.

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 27 (AP).—A Swiss mission sent to Paris Nov. 14 to negotiate an economic agreement with Great Britain and France returned to Berne today to report that they were far from agreement with the empires and to get new instructions.

Swiss sources said the Berne government had refused to accept the empires' interpretation of blockade procedure. They added that the Swiss were determined to maintain economic independence at all costs, altho they were banning all trade between belligerent states across Swiss territory and all arms and munitions trade with the belligerents.

The Swiss negotiators may return to Paris in January to continue the conversations.

Germany Gets Russian Oils.

BERLIN, Dec. 27 (AP).—The first railway shipments of minerals, oils and grains from Russia to Germany have been delivered in the last few days.

The deliveries, carrying out trade provisions that accompanied the soviet-German friendship pact, were made possible by a railway agreement opening nine border stations in former Poland and regulating tariffs.

At the same time German and Russian air lines agreed to begin regular lane service between Berlin and Moscow Jan. 21.

ESKIMOS, INDIANS OF CANADA EAGER TO FIGHT RUSSIA

EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 27 (AP).—A movement for enlistment in the Finnish army is growing among Eskimos and Indians of the Canadian arctic, Pilot North Sawle of the Canadian Airways said today on his return from Aklavik. They fear soviet Russian encroachment on the western Arctic. "But we don't fight under a general," one Indian told Sawle. "We want to fight in our own way."

Give Comfort to Enemy.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 27.—Three Finnish soldiers on skis were reported today to have glided noiselessly behind the Russian lines and set fire to a shack in which were stored more than 2,000 pairs of skis. Soon the Russian troops emerged from their tents. They shouted with glee and got close to the bonfire to keep warm thru the night.

POPE PIUS PAYS VISIT TO ITALY'S KING AND QUEEN

Rare Event Marks New Church-State Unity.

ROME, Dec. 28, Thursday (AP).—Pope Pius XII, visited Italy's king and queen today in a rare display of papal pomp and royal ceremony signifying the ever closer relations between the Vatican and the Italian state.

The event marked the first visit by any pope to the ruler of the present Italian empire and the first call on a temporal prince in more than 70 years. It formally repaid the visit to his holiness by King Vittorio Emanuele and Queen Elena a week ago.

Thousands Line Streets.

Tens of thousands of Romans lined the streets to cheer the papal procession and receive the holy father's benediction.

The occasion, rich with color and formality, symbolized the final dissolution of any discord over unified Italy's seizure of Rome from the pope in 1870 and the city's designation as the Italian capital.

In protest the popes became voluntary prisoners in the Vatican until 1929, when the Lateran peace was signed.

In some foreign eyes the ceremonial also signified possible coöperation between the Vatican and the government toward eventual peace efforts, but Fascist authorities disclaimed any coördination of foreign policies.

Three Cardinals in Party.

Three cardinals and a host of dignitaries of the papal court made up a procession of 18 automobiles for the visit. Among them was the papal secretary of state, Cardinal Luigi Maglione.

Across St. Peter's square, at the unmarked boundary of Vatican City, a royal mission of six officials of the king's court greeted the papal party. Italian soldiers lined the way to the Quirinal palace, which once was the home of the popes.

At the palace steps was the king's master of ceremonies to lead the way to the throne room. Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano represented the government.

A special throne with three seats gave the pope a place between the king and queen for a private visit after the members of the two courts bowed from the room.

Archbishop of Canterbury Proposes Prayers for Finns

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—The archbishop of Canterbury suggested today that all the people of Great Britain pray for Finland in church services on Dec. 31. In a letter to the London Times, he proposed the prayers as "special remembrance of Finland and its brave people in their hour of trial."

CHINESE PILOTS BEAT OFF ATTACK BY 99 JAP PLANES; DOWN 3

HONGKONG, Dec. 27 (AP).—Chinese sources asserted today that Chinese fighting planes made in Russia had shot down three and damaged 10 of 99 Japanese war planes raiding Lanchow, capital of Kansu province in northwest China. The air battle occurred yesterday when Japanese squadrons attempted to rain explosives on Chinese military bases near Lanchow.

Arrow indicates scene of air battle.

The Chinese planes were reported to have forced the attacking formations to break up and drop their bombs before reaching their objectives. Lanchow is on the great central Asia highway by which Russian war materials reach China. The Japanese have struck repeatedly at it in recent weeks.

WAR PRISONERS JAM FALKLANDS; 107 PUT ON BOAT

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 27.—The British cruiser Cumberland arrived at the Falkland Islands yesterday with 107 prisoners taken from German steamers sunk by British warships recently near the River Plate. There are so many German prisoners at the Falklands that they are said to be a problem despite a defense force sent to the islands to guard them. Consequently the Cumberland's prisoners were not landed but were taken aboard one of several German vessels that British warships have captured and taken to the islands.

EXPECT 180,000 TYROL GERMANS TO LEAVE ITALY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 27.—Germany expects that of the 300,000 Germans living in the Tyrol under Italian rule who must choose between Italian and German citizenship before Jan. 1 nearly 180,000 will cast their lot with Germany.

They will abandon their homes in which their families have lived for generations and seek new homes on German soil. They are trying to find homes in the Bavarian Alps. However, it is understood that a number of them will be settled in mountainous regions which the Germans took from the Poles.

WHAT A LOVE-LETTER!

By CALEB

"I HAVE scarce patience to write prose, and my pen is stealing into verse every time I kisse your letter. I am sure the poore paper smarts for my idolatry." So runs the rare love-letter in our ninth floor William Randolph Hearst Collection—written by 24-year-old John Dryden, on May 3, 1655, to the beautiful cousin of whom he was enamored. The youthful author of Alexander's Feast and Ode on St. Cecilia's Day was soon to quit Cambridge—but alas! the girl of his ardent fancies died unmarried about 1714.

In this same room reposes a veritable galaxy of beautiful, historic and priceless objects—part of the 3,500 pieces comprising our current selection from the $25,000,000 Hearst antique collection. Close to the Dryden love-letter one sees the tortoise-shell glasses worn by Charles Dickens during his speaking tour of America in 1842. Nearby is the original Ms. of Longfellow's The Skeleton In Armor—in neighboring cases, the spectacles of Benjamin Franklin, and his original letter written from Passy on April 13, 1782, to Mr. Viny, concluding with the sentiment, worthy of 1939: You may imagine that I begin to grow happy in my prospects. I should be quite so, if I could see peace and good will restored between our countries, for I enjoy health, competence, friends and reputation. Peace is the only ingredient wanting to my felicity. . . .

Other articles that stir the American spirit are those relating to George Washington—buttons off the coat he wore as President; his money-scales and weights; above all, the 16-page personal account book, running from May 17th to Dec. 24th, 1785, in which he entered expenses for travel, clothing, tips, charity, and funds advanced to his wife or various members of his household. By ferriages at Georgetown—Hat for Austin—Canoeman, going through Seneca Falls—4 lbs. of hair powder—1 pair spectacles—small money to Mrs. Washington. . . . Can't you just feel the personality of the great Virginian in these intimate memos far more than in any of the solemn pronouncements of History? . . .

One can only mention in passing the "bright steel" Renaissance workmanship of yonder suit of armor for a French princeling in Richelieu's time—or the startling variety of mediaeval weapons roundabout: or the shining late Gothic armor for 16th century knights, standing impressively along the paneled wall. . . . Rarity, beauty, tradition, the storied presence of the Past—all glorify one's leisurely tour of these unique displays. But before leaving, one returns again to the billet-doux of young John Dryden, and perhaps in envy—or in admiration?—exclaims, "What a love-letter!"

FRENCH DISSOLVE 41 TRADE UNIONS IN DRIVE ON REDS

Outlawed Organizations Now Total 242.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 27.—Forty-one trade unions were ordered dissolved today by the Paris criminal court. The court charged that the unions were communist. The dissolution order brought to 242 the total number of organizations suppressed in France since Sept. 26 because of alleged communist affiliations.

Arrests of individual communists have been made daily, but what made today's action significant was that among the organizations ordered suppressed was the general syndicate of employés of the government Post, Telephone and Telegraph company in the Paris region.

Danger to Internal Stability.

Newspapers for some time have been urging the most drastic action against communist elements within France. They regard them as a real danger to internal stability.

The question of war finances was discussed again today. Senator Abel Gardey, head of the commission which is studying the budget now before the senate, estimated that civil and war costs for 1940 will not be less than 300,000,000,000 francs [about $6,600,000,000] instead of the $5,478,000,000 under consideration.

The senator also said the credit situation was less favorable than at the beginning of the world war because of the greater debt and foreign investments lost since then.

Newspapers have derived satisfaction from the announcement that the war cost in Germany is $15,400,000,000 yearly. However, if the estimated British budget of $9,240,000,000 is added to that of the French, the total makes the per capita costs of the belligerents' almost equal.

Rumanian Confidence Grows.

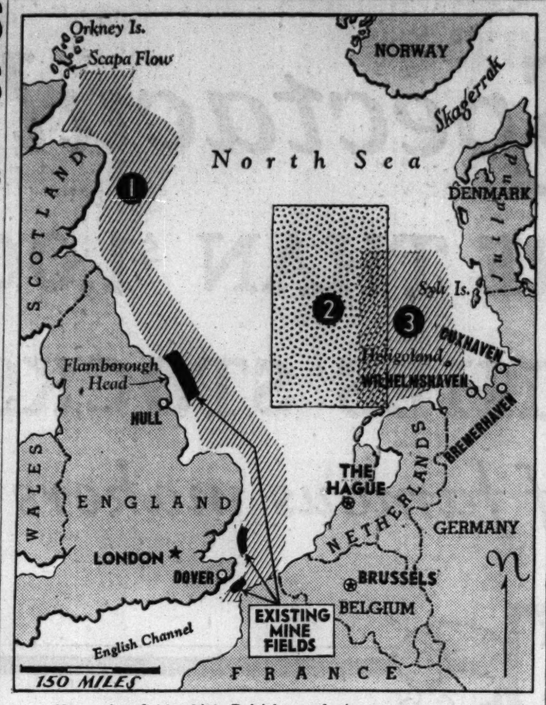
There are indications here of diplomatic activities intended to strengthen the neutral front against Russia and, indirectly, against Germany. Reports would indicate that the monarchs and people in the Scandinavian nations are overwhelmingly in favor of joining Finland against the communist invasion but that they are held back by their parliaments and government leaders.

The ineffectiveness of the Russian attack also is said to have strengthened the resolve and confidence of Rumania to resist any soviet thrust into Bessarabia. This and reported declarations by German authorities that neutrals soon will be compelled "to show their faces" have given rise to hopes that the nonbelligerents may yet be maneuvered into becoming more actively sympathetic toward France and Britain.

Argentina Rejects German Protest on Internment

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 27 (AP).—The Argentine government tonight announced rejection of a German protest against internment of the crew of the scuttled German pocket battleship, the Admiral Graf Spee. Internment of the crew, totaling 1,039 officers and men, was ordered Dec. 19, two days after the damaged sea raider was blown up in the Plate river following a battle with British cruisers.

Mined Areas in the North Sea



1. New mine field which British are laying to protect east coast. They expect to use 200,000 mines in it. 2. Where British say Germans have mined North sea. 3. British mine field around German naval bases which, British say, overlaps German mine field.

STEAMER LOST IN CRASH; FEAR SUBMARINE SANK

Another Ship Blasted; Crew Sails Half of It.

BERGEN, Norway, Dec. 27 (AP).—Survivors of the 254 ton Norwegian steamer Torwood, landing at Haugesund today, said their ship was destroyed in a collision with an unidentified submarine in the North sea.

Submarine Capsizes.

The submarine must have been seriously damaged, if not sunk, they added. Members of the crew said the submarine capsized.

With the Torwood taking water, gases formed from the ship's cargo of carbide and the Torwood crew took to the lifeboats. The gases later exploded and the Torwood was destroyed. The crew was picked up by a Norwegian vessel.

At Sea in Half a Boat.

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Government sources today said the crew of the 7,397 ton British tanker San Alberto heroically attempted to steam half their ship to port after the remainder had been blown away.

The vessel was torpedoed by a German submarine off Land's End on Dec. 9 and the crew took to lifeboats. The San Alberto broke in two but the stern half remained afloat.

Get Up Steam and Go.

The captain and part of the crew boarded the hulk, got up steam, and in a rising sea made their way stern first toward the English coast. They were forced to take to the lifeboats again in the morning, however, and were picked up by a vessel.

Previous reports said one of the crew had been killed and 42 rescued.

German Freighter Aground.

CADIZ, Spain, Dec. 27 (AP).—The Spanish steamer Ciudad de Melilla rescued the crew of the German cargo vessel Glucksburg, 2,680 tons, after she went aground today off San Lucar de Barrameda on the southwest coast of Spain.

The Glucksburg was reported to have been engaged in the German-Rumanian trade.

BRITISH STUDY REPLY TO AMERICAN PROTEST OVER BATTLE AT SEA

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 27.—The British government is consulting France and the dominion governments on the protest from the United States and 20 other American republics against violation of their neutrality belt by belligerent warships, diplomatic sources disclosed tonight. Careful consideration is being given to the protest and the reply will be sent to Washington in due course, it was stated.

The protest arose out of the battle between British cruisers and the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee off the South American coast on Dec. 13.

Diplomatic circles suggested that the British reply would constitute a polite rejection of the American protest. The British have taken pains to emphasize that the 300 mile safety belt around the Americas has no precedent in international law and has not been recognized by the British government. Much is made also of the argument that no absolute guarantee of the zone is forthcoming from the American states.

FIRST OF INDIA'S SOLDIERS JOIN BRITISH IN FRANCE

German Vessel Bombed; 3 Planes Crippled.

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—British Indian troops have arrived in France to join the British forces, it was disclosed tonight in dispatches from the western front. The first contingent, composed entirely of Moslems, is led by British and Indian officers.

The Moslems brought special foods and British officers scurried about buying live stock, mostly goats, to be turned over alive to the Indian troops and slaughtered according to Indian custom. The meat will be eaten with rice and ghi [clarified butter], which the Indians brought with them.

The Indians brought their own mules, veterans of the troubled northwest frontier, to pull their field pieces thru French mud.

This was the third overseas empire force to reach Europe for war action within 10 days. A Canadian division arrived in England on Dec. 17 and 18 and an Australian air squadron yesterday.

India sent 138,608 soldiers to the western front in the world war.

German Vessel Bombed.

The air ministry announced tonight that British coastal aircraft had disabled a German patrol vessel near the German coast with a direct bomb hit and had put three German Dornier planes out of action. The Germans were reported to have flown a tight circle in an attempt to bring the crossfire of their front and rear guns to bear on the British.

The activity took place in the North sea.

An unidentified plane flew over Essex and the Thames estuary today and two others were seen over the Suffolk coast at a great height.

Planes Alarm North France.

PARIS, Dec. 27 (AP).—German scouting flights, made in spite of low hanging clouds, caused noon air raid alarms in northern France today, but the alarms ended 20 minutes later without incident.

An army communique tonight reported there was marked activity today of patrols and reconnaissance units of both German and empire armies between the Moselle and Saar rivers.

[The German high command yesterday reported on action of the previous day: "Except for feeble enemy artillery fire, quiet prevailed at the front on the second Christmas day."]

French Sink Two U-Boats.

French patrol ships have sunk two German submarines in the last three weeks, a communique said. It follows:

"During the last three weeks two enemy submarines have been successfully attacked by our patrol ships, one of them by the sloop Commandant Duboc, the other by the destroyers Sirocco and La Railleuse operating in conjunction with a naval plane. This means that within less than a month three submarines have been accounted for by the Sirocco."

The navy ministry announced that French and British warships have intercepted 918,704 tons of merchandise destined for Germany since the start of the war. It said French ships had intercepted 402,000 tons of merchandise and British vessels 516,704 tons.

During the week ended Dec. 24, the ministry said, French vessels halted 40,000 tons and the British 6,824 tons.

Wanted: A British Soldier.

BERLIN, Dec. 27 (AP).—German soldiers on the western front have opened a contest. The goal is to capture the first British soldier. Even engineer and signal corps troops are volunteering for scout duty to get a chance to take the prisoner.

New Year's Eve Partying in Berlin to Stop at 1 A. M.

CAR SKIDS INTO LAGOON; WIFE IS TRAPPED, KILLED

Husband Dives Twice, but Fails in Rescue.

Mrs. Berenice Carpenter, 22 years old, drowned yesterday as her husband tried in vain to rescue her after their automobile skidded from Beach Drive and plunged into the Lincoln Park lagoon opposite the end of Webster avenue at 2200 north. The tragedy tied up morning rush hour traffic for nearly four miles.

Mrs. Carpenter and her husband, Charles, 31, of 7363½ North Damen avenue, were driving to work at 75 West Jackson boulevard. Carpenter, an attorney, is employed as a claim adjuster by the Travelers' Insurance company. Mrs. Carpenter worked for another insurance concern.

Hit Patch of Ice.

Their automobile skidded on a patch of ice on the east side of the drive, formed by spray from the lake blown inshore by a strong wind. Carpenter later told policemen he was unable to swerve because of a car passing on his right. He tried to apply his brakes. The car spun around and went over the wall curb. It then plunged into the lagoon.

The water reached the bottom of the window and we seemed to stop sinking," Carpenter said. "I couldn't open the door. I grabbed my wife's coat and started out of the window. The car started to sink again. The water rushed in and tore her from my grasp."

The car was in 15 feet of water. Carpenter, after reaching the surface, dived immediately in an attempt to rescue his wife. He came up and dived again. His heavy overcoat kept him from going very deep. WPA workers pulled him ashore after he had brushed aside a life preserver they tossed to him.

Firemen, policemen, and coast guardsmen worked for an hour before they got the car and Mrs. Carpenter's body to the surface. Carpenter, suffering from shock and grief, was taken to the Columbus Memorial hospital.

Streamliner Splits Car.

Mrs. Sarah M. Henley, about 70 years old, of Hinsdale, was killed when the automobile she was driving was struck by the Burlington railroad's streamlined Zephyr at Washington avenue in Hinsdale. The car was split in half and the front part, with Mrs. Henley's body, was carried two miles east before the train could be stopped. Mrs. Henley resided in the home of R. A. Colvin, 327 Hampden place, Hinsdale, an official of the American Creosoting company. The car she was driving belonged to Calvin, Chief of Police Dale Flavin said.

Dr. Emile Audet, professor of French at De Paul university, was recovering yesterday from injuries incurred in an automobile accident Tuesday night, which cost the life of his mother, Mrs. Louise Audet, 85. The accident occurred at Lachine, near Montreal, Que., when their automobile skidded into a post and caught fire. Dr. Audet, who lives at 6220 Jeffrey avenue, brought his mother here from France last fall.

Hit-Run Driver Injures Boy.

Reginald Cullerton, 14, of 6408 Stony Island avenue, was critically injured by the automobile of a hit and run motorist who left the boy lying in the middle of the surface lines track in 87th street at Kimbark avenue.

Ralph Higgins, 5477 Drexel avenue, passing later, mistook the small form for a bundle of rags, but straddled the boy with the wheels of his car. Then he decided to stop and investigate, and was joined by another driver, Walter Kistner Jr., 1929 West 103d street. One of Kistner's wheels touched the boy.

They called police who took Cullerton to the South Chicago hospital and began a search for the hit and run driver. The boy was identified thru a slip of paper bearing the name of his cousin, Ronald Abberger, 8537 Cottage Grove avenue, whom he had been visiting.

Machinist Dies of Injuries.

Frank Svoboda, 64, of 1148 West 18th street, a machinist died in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries suffered Dec. 17 when he was struck by an automobile at Cermak road and Rockwell street. The driver was Stanley Urzedowski, 2544 South Albany avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 911 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 697 were killed in Chicago where 22,289 were injured in the same period.

ENGINEERS FIND LINCOLN, ADDISON VIADUCT IS SAFE

The North Western railroad's viaduct at Lincoln avenue and Addison street is safe for travel and does not need to be replaced, two engineers for the Illinois Commerce commission reported yesterday. The engineers investigated after the board of local improvements had sought construction of a new viaduct, contending the present one is unsafe and that its supporting pillars are a hazard to automobile traffic.

The commission took the report under advisement.

SNOW BLANKETS 8,000 MILES OF ILLINOIS ROADS

Dangerous Coating of Ice Adds to Hazards.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 27 [Special].—The winter's first snow storm, blustering northward and eastward tonight, engaged 4,000 men with 700 trucks and plows to clear 8,000 miles of Illinois highways. None was blocked, according to Chief Highway Engineer Ernst Lieberman, but all this mileage—two-thirds of the roads in the state—carried a dangerous coating of ice. Most of the snow was south of an east and west line thru Peoria.

The Tribune roadster, in driving here from Chicago tonight on U. S. 66, passed five wrecked automobiles and one disabled truck. At a score or more of other places there were marks in the snow where cars had skidded from the pavement into fences, embankments, or ditches.

Icy Sheet Forms on Slab.

"Motorists," said Lieberman, "have forgotten since last winter the nice points in handling a car on snow or ice. The first storm of the season is always this way."

The snow that started falling in southern Illinois yesterday afternoon, continuing with spotty flurries thru this evening, packed on the road slab. Tire impact tamped it into ice. Highway department plows reduced the compact into a thin, smooth, slippery sheet over the concrete.

The smoothness invited speed greater than was safe with poor tire traction. In passing cars, fine snow whirled into a blinding cloud. And then some drivers were clumsy. They did things they won't do later in the season, such as tramping the brake into a skid or depressing the accelerator into a power skid. Accidents were numerous thruout the snow belt, according to the state police.

Six Inches at Cairo.

The heaviest snow was in the most southern part of the state. The highway department here received reports of a six inch fall in Cairo, the town on the tip of the map with cotton fields on its outskirts. In Calhoun county, where the Illinois flows into the Mississippi river, the plow crews reported eight and ten inch banks of snow. North of Beardstown was another deeply blanketed section of the state, 10 inches, according to the highway men.

On the drive here, the first traces of white in the fields were seen south of Plainfield, 50 miles from Chicago's loop. In another mile, slick patches of ice appeared on the pavement and by the time Dwight was reached the entire slab was covered.

More Snow Falls.

A light but steady snow began to fall in passing thru Dwight. It was still snowing when Bloomington was reached. Then the sky cleared and a full moon rose. Reports telephoned here later said it was snowing as far north as Braceville, Kankakee, and Streator.

Traffic on U. S. 66 was light. Heavy trucks lumbered cautiously. Plows with flashing red warning lights pushed snow onto shoulders.

Other state trucks were scattering cinders or gravel on curves and grades. These 700 trucks, with crews working in eight hour shifts, were ordered to remain on the job thruout the night. The highways are to be kept open to motor transportation.

Indiana Is Blanketed.

Indiana reported heavy snows, with the deepest in the vicinity of La-Fayette. In Indianapolis there was an eight inch snow. Bloomington, Ind., also reported eight inches. Evansville, five, and Vincennes and Seymour six inches each.

There was 12 inches of snow around St. Louis.

The thickly populated east, where transportation is its life blood, was plunged into a big snow battle.

An army of 2,500 highway workers struggled against the worst wintry conditions in two years in Ohio. Southern sectors of that state had eight inches of snow and more was forecast.

A three inch snow made Washington, D. C., government clerks late to work and brought out 20 snowsweepers and as many sand trucks. Six hundred men worked to keep clear the arteries of the nation's capital.

A snowfall of six and one-half inches at Louisville was piled on to eight and a half inches which fell Saturday night. Snow and sleet hampered travel in Virginia.

Back of this newly invaded territory of winter, the west and middlewest were digging out of snowfalls ranging as deep as 16 inches in the canyons east of Salt Lake City.

ROOSEVELT CONFERS WITH CHURCH HEADS ON PEACE PROGRAM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—President Roosevelt today held the first of his conferences with religious leaders in his program to promote peace by parallel action with the Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish faiths.

He met with Dr. George A. Buttrick, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, and Rabbi Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

After a lengthy conference the two leaders gave no indication that any specific peace moves are in prospect. They declined to discuss possible avenues of parallel action for peace.

MARTA EGGERT TO SING TONIGHT ON W-G-N SHOW

Makes U. S. Radio Debut with Jan Kiepura.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Marta Eggert loves to sing. So she does a lot of it. She did a lot of it yesterday. She will do more of it today when she makes her American radio debut, singing with her husband, Jan Kiepura, Polish tenor, in the second concert in W-G-N's holiday series. Then there will be rehearsals—and more rehearsals tomorrow—for her American operatic debut, with her husband as co-star, in the Chicago City Opera company's presentation of "La Bohème" on New Year's eve.

There were three rehearsals yesterday—two for the opera and one for the W-G-N Concert revue, to be aired at 9:30 tonight. But this vivacious Hungarian songstress carols a lot more than is required of her. She sings in the elevator, she sings at lunch, and she is likely to burst into song in a taxicab.

Of Course She's Nervous!

Is she nervous about her first American appearances?

"Of course," she replied. "Under such circumstances every singer is. If he does not admit it he says a lie!"

As for vital figures: She is slender [weighs 100 pounds] and has flashing brown eyes, brown hair, and pep to spare. And she's what photographer's call a swell person—cooperative, patient, and obliging. Yesterday she looked plenty chic in a black Parisian dress and saucy red chapeau of felt and taffeta.

Outside of singing Miss Eggert enjoys most being a home girl. She cooks. She dances, rides, plays the piano, bangs the typewriter, and goes in for tennis and winter sports. She speaks a half dozen languages.

Miss Eggert is to make her American debut in the musical comedy field this season, too. She is to be headlined in a new Broadway show.

Meanwhile Mr. Kiepura will be filling concert and operatic engagements and singing for Polish benefits.

Kiepura to Sing Folk Song.

On W-G-N tonight, besides offering three arias, he will sing "Tell Me Tonight" from his picture, "Be Mine Tonight," and a rousing Polish folk song. Miss Eggert will sing an aria from "La Bohème" and Schubert's "Serenade." Henry Weber will conduct the orchestra.

The program for the broadcast follows:

"March Tannhäuser" ..... Wagner
Octet and Orchestra.
"M'Appari" from "Martha" ..... Flotow
Mr. Kiepura and orchestra.
"La Danza" ..... Rossini
Mr. Kiepura and orchestra.
"Aria" from "La Bohème" ..... Puccini

"Serenade" ..... Schubert

"Slavonic Dance C Major" ..... Dvorak

Polish Folk Song.

"Le Reve" from "Manon" ..... Massenet

"Russian Sailor Dance" from "Red Poppy Ballet" ..... Gliere Orchestra.

Allan Jones, star of the new movie, "The Great Victor Herbert," will be presented in the third of the holiday concerts Sunday evening with Kathryn Witwer, soprano, and Harold Stokes and the orchestra. The holiday concert parade is being presented to augment interest in the City Opera's fund campaign. All the programs are being presented over the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system.

BAR MANAGERS GET REPORT ON JUDGE HOLLAND

Meet Today to Consider Committee Findings.

The judiciary committee of the Chicago Bar association completed its report yesterday on the conduct of Judge Eugene J. Holland of the Municipal court and turned it over to the association board of managers. The board will meet this afternoon to consider the report.

Judge Holland has been under investigation for his business dealings with Edward J. O'Hare, front man for the Capone syndicate, who was slain by shotgun assassins. The judge was relieved of duty temporarily early this month by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby.

Can Recommend Disharment.

The judiciary committee has the power to recommend the disbarment or censure of Judge Holland, and has also the alternative of finding that he was not guilty of any irregularities. The board of managers' function is then to decide whether to accept the committee's recommendations. In the event the report does advocate disbarment or censure, and it is approved by the board, it will then be transmitted to the Illinois Supreme court with a request by the bar association for action.

Attorney Oscar M. Wolff, chairman of the judiciary committee, said the hearings have been in progress for several weeks. He was asked whether Judge Holland had appeared to defend himself.

Offered Chance to Testify.

"In a case like this, the interested party is always given the opportunity to come before the committee," Wolff answered.

The actions of Judge Eugene L. McGarry of the Municipal court are also under scrutiny of the bar judiciary committee, but the inquiry has not been completed. Judge McGarry, too, was temporarily relieved of his bench duties early this month.

On Sept. 27 Judge McGarry was indicted on charges of malfeasance and conspiracy to accept false bail bond acknowledgments. The indictments were dismissed Nov. 21 by Judge Joseph A. Graber in Criminal court. Graber held that the acts alleged came within McGarry's discretion as a judge, and that no judge could be subject to indictment for acts committed within such discretion.

Yesterday State's Attorney Courtney said that a reversal of Judge Graber's ruling will be sought in the Appellate court. Assistant State's Attorney John Gallagher will file a petition for a writ of error today.

BOWEN, DR. HINTON ASK TRANSFER OF MANTENO TRIAL

A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, suspended head of the Manteno State hospital, and Mrs. Lillian Williams, dietitian at the Manteno institution asked a change of venue yesterday from Kankakee county, where all are under indictment on a charge of malfeasance in office. They previously had asked and received a change of venue from Judge Luther B. Bratton of Kankakee.

State's Attorney Samuel H. Shapiro of Kankakee county said he would resist the action to remove the case.

The defendants filed affidavits bearing 250 signatures of hospital employés and others, and newspaper clippings in support of the allegation of hostility to the defendants in Kankakee county. The press is charged with presenting "highly colored, inflammatory, and prejudicial accounts" of the typhoid epidemic which caused 53 deaths at the Manteno hospital.

Takes Lie Test

ANNE SCHNEIDER.

Among the things Miss Anne Schneider, 19 years old, told the police Tuesday night were: [1] She is the daughter of an Austrian baron who is now a German general; [2] she was born in an airplane somewhere in Russian skies; [3] she fled from society life in Vienna to become a dice girl in Chicago, and [4] somebody had stolen jewels she valued at $33,330 from her room at 5012 Winthrop avenue.

Last night, after Miss Schneider had been given a lie detector test, she made a confession. "I lied," she said, "about everything except that my jewels were stolen. Now can I go home?"

The police said she couldn't. She was held at the Summerdale station on a charge of disorderly conduct and will be arraigned in Women's court today.

GOV. HORNER SUES DAILY NEWS AND KNOX FOR LIBEL

Gov. Henry Horner filed suit for $250,000 yesterday against The Chicago Daily News, Inc., and its publisher, Frank Knox. The suit charged that the News libeled the governor last Thursday in an editorial discussing the effort to extradite William Bioff, amusement industry labor leader. State's Attorney Courtney is trying to bring Bioff back from California to serve a sentence of six months on a pandering charge.

The suit, drawn by Attorney Sigmund W. David, asserted that the editorial injured the governor in its discussion of the continuance of the extradition hearing. The suit said that the continuance was granted at the request of the state's attorney, but that the paper accused the governor of political bias and favoritism for a criminal.

HARLEY CLARKE'S $400,000 RESIDENCE SOLD AT AUCTION

The $400,000 Evanston home of Harley L. Clarke, former utilities magnate, was sold at public auction yesterday to satisfy a $3,486 judgment. The buyer was the receiver for the Power Door company, which obtained the judgment after Clarke failed to complete payment of a subscription to Power Door stock. The auction was ordered by Federal Judge William H. Holly.

The residence, at 2603 Sheridan road, had been held in the name of Clarke's wife, Hildur. He has a year to pay off the $3,486 and may stay in the home until then.

Clarke was chairman of the Utilities Power and Light corporation in its halcyon days as a $400,000,000 enterprise. His personal fortune once was estimated at $60,000,000.

WARDEN FAVORS YEAR TO LIFE FOR ALL CRIMINALS

Wants First Offenders to Have New Chance.

Joseph E. Ragen, state superintendent of prisons and warden at the Stateville penitentiary, expressed the opinion yesterday that all prison sentences should be from one year to life, with no definite terms. He was one of the speakers at the convention of the Illinois State's Attorneys association in the Morrison hotel.

Joseph E. Ragen.

Ragen told the prosecutors that in olden days no thought was given of the date of release of a convict, and the convict merely was freed without any preparation. Now, Ragen said, an effort is made to educate the prisoner and teach him some trade or means of making an honest living.

Chance for First Offenders.

"We have vocational schools in the four penitentiaries of Illinois," Ragen continued. "We try to make an improvement in the prisoner before he leaves. We know that, as a rule, repeaters never reform. There is a chance for first offenders and we try to equip them for the day they will be free.

"But we have many men serving their fourth or fifth sentence and they must be freed when their time is up. Usually these chronic offenders come back on a 1 to 10 year sentence, and we can only keep them six years and three months.

Free Those Who Merit Chance.

"If all convicts were given one year to life sentences we could free those who merit another chance and keep the confirmed criminal in prison all his life. Recently a man leaving after serving five sentences told me he was going to make society pay for his imprisonment. He tried, and within 84 days he was in the penitentiary at Stillwater, Minn."

William S. Devereaux, head of the federal bureau of investigation here, was another speaker. He explained the workings of the bureau and offered the prosecutors coöperation at all times and in any kind of case.

REQUESTS COURT TO VOID ADOPTION OF HER DAUGHTER

Mrs. Gertrude Tetzlaff asked the Superior court yesterday to give her back her daughter, Patricia Ann, 10 years old, who was adopted 15 months ago by Rudolph and Orpha Schiller of Stone Park.

Mrs. Tetzlaff is a divorcée, 33 years old. She lives at 2101 South 4th avenue, Maywood, with a son, 15, and a daughter, 13. The mother's petition, drawn by Guy C. Guerine, attorney, asserts that she did not know she was signing adoption papers when she gave the Schillers permission to take Patricia Ann. Mrs. Tetzlaff told the court the Schillers canont give proper attention to the little girl because they both are employed.

Mrs. Tetzlaff was arrested last May 25 for seizing Patricia Ann from her adopted parents' home and trying to keep her. The adoption was upheld in County court on July 14.

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY SATURDAY OF IROQUOIS THEATER FIRE IN 1903

Twenty-six times the fire bell will ring. Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan will ring it, just as he did 36 years ago to the minute when he was an engine man on Truck 13 and a frantic theater-goer had told him the Iroquois theater was burning.

In such manner, at 3:32 p. m. Saturday in the city council chambers, the 36th anniversary of the Iroquois theater fire will be observed. Many survivors of the holocaust, in which 575 persons lost their lives, will attend what has come to be known as the Mercy day program, so-called because of the reforms emanating from the fire.

Among the survivors will be Mrs. E. J. Buchan of 452 Briar place, who, as Annabelle Whitford, was waiting back stage when the fire broke out. She was queen of the fairies in the extravaganza, "Mr. Bluebeard," in which Eddie Foy was playing to 1,900 people in a gala holiday matinée.

Ordered Held to Jury in Hit-Run Auto Death

A coroner's jury recommended yesterday that Thomas Stebinski, 29 years old, 2728 South Keeler avenue, be held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter for the death of Mrs. Theresa Piencak, 35, of 2631 Luther street. He testified at the inquest that he became frightened and fled after his automobile had struck and killed Mrs. Piencak at 25th street and Washtenaw avenue on Dec. 3.

EVANSTON'S CITY FATHERS GATHER AGAIN IN SECRET

For the fourth time in 10 days Evanston's 16 aldermen marched to the city hall last night for a meeting to which the public was not invited. Those who approached the door of the council room were firmly shooed away with the statement that the aldermen were in session as a committee of the whole and were not to be disturbed.

Last night's gathering was adjourned after two hours and twenty minutes. No announcement was made of what took place. Evanston citizens said the four secret meetings have occupied a total of 11 hours and 40 minutes. Rumors of what it is that concerns the city fathers were passed around freely.

The one definite fact that could be learned was that the alderman who on Tuesday night said he was willing to take a lie detector test yesterday still is willing, but did not take the test. This led to reports that more than one alderman is involved in the matter before the star chamber sessions. The next meeting will be Tuesday night.

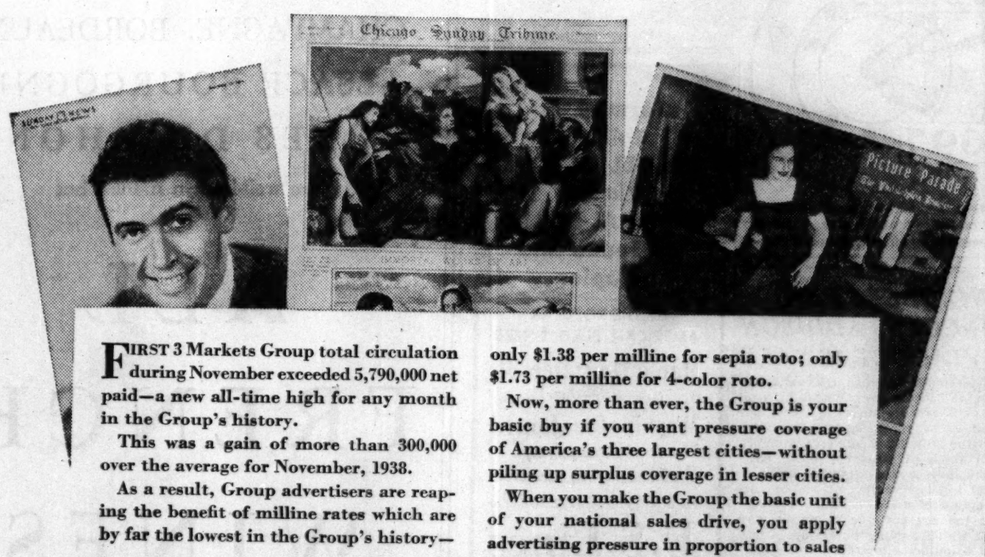
A new all-time high in sales power—

OVER 5,790,000

November net paid circulation

brings a new low cost for roto and color roto



FIRST 3 Markets Group total circulation during November exceeded 5,790,000 net paid—a new all-time high for any month in the Group's history.

This was a gain of more than 300,000 over the average for November, 1938.

As a result, Group advertisers are reaping the benefit of milline rates which are by far the lowest in the Group's history—only $1.38 per milline for sepia roto; only $1.73 per milline for 4-color roto.

Now, more than ever, the Group is your basic buy if you want pressure coverage of America's three largest cities—without piling up surplus coverage in lesser cities.

When you make the Group the basic unit of your national sales drive, you apply advertising pressure in proportion to sales opportunities. You reach 77% of New York's families, 70% of Chicago's and 65% of Philadelphia's. In addition, you reach millions of other families in the territory which accounts for 31% of America's retail sales.

To put balance into your national campaign in 1940, to capitalize the known advantages of roto presentation in picture sections home-edited to fit each of America's first three cities, to do the big-city job the right way, put the First 3 Markets Group at the top of your list. Ask a Group representative to give you complete information.

The First 3 Markets Group reaches 20% or more of all the families in each of the 180 counties (shown in black) which account for 31% of all retail sales made in America.

PREPARE GRAND JURY FOR LONG BUILDING PROBE

400 Witnesses Will Start Testimony Tuesday.

The most extensive federal grand jury investigation here in two decades was put in motion yesterday by the government's drive to smash cost-raising restraints in the building industry.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward ordered Clerk Hoyt King to impanel a special grand jury venire to be returned before him on Wednesday. The court acted on a petition presented by District Attorney William J. Campbell.

Campbell explained that the special jury will take over routine cases and the inquiry into gamblers' incomes now being handled by the December jury. The regular grand jury will investigate practices in the building industry, starting Tuesday.

Tile Business Comes First.

The first witnesses will be 25 individuals and representatives of 50 companies in the tile business. They are named in subpenas requiring the production of business records. This phase of the investigation will last several weeks.

Five months and between 400 and 500 witnesses will be required for the grand jury hearings, it was estimated. The term of the December grand jury may be extended thru March, when another jury wust be impaneled to carry on the work. Court attachés said the last grand jury quiz of comparable scope was in 1917, when 166 members of the I. W. W. were indicted for disloyal acts.

Since August evidence for the grand jury has been gathered by a staff of 40 lawyers, accountants, and technical assistants headed by Leo F. Tierney, special assistant to the attorney general.

Action in Nine Cities.

Chicago is one of nine cities where grand juries now are considering building restraints or will be called to do so. Indictments have been returned in Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, St. Louis, and Washington, D. C., naming more than 250 union officials, contractors, manufacturers, and material jobbers.

A summary of these indictments follows:

DETROIT: Forty eight were charged with conspiracy to control the tile industry; 32 were indicted for alleged conspiracy to violate the antitrust laws thru control of prices for electrical equipment.

SAN FRANCISCO: Thirty eight were named in indictments charging they formed an unlawful combination to keep up prices of plaster and gypsum; 29 were charged with conspiring to control prices of lumber and hardwood floors; 46 were charged with conspiracy to fix prices in the electrical phase of building construction.

Racket Charged in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND: Nine were indicted, charged with racketeering which doubled the cost of glazing operations in Cleveland buildings.

PITTSBURGH: Ninety four were under charges of conspiring to defraud the government in controling prices of electrical equipment for public works.

ST. LOUIS: Six officials of the carpenters' union and the machinists' union were indicted in connection with a jurisdictional dispute which allegedly violated the antitrust law.

WASHINGTON: Local 639 of the Drivers, Chauffeurs, and Helpers' union, and 5 officials were charged with conspiracy to violate the anti-trust act in a jurisdictional dispute.

Corwin D. Edwards, economist on the antitrust staff, declared recently that "only by a consolidated attack on all restraints can we affect housing costs and only thus can we give individuals and groups a chance for vigorous competition."

PROBATIONER, 20, SEIZED, ADMITS TWO BURGLARIES

Roland Northey, 20 years old, 1303 Washington boulevard, who told police he was on probation for a burglary committed last August, was arrested at his home early today and confessed two burglaries. Northey's arrest resulted from the fact that a bystander noted his automobile license number when he smashed a plate glass window of the Rudolph Wurlitzer company store at 6529 South Halsted street and stole a saxophone and a trumpet Tuesday night.

Police recovered the stolen instruments from Northey's car after his arrest and found there also twelve radios. These Northey said he and a companion had taken in a burglary at the Middle West Distributing company, 601 Washington boulevard, last night.

When Northey was arrested, his companion escaped despite several shots fired at him by police. The arrest was made by Detectives Edward Harvat, James McNichols, and John Hart of the Englewood station. Police said the other burglar would be sought today.

Northey said he was put on probation by Judge John A. Sbarboro of the superior court.

2 MORE INDICTED IN INDIANA PROBE OF RELIEF FRAUD

Name Deputy Trustee in Fake Claim Cases.

Two more indictments charging fraudulent practices in the administration of relief funds in Lake county, Indiana, were returned yesterday by the grand jury at Crown Point. Previously five had been returned.

One of the new true bills charges Carl Etter of Hammond, chief deputy trustee of North township, with falsely attesting an affidavit on which $1,336 was collected. Etter, an appointee of the township trustee, John J. Mehan, was a notary public.

Affidavit Made for Supplies.

The affidavit purportedly was made out by Ben Fineman, an East Chicago clothier, for supplies furnished the township's reliefers in February, 1938. According to the indictment, Fineman did not make out the affidavit and did not receive the $1,366.

The second indictment charged Etter and Hyman Goodman, an East Chicago grocer, with conspiracy to file false claims. It alleged that they jointly made out a claim for $654 for Goodman and that this sum was $264 more than was due. Goodman already had been indicted for filing a false claim.

Four Others Indicted.

Others indicted as a result of eight months of investigation of the Lake county relief scandals are Mrs. Mary Grace Wells Schaaf, former trustee of Calumet township; Nick Roknich, a Gary clothier; Frank Shneider, owner of a large department store in Hammond, and Anthony Forszt, East Chicago optometrist and treasurer of the East Chicago board of education.

Mrs. Schaaf was alleged to have accepted more than $1,085 as commissions on sums collected by a Gary physician for services to her township's reliefers. The indictment charged that her commission was 10 per cent. Mrs. Schaaf has denied receiving any such commissions. Dr. Bellfield Atcheson of Gary, the physician named, has refused to discuss the matter.

BRIDE DIES UNDER WHEELS OF TRAIN; SUSPECT MURDER

Family Unable to Throw Light on Mystery.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 27 [Special].—A theory of murder was advanced by authorities tonight in the mysterious death of a young bride whose body was mangled by an electric train near here early this morning.

The victim remained unidentified until this afternoon, when relatives learned of the tragedy and revealed that she was Mrs. Irene Becsei Smith, 26 years old, of South Bend. She was married on Nov. 13 to Rex Smith, an employé of the Bendix Products corporation here. Neither he nor other relatives of the woman could throw any light on her death.

Police said it was possible the young wife had been placed on the tracks while unconscious. This suggestion was supported by numerous footprints in the snow at the scene and the fact she made no movement as the train approached.

Unable to Stop Train.

Herman E. Joers of Michigan City, motorman of the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend railroad train, said he did not see the woman until his train was within 50 feet of her. He applied the brakes, but the train was running 60 miles an hour, and could not be stopped until after it had passed over her.

No marks of identification were found on the body. No hat or purse was found near by, but six $5 bills had been stuffed into Mrs. Smith's stockings.

Police said they learned the bride was in the Happy Daze tavern in South Bend until 11:30 o'clock last night. She was struck by the train shortly after midnight.

Go Out to Buy Cards.

Mrs. Mary Backgren, sister of the dead woman, said she and her husband, Albert Backgren, spent last evening at the Smith apartment. They planned to drink beer and play some poker, but had no cards so the two women went out to buy a deck.

"We stopped at a tavern to get a couple of beers," Mary related. "I decided I had enough and left after a while, but Irene stayed, saying she would be along later. I went back to the Smith apartment, found our husbands gone, and went to my own home.

"I learned later the men had tired of waiting for us and went down to hunt us. Mr. Backgren finally came home and Mr. Smith went to his home and to bed, thinking that Irene was spending the night with me. He went to work this morning still thinking she was at my house."

Two Cars at Death Scene.

Two automobiles were seen in the vicinity of the death scene. The first one was noticed by the crew of a freight a few minutes before the electric train struck the woman.

The other car was seen by Chief Deputy Sheriff Matthew Cegielski when he was called to investigate the death shortly after the incident. As he approached the scene he saw a red sedan parked about a quarter of a mile away, but when he returned to question its occupants a few moments later it was gone.

Authorities did not rule out the possibility of suicide, but a careful search having failed to disclose the car that drove her to the scene, investigators said a suicide theory would have to assume the woman walked five miles to the place where she lay down on the tracks to die, and would ignore the footprints of other persons found there.

HOODLUMS SLUG GARAGE OWNER; LABOR ROW TOLD

Employer Near Death of Injuries.

A garage owner who was said to have been expelled from membership in a garage owners' association was in a critical condition in John B. Murphy hospital early today as a result of a slugging by two men late last night. The victim, Marinus Hvid, 51 years old, of 438 Briar place, is owner of the Halsted-Cornelia garage, 3514 North Halsted street. Hospital attendants said his skull had been fractured in the assault.

The attack occurred in front of 655 Briar place just after Milton Cohen, who lives at that address and is a patron of Hvid's garage, had alighted from a car driven by Hvid. Cohen told Town Hall police he could not see what instrument the sluggers used. After the attack, they escaped in an automobile.

Son Tells of Expulsion.

Hvid's son, Irving, told police his father had been expelled last March as a result of a charge that he had solicited business of a neighboring garage. The garage had been picketed since that time.

Hvid and two of his employés filed a suit against local No. 272 of the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers, and Garage Helpers' union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, last August, asking for an injunction against stranger picketing. The bill asserted that the employés were not members of the union and that they had no complaint against their employer. Hvid's wife, Dagmar, told the police this suit is still pending.

Picket Arrested.

A picket who was walking in front of the garage at the time of the assault was taken into custody, but denied any knowledge of the slugging. He gave his name as Frank Dougherty and his address as Delavan Lake, Wis., and said he is a member of the union that Hvid sued. He is 40 years old.

WITNESS TELLS OF CHRISTMAS PARTY SLAYING

How Marvin L. Webb was wounded fatally at the gay Christmas eve party he gave in his flat at 1311 Adams street was described yesterday at an inquest. Webb died Tuesday in County hospital.

Andrew Loftis, 25 years old, 1537 Adams street, was the witness. He said that George Koenig, 25, of 2135 Potomac avenue, became intoxicated and displayed a pistol when Webb protested against his leaving. The conversation, according to Loftis, was:

Koenig—"I'll shoot you."

Webb—"Shoot if you dare."

Koenig then fired, Loftis said, the bullet striking Webb in the abdomen. The accused man, who is under arrest, told the police he couldn't remember what had happened. The inquest was continued until tomorrow.

MAYOR RESIGNS IN KANSAS CITY MANAGER FIGHT

Protests Coup by Remains of Pendergast Machine.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 27 [Special].—Mayor Bryce B. Smith of Kansas City resigned today after a city council coup which returned to power the remnants of Thomas J. Pendergast's old Democratic machine.

Smith's resignation, which becomes effective Saturday, was announced following an angry city hall scene in which he shouted accusations that he was the victim of a political double cross.

Elected three times with machine backing, Smith virtually had been a figure head under the city manager form of government until April. At that time he assumed full power after a federal grand jury uncovered graft and political corruption which rocked the powerful Pendergast group and sent Boss Pendergast and several of his followers to Leavenworth penitentiary.

Opposed by an Alliance.

A majority of the city council had stood with Smith until last night when he was opposed by the strange alliance of Pendergast councilmen and those friendly to Congressman Joseph Shannon, once an intraparty foe of Pendergast.

The new combine overrode Smith's opposition and appointed William Drennon, 73 years old, a retired insurance director, as city manager.

Drennon will succeed the late Henry F. McElroy, Pendergast henchman who quit under fire last spring.

The mayor had held out for a younger man, one trained for the job and one who came from outside Kansas City.

Following closely upon the heels of his defeat last night, Smith received another blow today. Through Acting City Manager J. V. Lewis, the mayor appointed Jerome Walsh as city counselor. Walsh is a son of the late Frank P. Walsh, Kansas City and New York corporation attorney.

Council Can Elect Successor.

Walsh was ready to be sworn in when Councilmen Ruby D. Garrett and Charles H. Clark, machine leaders, arrived with Drennon. They announced that Drennon had been sworn in, that he now was manager, and that Acting Manager Lewis had lost his appointive power.

The city council has the power to elect a successor to Smith. Anti-machine forces have doubled their efforts to obtain a city recall election on Feb. 13.

Under terms of Pendergast's probation, he will be barred from personal political activity for five years after his release from prison next year. He was sentenced for 15 months for income tax evasion.

PERJURY CHARGE AGAINST FORMER SHERIFF QUASHED

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 27 [Special].—Circuit Judge Charles Y. Miller today quashed an indictment charging ex-Sheriff Clarence W. Roth with perjury before the grand jury which indicted him for bribery and conspiracy.

In dismissing the perjury charge, Judge Miller held that Roth had been compelled to testify before the grand jury in an investigation involving himself, and that his constitutional rights thereby had been violated. Roth was among several persons indicted by the grand jury which investigated charges of vice and corruption in Champaign following the fatal shooting of a university of Illinois student.

Roth must stand trial early in January on charges of bribery and conspiracy in connection with the operation of gambling devices in the county while he was in office.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

SWINDLED FARMERS.

A committee of Republican congressmen has been traveling across the country to hear suggestions regarding a farm policy for their party. Lately the congressmen have been listening to corn belt farmers. A good many of the witnesses were pretty hot under the collar, and nobody can blame them for that. They have been hoodwinked for fifteen years and now that they realize it they are indignant.

All these years the farmers have been led to believe that the government was genuinely interested in promoting their welfare. In fact, the farm programs were concocted by politicians whose primary concern was not to create a sound agriculture in this country but to win farm votes. Just as the chief business of the secretary of the interior is to corral the western vote thru huge expenditures for reclamation, and the chief business of the secretary of labor is to keep organized labor in line, so the primary concern of the secretary of agriculture has been to win farm votes for his party.

The politicians have generally gone thru the motions of consulting so-called farm leaders before promoting a new scheme, and occasionally suggestions from these sources have been accepted with a great show of resignation; but in fact, it has never been difficult for the secretary to win the indorsement of his plans from most of the farm organizations. Many of these organizations depend on Washington for a considerable part of their incomes, and for this and other reasons the leaders are generally open to persuasion.

The farmers of the corn belt possess an enormous natural advantage over their competitors in other regions. Here the soil is extraordinarily rich, rainfall is plentiful, and, as such things go, reliable to a high degree. The area is admirably adapted to a diversified agriculture, and it is relatively close to the great consuming markets. By hard work with their brains and backs our farmers have made the most of their natural advantage. It would be absurd to say that they were not hurt by the great postwar deflation and by the ten year depression that followed it, but by and large their situation was not desperate in any real sense. They were not in the position of the farmers who had settled on marginal land where a decent living could not be made in any circumstances except a war.

When the various farm schemes are examined it will be found that all of them are intended to give one crop farmers on poor land or poorly situated land a living as good as that of the farmers in the corn belt. No amount of hocus-pocus could achieve that result. A one crop wheat or cotton farmer, working only a few months a year, cannot expect to live in a comfortable house, own an automobile, and send his children to college. If the farmers of the middle west can often afford these things, it is because they work intelligently and work the year around. The man who expects a good living twelve months a year by working three or four months is trying to get something for nothing and his failure in the long run can be predicted confidently.

This didn't bother the politicians. The half dozen states of the corn belt have far less influence in the senate than is held by the desert and semidesert states. To be sure, the corn belt gets a share of the cash handouts, but it pays heavily for them. The south reduces its cotton acreage and increases its production of corn and live stock to compete with the middle west. The dry lands which should have been returned to grazing are kept in cultivation to compete with the corn belt.

The subsidies for a long time hoodwinked the farmers of this region. They thought they were getting something for nothing, but of course they weren't. The politicians in return not only stimulated competition from other regions but also imposed restrictions on production in this region which cost the farmers heavily. They lost far more than they gained.

The corn belt is the nation's most efficient producer of basic foodstuffs. All the schemes promoted in Washington have tended to undermine this natural advantage for the benefit of less favored regions.

MILWAUKEE'S DEBT.

Within a few more years Milwaukee will be the only city of its size in the country without any bonded debt, according to an announcement by William H. Wendt, the city controler. The depression found the city with a public debt which in 1932 amounted to more than 52 million dollars; by the end of next year the obligation will have been reduced to less than 19 million dollars and there is at present nearly 9 million dollars in the amortization fund as an offset.

This is an excellent record of achievement in a period of economic difficulty. It contrasts sharply with the record of the United States treasury. While the citizens of Milwaukee have been straining their resources to reduce their obligations by approximately 40 million dollars, the administration in Washington has been increasing the national debt by more than 20 thousand million dollars.

About one half of 1 per cent of the population of the United States lives in Milwaukee. One half of 1 per cent of 20 billion dollars is 100 million dollars. Thus the people of Milwaukee find themselves today actually more heavily incumbered with debt than they were in 1932. They have paid off 40 million dollars, but while they were doing this they took on an additional hundred million of debt. Their obligation on account of the national debt is rising far more rapidly than they are paying off their local debt. Instead of going forward they are going backward.

From their viewpoint the situation is actually a good deal worse than it has been presented here. A disproportionately large share of the federal revenues comes from the cities. Accordingly, the responsibility for paying the national debt will fall far more heavily upon the people of Milwaukee than their proportion of the nation's population would indicate. Milwaukee's share of the 20 billions of New Deal debt is probably nearer 200 millions than 100 millions.

THE DEFENSE OF FINLAND.

Stalin is reported to have ordered that more and better troops be thrown at the Finnish defenders who have been turning his invasion of Finland into an historic fiasco. One excuse is that the weather is bad. The commissars could not have been unprepared for that even if their soldiers were. The soldiers were unprepared because the communist burocracy is less competent and more corrupt than the czarist burocracy.

Stalin went into Finland when he did because he could not take a chance on the duration of Germany's war with France and Great Britain. If they decided not to beat each other to pieces while he grabbed territory and extended soviet rule over helpless people Europe might go to the rescue of the Finns. Unless he can overwhelm the Finnish army with his semicivilized masses the fiction of soviet power will be read everywhere and other small nations which have been in fear of the hammer and sickle will take courage.

The desperate character this aggression has assumed unexpectedly for the aggressor is bound to make it still more desperate for the Finns. There are limits to what may be expected of the most heroic defense offered by a few people against so many millions who can be driven by their brutal rulers to any sacrifices required. The Russian peasants and workers have nothing to say in the disposition of their lives.

Finland already has deflated more than the Red army. It has exposed the fallacies and weaknesses of the communistic dictatorship and its inability to utilize the resources of the country. Finland has also laid bare the hypocrisies of the comrades and has taken the wind out of the friends of soviet Russia in all other countries. The only thing which has made a triumph in the land of the Reds is tyranny.

The term aggressor nation had a propaganda use to sustain some of the frauds of the treaty of Versailles. Some of the people who used the term for their own purposes professed to admire Russia as a great liberal power—a liberalizing power. The Finns put an end to that. They have America's sympathy in their defense of their homes, their freedom, and their civilization.

NO NEW TAXES.

Citizens of Illinois have naturally regarded with pleasure the development of the downstate oil fields. They bring new wealth to a state already richly endowed. They make jobs, and contribute to the prosperity of many times the number of people directly interested in the wells.

But to the administration in Springfield the new oil industry apparently suggests only one thing—an opportunity to lay a new tax. The proposed severance tax is being presented with the pretext that it will promote conservation of oil resources, since well owners will be under no pressure to exhaust their wells as quickly as possible in order to avoid extended payments of general property taxes.

Conservation is surely desirable and the severance tax might promote it if the tax replaced property levies, but it will not. Under the state constitution oil properties cannot be exempt from the general levy which local communities make for their governments. The severance tax will be merely an additional burden laid on the new industry by the state government.

Speaker Hugh Cross of the house of representatives is rallying his fellow members of the Republican party to oppose this unjustified levy. He deserves the thanks of the state for his action, and it is to be hoped that he is successful.

Gov. Horner and his followers are saying that the proceeds will be used to increase old age pensions. Speaker Cross has already provided the answer. The Horner administration, he says, has already boosted the cost of running the state government, exclusive of any relief or pension costs, by $33,500,000 a year over the 1933 level. If more money is needed for old age pensions, let Gov. Horner find it by curtailing some of the present wasteful activities and pruning some of the present extravagant pay rolls of the state.

Editorial of the Day

GUARDING CIVIL RIGHTS.

[Kansas City Star.]

A small group of professors, writers, and others manifest considerable concern over what they assert is an attempt by the Dies investigating committee to suppress the civil liberties of American communists.

Of course no real American citizen wants to see any person deprived of his civil liberties or would defend the Dies committee in any such effort. But we should like to know where these professors, writers, and others were just a few short years back when the Black "inquisition" committee was seizing private papers of citizens wholesale in violation of the fourth article of the bill of rights! If a single one of these gentlemen protested then we should like to have a postcard notice to that effect. All of those so replying in ten days will be given a Christmas button.

Not only that, but there was no official New Deal or White House protest against the outrageous proceedings of the Black committee, while there have been several such protests against the Dies committee. Once more, this committee should be kept in line and civil rights should be protected. But why shouldn't the protests extend to the protection of civil rights of all citizens and not merely of communists?

DESIGN FOR A CARTOON.

Alonzo Alumnus Hamlet, U. of C., any time between 1894 and 1930, occupies the foreground of the drawing. In a fit of hysterical anger, he has thrown himself upon the stage, and crouches there, a dreadful figure of shell shock. The ghost of the Maroon football teams, looking strangely like Jay Berwanger in an iron playing mask, is shown as a shadowy figure upstage.

GHOST:

Adieu! Adieu! Adieu! Remember me.

HAMLET:

Remember thee!
Ay, thou poor ghost, while memory holds a seat
In this distracted globe. Remember thee!
Yea, from the table of my memory
I'll wipe all trivial fond records,
All saws of books, all forms, all pressures past,
That youth and observation copied there . . .
*O most pernicious woman!
O villain, villain, smiling, damned villain.†

*Most authorities agree that this refers to Alma Mater.
†Synecdoche [figure of speech, a part for the whole], doubtless referring to the president and board of trustees.

A PSALM FOR FINLAND.

The stars of the north shall fight for brave Finland
And the gods of Valhalla again ride the night winds;
Ursa Major shall fight the great bear of the Russians!

O, Thor, come again with your hill blasting hammer,
With the sledge that battered the mountains to powder;
Let it beat down all the Muscovite armies!

May the Snow King send his white coated legions
And heap up breastworks against the invaders;
May the Borean archers shoot icy arrows!

The stars of the skies are loyal and valiant;
The flags of free nations are full of stars also,
But why do they all look on and do nothing?

O, Balder the beautiful, put on your armor,
Come with your bloodhounds, omnipotent Odin,
Come and come quickly, thou half laggard nations!

Ghost Ships on Morgan's Reef.

Did you ever hear of Morgan's reef? Well, it's a sinister outcropping of limestone out in the lake off the coast of Hyde Park, and many a lumber schooner has broken its back there in the old days of sail.

Again the citizens are hearing muffled explosions off Morgan's reef. Many of them remember the old schooners, firing their signals of distress, and they go down to the beach, looking for ghost ships. But it's only unromantic blasting for a new water tunnel.

New Year's Eve, Grand Pacific Style.

The New Year's eve banquet at the old Grand Pacific hotel in the early '90s was something to marvel at. Prominent men about town and civic dignitaries feasted there by the hundreds, and the menu would offer:

Leg of elk, short ribs of beaver, loin of buffalo, saddle of blacktail deer, moose steak, opossum, squirrel, raccoon, bear, woodchuck, wild turkey, and many other kinds of game, in addition to the customary foods of the season. A. C. Kelly.

Why Mr. Pepys Stopped Writing.

Samuel Pepys, you may remember, had trouble with his eyes, and stopped writing his diary because he was convinced that he was going blind. The last sentence in that immortal work reads: "For all the discomforts that will accompany my being blind, the good God prepare me!"

His affliction has been diagnosed as farsightedness plus astigmatism. See the Columbia University Quarterly of December, 1934 ["Mr. Pepys: His Eyes," by Dr. William H. Woglom], if you want to know more.

A CAT LOOKED AT A TREE.

Thomas, our cat,
Walked in, very prim
And casually looked at the Tree,
And the presents piled high Underneath.
His paw made a tentative touch
At a tinsel wreath,
But the varied display
He looked upon disdainfully.
He said as plain as plain could be,
What? No Christmas gift for me?
Then suddenly his whiskers twitched,
He made a leap for one small box . . .
"For me! For me!" said he!
And sure enough,
O feline joy, O gay carouse!
Some one had sent him
A catnip mouse!

Pierrot.

The Birds Thought It Was the 4th of July.

'Twas Christmas day, bright and sunny and green. Extra rations of grain had been placed in the bird feeding box and the bird bath had been filled with fresh water. Surely birds, too, want drink with their food. Gathered about our table, my family was enjoying the turkey and other choice viands my good wife had cooked. My eyes wandered toward the garden in search of a cardinal who spent the dinner hour there last year. Sparrows, juncos, and a half dozen grackles were dining or playing on the lawn and in the shrubs. And in company with three sparrows, a fat, happy robin, his breast as red as in springtime, was splashing—enjoying his Christmas bath. Nearby on the lawn, another robin hopped about. What a Christmas gift! But I hope robins do not get pneumonia. G. J. S.

"SLEEP EVER—SNORE NEVER."

A SOFT, gentle, purring snore can offend no one. In fact, the sound may be reassuring, indicating restful slumber. It is only when foghorn tendencies are manifested that all and sundry are privileged to voice vigorous objections to this blatant exhibition of poor taste.

All snorers are musical—subconsciously. Some will follow the diatonic scale with ease while others will pursue the chromatic in a manner far less pleasing. As a rule they will start, stop, and backtrack; then begin again with utter disregard of the rules of harmony and counterpoint. Those who display bad tempers during their waking hours may not be content with creating daytime commotion but will indulge persistently in these nightly roarings—punishing all within earshot.

Just what is snoring? It is a trick—executed during sleep—which some individuals learn early in life: that of vibrating the soft palate with every breath. Narrow throats, like the smaller pipes of an organ, emit notes that are shrill. Wide throats, with broad abutments, produce bass harsh tones.

In every assemblage of a dozen or more persons there will be two or three experts; steady, regular performers who refuse to desist regardless of the pleading of their companions. Only with the aid of a dose or two of some powerful hypnotic will we be able to ignore the reverberations. But there is no avail against the offender who gives a dozen or more gasps ending each series with a choking snort. Some day this breach of the peace will be classed by our lawmakers as cause for justifiable homicide.

Public welfare demands that these noisemakers shall submit to a careful examination of the nose and throat to discover whether there is an obstruction to the normal flow of air thru the nasal passages. Sometimes tonsils remain large, even in aduits, and a soft palate may be long enough to give rise to irritation.

Assuming that physical defects do not exist, the question then comes to the fore—can nose breathing be taught? There are no nose snorers. Only when the mouth is wide open and the lower jaw relaxed will the bombardment pour forth. When the tongue falls backward a reed for a perfect tremolo is supplied. This muscular lingual apparatus clogging the throat can be responsible for a raucous rattle of large proportions.

Next, among remedial procedures is to learn to keep the mouth closed. If this cannot be accomplished by practice, a nightcap to which a chin strap is attached may be employed. Unless the oral cavity can be provided with a bulkhead—failure is certain.

Those who recline flat on their backs qualify immediately for this type of maneuver. As unconsciousness deepens, the lower jaw drops automatically, the mouth opens, and the tongue flops. Side sleepers disturb us less frequently and it makes very little difference whether the position is right or left. Some habitués will cease demonstrating as long as this posture is maintained.

The volume of sound is substantial, equaling in some cases the din of a busy street, but the effect is relatively greater because otherwise all is silence. It is a curious fact that one snorer will rarely annoy another. Once settled to the task, each plows ahead oblivious to everything about him. It is not an uncommon experience to record 40 or 50 decibels with an average culprit.

We have societies for the abatement of all sorts of nuisances and I am proposing the organization of a group of kindred spirits to be known as the Amalgamated Association for the Extermination of Snorers [A. A. E. S.]. The constitution and by-laws have been prepared and a committee has been appointed to invent a suitable mouth gag or jaw lifter that may be applied as easily as a clothespin can be slipped over the nostrils. One—a zipper design—has been submitted.

There are no dues and no initiation fee. Every one who is or who has been a victim of one of these pests is eligible for membership. Join now and send in your suggestions. See your legislators and start them drafting relief bills. Remember our slogan—"Sleep Ever—Snore Never."

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

December 28, 1914.

FEATHERED AND EQUINE FRIENDS.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Yesterday a cardinal came on the window sill where I always put food for the birds. His mate, more timid, was in a nearby tree, and he carried food to her. I also saw a robin in the yard.

Last winter, when the big blizzard came, I saw a most interesting thing. I cleared a little space on the porch and put bread out. Soon a hundred or more sparrows came. They alighted on the snow-covered twigs and took their turn flying to the porch. One time, when I looked out, I saw a sparrow that was either partly frozen or exhausted. Two other sparrows were on each side, holding him up or warming him, and feeding him.

In the summer time, when food is more abundant, birds will sometimes swipe food from each other, but in the winter they show good sportsmanship and take turns. On the day of the blizzard, when it was a matter of life and death, it was pretty to see the birds take three or four bits and make way for the next. There is always a lookout in the tree. As soon as I put out food, off he flies, without taking any himself, and soon a big flock returns.

For the little in money and trouble it costs one can get a great deal of pleasure in feeding birds and animals. When I go out I carry a few nuts or peanuts in my pockets in case I meet a squirrel, which I often do.

After several years I again met the horse that followed me up on the sidewalk, wagon and all, because the summer before I had given him an apple. This time he was on the other side of the street, where there was a car line and heavy traffic. I heard a loud, excited neighing. The horse recognized me before I noticed him or the wagon. He was too smart to try to cross, but I went over to him, and there was no mistake about how glad he was to see me. Fortunately a grocery store was near by and I got another apple. GERTRUDE CHARNY.

MR. FARLEY'S GREETINGS.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—Mayor George C. Blume of Jacksonville, Fla., criticized a Christmas card from Postmaster General James A. Farley, mailed with a 1½ cent stamp. I am wondering if the mayor of Jacksonville is not confusing said card with the Christmas letter from the National Democratic committee, Hotel Biltmore, New York City, signed by James A. Farley, chairman of the committee, which bore a 1½ cent stamp. Postmaster General Farley's Christmas card, mailed from Washington, bore a 3 cent stamp. LILLIAN K. DONOVAN.

INNOCENT WORMS.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—L. M. Eifel makes me tired! So cats are cruel killers because they kill birds? What about the cruel birds who kill innocent little worms? It's all nature's plan of survival of the fittest. Why deny the cat a tender morsel once in a while? What about the birds the humans eat? No, they're not song birds, but I'll bet we'd eat them if they grew larger and tasted good! A CAT LOVER.

SOVIET POLICY.

Chicago, Dec. 24. — "Everything the communists do turns to lead," say those with experience in dealing with the comrades. The records show one debacle after another: Spain, passports, daily newspapers, union leadership, and, in the making, Finland. Only brute suppression is keeping even the poorest soviet serfs from expressing their desire for something better. E. C.

FOR JACKSON DAY.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—I suggest that the $25 a plate Jackson day Democrats take time out to remember that at the expiration of his second term as President Andrew Jackson left his political party strong, perfectly organized, and enthusiastic on a platform of low expenditure, payment of the debt, no expenditure for public improvement, or for glory or for display in any form, and low taxes.

Every official act has, for seven long years, been exactly the reverse of the Jacksonian platform outlined above. WENDELL H. BLACKBURN.

MUSEUM HOURS.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—The accompanying suggestion is submitted as a possible solution to the problem of making Chicago's museums available to patrons at night.

Since sound financial reasons preclude adding to the customary eight hours of open house, the hour of opening, now set at 9 a. m., should be moved ahead to the hour of 2 p. m., in which case closing hour would come at 10 p. m. READER.

A MORAL UNIVERSE.

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 24.—How can one read the morning news from Scandinavia and doubt that God is still in control? That boy David hadn't much on brave little Finland. Doesn't it do one's heart good to pray for her? That overgrown polar bear cub appears to have gotten a little too far from its north pole home. FRANK C. WADE.

FOR MR. CHURCH.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—If service to the people means anything, certainly Ralph Church should be promoted to the United States senatorship. To my way of thinking, he is the outstanding Republican in Illinois and ranks high in the nation. JESSE HANCOCK HARLOW.

TAX REFUND.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Why has the refund of real estate taxes of 1934, which were paid under protest, never been paid? The Supreme court upheld the County court order for this refund back in February, 1939. WAITING.

CENSUS INFORMATION.

La Salle, Ill., Dec. 21 [Legal Friend of the People].—I would appreciate it if your column you would advise on the following point: Announcements for the 1940 census say investigators will not only make the usual queries, but will also ask about jobs, if employed, if not, why not, what salary is, and so on.

1. Does a man have to answer these questions or not? It seems to me this is about the limit in snoopery. I have to go to all this fuss every year on my income tax and unless I am legally compelled to I am not going to answer any but [3] legitimate census questions. J. W.

1. U. S. Code, Title 13, section 209, says that the scheduled questions must be answered, subject to fine of $100 or imprisonment for 60 days, or both. This is not a new law.

2. The information is confidential. Most sociologists approve of obtaining statistical data on unemployment for its bearing on a serious national problem.

3. We see nothing illegitimate about the new questions. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CLOSING OF ESTATE.

Chicago, Dec. 21 [Legal Friend of the People].—My brother died June 16, 1939, leaving no will.

1. I being the only heir, is it necessary to probate same?

2. What are lawyer's fees and [3] is it necessary to be bonded if there are no tangible assets?

4. Could same be closed without a lawyer?

5. Case has not yet been closed.

6. Have paid [two years' bond. M. S.

1. Depends on the nature and extent of the assets and on the attitude of parties in possession.

2. Depends on the attorney you employ, on the size of the estate and on other facts.

3. The court ordinarily requires a bond of the administrator.

4. Ordinarily it is advisable to employ an attorney. You are in a better position than we are to say whether you have exceptional capacities along this line.

5. We assume from this that the case has been started. We assumed the contrary from your previous questions.

6. You might ask the clerk of the court to bring pressure to bear on the attorney to see that the estate is closed. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TRIM 4 MILLIONS FROM '40 BUDGET OF SCHOOL BOARD

Year's Tentative Costs Set at $70,706,560.

The tentative draft of the board of education's 1940 budget, calling for $3,106,076 less in expenditures than in 1939, was presented to board members yesterday at their regular meeting. Appropriations for next year total $70,706,560, compared with $74,-812,636 for this year.

A chief factor in the decline, according to President James B. McCahey, is a decrease of $3,762,749 in the board's building fund. Another cut was made in the educational fund, which was set for 1940 at $51,846,000. In 1939, this appropriation was $52,-441,000.

Wage Cuts to Stand.

Officials said that the resultant decrease of $397,000 means that neither the 1½ per cent cut in teachers' salaries nor the 10 month school term will be restored in 1940.

Appropriations for textbooks are increased from $740,325 to $1,035,122. Other decreases are noted in the school playgrounds appropriations, special funds, bond service funds, and high school lunch room allotments. Public hearings on the budget will begin Jan. 8.

Promotions Are Approved.

The board also approved appointments and promotions of various district superintendents and principals recommended by Supt. William H. Johnson.

They follow:

JAMES T. GAFFNEY, high school district superintendent, appointed assistant superintendent in charge of night and summer schools, to replace Harry Keeler, who died last week.

LEO C. McKINSIE, principal of Amundsen High school, named to replace Gaffney.

LEO G. HERDEG, principal of vocational centers, appointed district superintendent in charge of elementary schools.

L. DAY PERRY, principal of the Chase elementary school, appointed principal of Amundsen High school.

GLEN C. WORST, assistant to the president of the Chicago Teachers' college, named principal of Calumet High school.

ROBART H. SOMMERS, principal of McPherson Elementary school, named principal of Austin High school.

MRS. OLIVE BRUNER, principal of the John Elementary school, named principal of the Spalding School for Crippled Children.

NORMAN D. ANDERSON, principal of Carbary Elementary school, appointed principal of vocational centers.

Mrs. William Heffernan, one of the two women board members, voted for Gaffney and Mrs. Bruner, but withheld approval of the other appointees. She charged the appointments were not made on a merit basis. This was denied by Johnson.

TAFT TO ANSWER ROOSEVELT GIBE IN CHICAGO JAN. 5

Will Address Bar Group on Balancing Budget.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1940, today chose Chicago as the place to answer President Roosevelt's challenge to show him how the budget can be balanced.

The senator announced he will speak before the Chicago Bar association on Jan. 5. His subject will be "Mr. President, Here's How to Balance the Budget."

The challenge was issued by the President after the senator declared in a speech at Portland, Me., on Dec. 11, that government expenses could be reduced without impairment of governmental functions and the budget could be balanced in two years.

Told of the senator's statement at a press conference on Dec. 12, Mr. Roosevelt said good, and added that he would offer Taft a very handsome prize for a bill of particulars.

Quote: Roosevelt of 1932.

Informed of the offer a few hours later in Boston, Taft said that no one ever stated the case better than Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932, before he was elected President. Taft recalled that Mr. Roosevelt said in a speech on July 30, 1932:

"Revenue must cover expenditures by one means or another. Any government, like any family, can, for a year, spend a little more than it earns; but you and I know that a continuation of that habit means the poorhouse."

Taft said that the administration's apologists have insisted that the budget cannot be balanced "even tho continuation of excessive spending can lead only to destruction of private enterprise and probably to the destruction of democracy itself."

Retrenchment Plans Lost.

In early preparation of his budget message, Mr. Roosevelt said he would keep the deficit down to 2 billion dollars in the coming fiscal year with judicious use of the blue pencil on appropriation requests and with the aid of expected revenue increases.

In the last week it was disclosed that Mr. Roosevelt's slashing plans have gone astray and he now is reconciled to a 3 billion dollar deficit.

COUNTRY SCHOOL GIRL OF 13 EARNS SPELLING CROWN

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 27 [Special].—Imogene Arthur, 13 years old, a rural school pupil of De Witt county, today won the Illinois elementary school spelling championship. She won over 51 other county contest winners.

Imogene, an eighth grade pupil in the White Pigeon school near Clinton, won the title with ease, missing only 10 words out of 200. The second place winner, Jack O'Neal of West York, Crawford county, missed 29. Third place was won by Mildred Jan McCown of Urbana, Champaign county.

The words which Imogene misspelled were ophthalmia, psychosis, rarefy, cirrhosis, cilia, chauvinism, basilisk, louther, laity and vacillate.

It was Imogene's second trip to the state contest. She was her county champion a year ago, but failed to place in the state competition.

SMOKE CAUSES STIR AT HOSPITAL.

Smoke from a blazing pan of grease caused excitement yesterday in the children's building of County hospital. Firemen quickly located the source of the smoke and put out the fire.

Wife Sues R. H. Schultz, Attorney, for Maintenance

Mrs. Ruth Anderson Schultz filed suit for separate maintenance yesterday against Raymond H. Schultz, attorney at 38 South Dearborn street. She charged that he forced her to leave him on Oct. 21. The suit asserted that Schultz has an income of $30,000 to $50,000 a year. The bill, drawn by Attorney Robert E. Cantwell Jr., said that Mrs. Schultz is in a hospital with a bronchial ailment. It charged that Schultz has refused her permission to return to live with him.

Hamlin Quits Auditor Race; to Run for State Senator

Former Municipal Judge Harry F. Hamlin announced last night that he had withdrawn as a Republican candidate for state auditor and would run for state senator from the 6th district. He said he would support a downstate candidate for auditor in the interests of balancing the Republican ticket. Hamlin served two terms as state representative from 1915 to 1918.

PIONEER MONKEY GLAND ADVOCATE ON WAY TO FRONT

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—Dr. Serge Voronov, French surgeon who startled the world 20 years ago with his monkey-gland rejuvenation operation, sailed on the Italian liner Conte di Savoia today to direct bone and skin grafting operations on wounded soldiers in France.

Dr. Serge Voronov.

Dr. Voronov, who was accompanied by his wife, said the French government had summoned him to head a military hospital near Cannes.

During the World war he worked on the rehabilitation of shelltorn French soldiers thru the grafting of bones from monkeys. In recent years, he said, he has turned from rejuvenation operations to research on thyroid deficiencies, particularly in children.

Atlanta Enters New Year with Money in the Bank

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 27 (AP).—Operating on a $10,000,000 budget under a 16 mill tax levy, Atlanta expects to end the year with a surplus of about $430,000 and all current bills paid. Mayor W. B. Hartsfield said today all obligations of this city of 294,000, except bonded indebtedness not yet due, would be paid this week, and it would enter 1940 with money in the bank. A surplus of about the same amount was on hand at the close of 1938, with a 17 mill per $1 valuation levy. The city's bonded indebtedness—now $12,897,900—was reduced this year by $786,000.

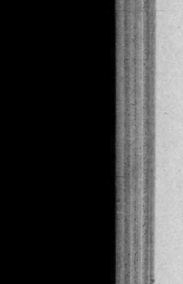
ASSESSOR CLARK ORDERS STUDY OF U. S. CITY TAXING

Appoints McCabe to Task; Patches Up Breach.

Edward J. McCabe, chief deputy county assessor, will begin a vast research project next Tuesday to compile information on the manner in which other large American cities tax every kind of wealth.



Edward J. McCabe.

A nnouncement of his appointment for the task was made yesterday by Assessor John S. Clark. Persons familiar with county affairs said the appointment was definite proof that the breach between McCabe and Clark had been healed.

Away from Office Three Months.

McCabe had been away from his office almost three months. Altho there were many rumors that he had resigned or been dismissed, both he and Clark asserted that their dispute was over methods used in making the quadrennial assessment. McCabe, a state representative, has been ill for several months, but has now recovered.

Among the facts McCabe is to determine are these:

How does Chicago's adjusted tax rate on real estate compare with New York City's? [Rates are adjusted to values over a period of years, rather than to the current values.]

Utilities to Be Studied.

How do Chicago's taxes on public utilities and railroads compare with New York City's and those of other large cities? How do Chicago taxes on banks and holding companies compare with the taxes assessed elsewhere?

The survey also is to assemble data on the individual incomes of Cook county residents and those of residents of other cities.

Clark said the quadrennial task of revaluing Cook county's 1,100,000 parcels of real estate will be completed Jan. 31.

SCIENTISTS FIND ENVIRONMENT A CANCER FACTOR

Environment as a contributing factor in the cause of cancer has been suggested by a recent study made by Dr. Joseph W. Mountin and Harold F. Dorn of Washington, D. C. The results of the research were announced yesterday in The Journal of the American Medical association.

A nation wide survey, based on death rates and population proved that the incidence of cancer varied widely in different parts of the country, the scientists reported. The states around the Great Lakes and bordering the Pacific ocean have rates well above the average for the entire country. New York and the New England states reported three times as many cancer cases as did the south. Rhode Island was highest, with 156 persons per 100,000 population dying of cancer during 1927, as contrasted with 52 for South Carolina.

Altho cancer mortality of all types was lowest in the south, skin cancer was much higher in warmer climates. Nearly two of every five cases of cancer among white men reported in Atlanta affected skin, as compared with one of eight in Chicago.

$973,965 ESTIMATE PUT ON ESTATE OF EDITH McCORMICK

A fourth accounting of the estate of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick showed cash on hand of $973,965 as of last Feb. 2 when it was approved yesterday by Joseph F. Geary, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. The third accounting showed $1,129,564 on hand as of Jan. 11, 1937.

Attorneys for the Chicago Title and Trust company, executor, said outstanding claims of creditors against the estate were in neighborhood of $3,000,000, after one payment of 5 per cent, plus interest, had been made. It was said that any hope of achieving a solvent condition in the estate would rest upon success in selling lots on Mrs. McCormick's Lake Forest estate, Villa Turicum. The 253 acres were subdivided last February, but so far there have been no buyers.

Since the last accounting disbursements included $45,882 in property taxes, $11,434 for upkeep of the Lake Forest estate, $120,510 in settlement of claims, and $5,003 for insurance. About $700,000 is reserved for payment of federal estate taxes, while the state inheritance tax of $21,497 already has been paid.

FRIEND SOLVES NAME MIXUP AND SAVES PENSION

Frank Heher, 66 years old, became ill Dec. 17 in his room at the Monarch hotel, 517 North Clark street, where he was formerly a clerk. He was taken to the county hospital by East Chicago avenue police.

Heher's old age pension check arrived, bearing the notation that it must be cashed before Jan. 1 or Heher would be dropped from the rolls. John Kinney, night clerk at the hotel, called the hospital. He was told there was no Heher listed as a patient.

Last night Kinney continued his inquiries. Heher is going to get his check. He was found in ward 25 at the hospital under the name of Neher. As an incidental addition to the confusion, police had his name as Heker.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Index of 1939.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 27.—Best picture of the year [these are one man's opinions], "Gone with the Wind." . . . Top male performance of the year, Jimmy Stewart's thrilling emoting in "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington." . . . Top femme performance, Vivien Leigh in "Gone with the Wind." . . . Best supporting performance of the year, Actor Thomas Mitchell in "Stagecoach." . . . Best femme supporting rôle of the year, a tie between Jane Bryan in "The Old Maid" and colored Hattie McDaniel in "Gone with the Wind."

Best of the foreign pictures, "End of Day." . . . Finest musical score of the cinema year, the job turned in by Harold Arlen and Yip Harburg for "Wizard of Oz." . . . Most interesting of the young actors, Laurence Olivier. . . . Most splendid comeback, that of Marlene Dietrich in "Destry Rides Again." . . . Add grander performances: Robert Montgomery's pretending in "Earl of Chicago."

Scenes that I liked best of the year, two in "Balalaika": [1] When Ilona Massey goes to the cemetery to talk to her mother; [2] the trench scenes when the Russian nobleman listens to the Austrians singing "Silent Night" on the eve of Christmas . . . and Joan Fontaine's telephone scene in "The Women."

Sprightliest comedy of the year, "Honeymoon in Bali" with Fred MacMurray and Madeleine Carroll [I rated it above Garbo's "Ninotchka"]. . . . Most consistent of the Hollywood producers, Joe Pasternak, at Universal. . . . Director who was most consistent, John Ford, who sponsored "Stagecoach," "Young Mr. Lincoln" and "Grapes of Wrath."

Kid stars who made the greatest strides forward, Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland. . . . Most pretentious bore of the year, "Hunchback of Notre Dame." . . . Picture that deviated most from the book and suffered accordingly, "Jamaica Inn." . . . It was a bad year for C. Laughton.

Young actress who made the greatest leap forward, Olivia De Havilland as a result of her characterization of "Melanie." . . . Gal I've missed most from the screen, Katharine Hepburn [I still insist she should have played the Bette Davis rôle in "Dark Victory"]. . . . Top comeback among directors, that of Ernst Lubitsch. . . . Most shocking deaths, those of Alice Brady and Doug Fairbanks Sr.

Girl who got most publicity in 1939, Ann Sheridan, without turning in a single compelling performance.

Most neglected picture of the season, "Made for Each Other" with C. Lombard and J. Stewart. . . . Veteran who made the most stirring comeback, Harry Carey. . . . Glamor girl who learned more about her business than any other, Paulette Goddard, steadily on the improve.

Most welcome news of 1939, the return to action of William Powell. . . . Happiest off screen ending: Andrea Leeds' marriage to Bob Howard. . . . Saddest off screen ending, the divorce of the Al Jolsons. . . . Comedian who had the most spectacular 12 months, Bob Hope, who clicked on the air and finally got "Cat and the Canary" after a siege of brutal Paramount flickers.

Hardest luck individual of the colony, Richard Greene, who spends most of his time recuperating and convalescing.

Cinderella girl of 1939, Texan Mary Martin. . . . Most surprising romance of the year, George Raft and Norma. . . . Most discussed opening, that of the new Arrowhead Springs hotel. . . . Biggest coast football upset, U. C. L. A. holding U. S. C. to a scoreless tie [the U. S. C. rooters are still paying off in weekly instalments].

Girl who shows the greatest promise, Maureen O'Hara. . . . Singer who clicked in the finest comeback effort, Allan Jones in "The Great Victor Herbert," [and a bow to amazing little Suzanna Foster in the same]. . . . Individual who scored the "grand slam" of the entertainment world, Buddy De Sylva. . . . He had the song, "Wishing," which became a No. 1 hit; his picture, "Bachelor Mother," broke box office records, and "Dubarry Was a Lady" is doing handsomely on the stage. . . . All he lacked was a radio sponsor, huh?

One of the great performances of the season, Robert Donat in Hilton's story. . . . Foreign veteran who got the best break in 1939 movies, Will Fyffe in "Rulers of the Sea."

Good Morning!

Tho Alice Faye and Warner Baxter are very much in evidence, "Barricade" is decidedly Charles Winninger's picture.

The locale is China, 1937. Mr. Winninger is seen as a United States consul, appointed by McKinley to an obscure post and forgotten ever since. With war waging all around him, he steadfastly refuses to seek safety. Where he has been put he will stay until release comes from the powers who put him there. . . .

To his consulate comes a girl from Brooklyn, posing as the Russian wife of a dead American newspaper man, and a newspaper reporter out of a job. The former, a cabaret singer, has got herself in a mess and hopes to obtain a passport to America. The latter has been industriously trying to drown unpleasant memories in drink. . . . The war hits the consulate, but not before Topping has managed to send out a story which eventually brings recognition to the brave little consul. . . .

By the end of the film Emmy and Hank have got themselves straightened out and are making plans for a worth while life together. The piece concludes on a cheery note. . . .

Mr. Winninger's characterization is a sincere and appealing one. He makes every minute count that he's in evidence. Miss Faye and Mr. Baxter do all they can do with rôles not particularly well tailored for them. . . . So, I might say, do all other players. They should have had a better story.

Direction's pretty good.

See you tomorrow.

The Housewife

If you received a handsome table lamp for Christmas and you want to protect the delicate silk shade you can do so by purchasing an oiled silk shade cover. You must remove the transparent wrappings in which the shade came as these will warp the shade when the light is on and they become heated.

But the regular shade cover, made especially for the purpose, can be left on all the time and will not shrink or bind. EDITH WEIGLE.

Triangle Club Adds to Gayety of Buds Today

The special train carrying the Princeton Triangle club and its show equipment will arrive this morning from St. Louis. The club will give its annual Chicago performance tonight at the Civic Opera house.

As soon as the actors awaken [around noon—by force] they will start making life gay for alumni and debutantes. A committee of Princeton undergraduates, headed by Donald B. Douglas Jr., will take charge of the Thespians during the day, a service that is appreciated by the alumni committee, William A. Cremin, Arthur M. Wood and Charles Fitzmorris Jr.

The club members will be given a luncheon at the Palmer House. Dr. and Mrs. Loyal Davis have invited the Trianglers to a tea-dance they are giving at the Casino to introduce their debutante daughter, Miss Nancy Davis. Mrs. Frank Birney and her son, Frank, who is a member of the club, have invited some of the members to a cocktail party Mrs. Birney is giving for Miss Jane Boyce and James H. Oughton Jr., who are to be married in New York on Jan. 24.

After the show, called "Any Moment Now," the members will go to the Blackstone hotel for a ball Mr. and Mrs. Hill Blackett are giving for their debutante daughter, Miss Priscilla Blackett.

Dozens of parties for Princeton friends of all ages will be given tonight in the opera house. Mr. and Mrs. T. Philip Swift have planned one of the largest of the debutante dinner and Triangle parties. They are entertaining for four buds, Miss Barbara Blossom, Miss Edith Cowles, Miss Helen Dick and Miss Edith Porter. Miss Jean Husted is entertaining similarly for Miss Patricia Austin. Both young women are debutantes.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Burgess are entertaining for Debutante Carolyn Mellinger. The Jule A. Petersens are giving a party for Miss Elise Petersen and Miss Marilyn Martin. Miss Jane Zimmerman's party is for Miss Dorothy Warner.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine is giving a dinner at home for Miss Davis, her assistants and their escorts, preceding the Triangle show and following the Davis tea-dance.

Two Prominent Men to Wed Eastern Girls

BY JUDITH CASS.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the engagements of two of Chicago's young bachelors to eastern girls is today's most interesting romantic news. At a reception at their home in New York yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Banks made known that their daughter, Marjory, is to marry Uri Balcom Grannis Jr. of Lake Forest.

At a party tomorrow at their home, Stone Barn farm, in Dartmouth, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Boyden are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Secor Delehay Browne of Chicago.

Miss Banks attended the Ethel Walker school in Simsbury, Conn., and Miss Nixon's in Florence, Italy. She made her debut at the Tuxedo ball in 1935 and is a member of the Junior league. The family's country home is at Suffern, near Tuxedo. Miss Banks is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Otis H. Cutler of New York and of the late Mrs. Alexander Mills Banks of Dundee, Scotland.

Mr. Grannis is a son of Uri B. Grannis and the late Mrs. Grannis, who, before her marriage, was Jane Given. Young Mr. Grannis attended the Hill school and was graduated from Princeton university in 1935. He was in New York for the announcement party yesterday. The wedding is planned for the spring. There are two other Grannis sons, Dustin and William Given.

Boyden Wedding Planned for March.

Mr. Browne, the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Aldis J. Browne, is going east today to spend the week-end with the Boydens. He is a grandson on the paternal side of Mrs. Aldis B. Browne of Washington, D. C., who is Miss Boyden's maternal grandmother.

Miss Boyden and Mr. Browne are planning to be married in the Episcopal church in New Bedford, Mass., late in March, with a reception following at Stone Barn farm.

Miss Boyden will be an addition to local hunting circles when she comes here to live. She is an enthusiastic horsewoman, and hunts with the Quansett hounds. She was introduced to society at the Thanksgiving assembly of 1938, and was educated privately and at the Friends' academy in New Bedford. She is coming west for a visit with the Brownes late in January.

Mr. Browne, a grandson of the Secor Cunninghams, is a graduate of Middlesex and of Harvard. While at the university he was a member of the Signet club, the instrumental clubs, and of Hasty Pudding—Institute of 1770. He has a brother, Aldis Jr., who is married to the former Bertha Erminger, and a 13 year old sister, Elizabeth, better known as Chou-chou.

Laura Moyer Will Become Bride Today

An ivory bouquet holder, which has been carried by four generations of brides in her mother's family, will be Miss Laura Moyer's "something old" when she becomes the bride of Arthur Andrews Burrows Jr. this afternoon. The ceremony will be performed at 4 o'clock in St. James' church by the Rev. Duncan Browne and will be followed by Happy Omission.

One of the things to be grateful for about the war in Finland, aside from their successes, is, according to John Lyons, the fact that so far none of the correspondents has seen fit to refer to the Finn-Red line. Or have they?

Omniscient Postal Service.

An envelope addressed to Alec Templeton as follows bearing Christmas greetings from Kathleen, June, and Gene Lockhart, 2242 North Catalina street, Hollywood, was delivered to him within 24 hours after it was mailed in California. The envelope inscription read:

Please, mister mailman, try to find
The joyful soul who's in our mind;

At sevenish he's on the air,
To help us banish woe and care;

No smarter alec in the land
Than he who spoofs the opera grand;

From out his temple tons of songs
Cascade upon the listening throngs;

He's in Chicago with his père,
I know that much, but don't know where;

Please, mister mailman, try to find
The joyful soul who's in our mind.

A soft snow dusting the brown leaves . . . a new moon, yellow, with a star within its arms . . . soft creaking as sparkling ice crusts the river, stilling its gentle murmur and leaving memories of a glorious year . . . in the gentle stillness an owl hoots mournfully and a soft rustle in the dried leaves under an oak tree tells that another creature was heard also . . . an all pervading peace spreads over the world, far from the lights and noise of the city . . . perhaps peace does rule the world, and good will toward men is the rule rather than the exception . . . such are my thoughts on a Christmas eve on a midnight walk in the country.

INSTALMENT XI.

THRU A DEADLY BARRIER.

Leonard's face was drawn into a knot, the lines were deep between his nostrils and his lip ends, they were like scars between his brows. The sweat was a shining film creeping down from his hair, covering his features, his shoulders, his arms. He did not look around. Collins shifted a little further this time. He was reaching out to grasp the nearest steel, it was a two foot length, his fingers were touching it.

Something was wrong. The message was trying to impress itself upon Leonard's mind. It was like one who is trying to warn another, plucking at his sleeve. He was not conscious of its presence at first, then he began to feel it. Suddenly he remembered Collins and he looked around.

Collins' fingers had closed upon the steel. He was lifting it from its place beside the granite wall, and he was on his knees, getting to his feet when Leonard dropped the hammer and picked up his revolver. The thing that happened then has taken place more than once in the underground passages of mines where the air is thick and the blackness works on the minds of men who are unstrung.

Collins dropped the steel and ran. And as he raced up the tunnel, his voice trailed behind him: it was a single yell, hoarse, prolonged, it was more like the voice of an animal than a man.

He was running blind, his arms outstretched before him. He collided with the granite wall and ricocheted like a stone that has been flung, he fell to his knees, rose, and started on again. He was at the mouth of the winze when Leonard sprang upon his back and bore him down.

They fell within a foot of the edge and their limbs were twisted about one another. When Leonard's fingers found Collins' throat their bodies were hanging over the black hole.

The strength that comes to the insane was in Collins but the purpose that owned Leonard was mightier. He did not feel the blows, he was unconscious of the other's struggling. Collins ceased to strike, his body grew limp. Leonard rose and picked it up, he held it over the brink and he was about to drop it when he remembered the promise that he had made to himself.

"When you die," he said thickly, "it's going to be in a Florence penitentiary."

He dragged the limp form back down the tunnel to the portal and threw it aside, as a man would throw a sackful of grain. He picked up his hammer and went to work.

The second hour had gone by when he had the last hole finished. He spooned out the pulverized rock and went to the powder box. Collins was sitting with his back against the timber, his eyes were dull, his chin was on his chest, he did not even move his head.

Three holes, and four sticks to a hole. Leonard tamped them down and lit the fuses. Three little tenuous coils of smoke arose. When he looked around after that, he saw that Collins was watching him again.

"Get up. And go ahead of me," Leonard growled. His revolver was tucked inside his waistband, he held one hand on the flat butt.

The air was muggy, it was growing worse every minute. Leonard's arms had a dead, heavy feeling, his legs dragged as he followed the prisoner toward the heading. He held the carbide lamp in his left hand and he noticed that the flame was dim.

"It's going to be bad after that shot pulls," he was thinking. "No man can eat that much smoke and live."

He had cut the fuses short. The explosions came before they reached the winze. A soundless concussion of compressed air, a sharp report, then the rattle of rocks. Leonard reached out and gripped Collins by the collar.

He was peering thru the blackness toward the portal. It seemed to him that he saw a little streak of whiteness, then he was certain of it. If the draught only pulled outward, and if it was strong enough to clear away some of the smoke, there might be a chance. He must wait for that a while.

The ugly reek of nitro gases was in his nostrils. The veins on his forehead were beginning to swell, and a few moments later the pounding of blood on his brain was like the blows of a trip hammer. He said,

"Let's go."

The smoke was thicker as they neared the portal. He kept his grip on Collins' collar. The blows on his brain were growing harder, his head was reeling, his feet did not seem to belong to him, they were like enormous weights, they would not move where he willed. He was staggering like a drunken man. But he could still see the strip of light before him and he made himself go.

Collins had collapsed. He was a limp thing, a sack, half filled, that dragged and swung, and once it tripped the feet of the man who was dragging it.

Leonard had dropped the carbide lamp. Blindness had come, the hammering on his brain had struck him down. He was on his hands and knees, creeping thru the darkness. There was a weight upon his shoulders, a limp weight that sagged from one side to the other, impeding him.

He was still crawling when all things—the burden he was carrying, the effort of movement, the pain—were swallowed in a blankness that had come to senses and to brain. He was creeping up the broken rock where the powder had torn the granite into chunks. . . .

He was lying on the slope where the debris had fallen in a great heap outside the portal. The man upon his back was bearing him down, pressing his head into the splintered muck. He was still lying there, motionless, when Collins began to regain consciousness.

Collins had remained inert during the passage thru the space where the gases hung thickest, he had not breathed so deeply as the man who had carried him. As the poison began to leave his lungs, he saw the outer world once more. Then he was very sick. It left him weak. He was kneeling beside Leonard when he noticed the revolver.

It was several minutes before he was able to realize exactly what it meant. And more minutes passed before he was able to summon enough strength to pull the weapon from its place.

The man called Papago had a good right to his nickname. Altho his hair was brown and his eyes the color of dull steel when the sun is shinking on it, he looked like an Indian. It was not only the deep stain of the sun and wind on his lean features, it was in good part the way he carried himself, the manner of his movements. He owned that sure deliberation, the lack of abruptness, which is sometimes mistaken for slowness. He had spent much time in the sections of the southwest desert which are out of reach from highways and country roads, where a misstep may bring disaster and a mistake of judgment may result in a slow and extremely unpleasant death. And so he had fallen into the habit of preparedness: whenever he set about a thing, he was equipped to meet the unexpected, ready to cope with eventualities.

When Pat had driven away down the road toward Golconda, he made no haste, he drove his dingy little car back to the Old Stone Mine house at less than twenty miles an hour. To look at him, with one hand negligently resting on the steering wheel, leaning back in the seat apparently enjoying his cigaret to the utmost, one would have thought that there was nothing on his mind. Which was far from the case, he was doing plenty of thinking and it was all to the point.

The car had originally been a touring model but it was cut down, there was no top. The paint was in bad shape and the fenders were scarred by encounters with the rocks in more than one sun baked canyon. It was not much of a car to look at, but if a mechanic lifted the hood he would find cause for admiration. On the body, just behind the door and within reach of the driver's arm, there was one of those scabbards which cowboys used to lash under their stirrup leathers in the old days of the open range. The first thing that he did when he arrived at his house was to bring out his rifle and place it in this sheath. Thereafter he got his field glasses, some spare ammunition, a couple of canteens, one a five gallon, the other, two quarts, both of them filled with water, a can of oil and a sheet of heavy canvas, which last item often proved useful as an aid to getting traction for the wheels when they bogged down in loose sand. He made certain that he had a spare sack of tobacco and papers, looked at his matches, and was set to go.

GASOLINE ALLEY—WISHFUL THINKING

Offered Love or Money, Boy Is in Doubt!

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: I am going with a girl I like but do not love. Her father promises me a good position if I marry her. But I am in love with a girl whose father has no money. If I marry the girl I love, instead of the girl I like, I will have to look for work 'on my own.' Which girl should I marry? CURLY TOP."

Of all things, Curly Top! Do you expect us to advise you to marry a girl you do not love just because her father has money and can give you a soft job which will enable you to live "the life of Reilly"? We know what you're thinking. You're thinking that you're passing up the chance of a lifetime to get on "easy street."

You are comparing the luxuries you could have if you married a girl whose father has money with the struggle you would have if you married the girl you love. The picture may look rosy to you now, but have you looked into the future? What if the girl's father loses all his money, as countless fathers have done in recent years?

Supposing the father doesn't lose his money, and he gives you the many luxuries you could not afford were you and his daughter forced to live on whatever salary you earned. Would you be happy? Would the girl be happy when she discovered you married her just for her money? What about the girl you really love and who loves you? Do you care what SHE thinks of you?

Child's Sense of Justice Is Not an Adult's

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

If we could put on the glasses thru which children look at life, what surprises would be in store for us. In many cases it would be like looking thru the "wrong end" of field glasses. Objects which are large look very small. There would even be instances of acts of his, which we regard as wrong, looking right to the child. And what we regard as justice in our treatment of a son or daughter, often seems flagrantly unjust to them.

If, when children are reproved or punished or reproached, they could always feel that justice had prevailed, what a gain that would be. It would help them so much in their relations with grownups. It would help them to a faith in these grownups and to a greater sense of security.

I'm thinking just now more of what we call serious misbehavior than of the little everyday things, and I'm thinking more of the inbetweens and adolescents than of the extremely young children.

We're inclined to take for granted that we know why children act in certain ways. But we forget much too often that their point of view is greatly at variance with ours. We think we know their motives for doing things because we know what ours would be under the circumstances. But much too often we're wrong. We make a snap judgment, give a quick rebuke or punishment, and so create a sense of injustice or resentment in a child.

The last of these doubtful 8 days which have seen many destructive forces at work this year. Powerful vibrations.

Those born on this date may have a little regret to see this year fade out as far as material gains are concerned. The coming year brings many emotional problems and will call for the ending of many associations, and the severing of many strong ties. It won't be an easy year to face it with nerves in good shape.

Right Clothes Help Defeat Crowd Fright

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We talked the other day about clothes that give you assurance and clothes that make you feel self-conscious.

Another point on putting forth one's best foot these busy social days, or nonsocial for that matter, has to do with that oft-suffered malaise, "crowd fright." Those of you who have experienced "crowd fright" know how painfully self-conscious you can become in new surroundings among new groups of people. We were reminded of this charmingly by the well known actress, Elsie Hitz. She's the same young woman credited with radio's most perfect speaking voice. She has known "crowd fright." She insists her admirable poise now isn't a gift but something that had to be acquired. Other women can do the same, she points.

There are so many persons who are perfectly at ease with their own friends who become reticent and uncomfortable among strangers. To overcome the difficulty Miss Hitz points out that doctors, before outlining a cure for a malady, first diagnose its cause. So, she asks: "Why not be your own personality doctor?" Diagnose the reason for your self-consciousness. Then prescribe the cure that fits your case.

In social gatherings, you are struck "dumb" because you are busy worrying about your appearance, about the impression you are making. The trick here, then, is to resolve in future to dress and make up carefully and completely so that you know you look your best and then, when the boudoir door is closed, forget your appearance.

If you are shy among witty people, meeting a great number of people will aid. In the interim, Miss Hitz advises, supply yourself with a little storehouse of conversational material (hrs remembering anecdotes told, funny experiences related, etc.

If you cannot keep up a steady flow of scintillating talk, refuse to feel self-conscious or guilty about it. If you look interested and alert even tho you sit and say nothing, you may be more admired than a guest who prattles on endlessly.

Don't withdraw from a group—defeated. Stick it out as a lesson in self-command. Pick out one friendly person and talk to that one. Take on another after you see how easily it works.

More than 250 Harvard graduates, undergraduates, and prospective students yesterday attended the annual fathers' and sons' luncheon sponsored by the Harvard Club of Chicago in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House. A football autographed by Coach Dick Harlow and members of the 1939 football team was won in a drawing by Fred Horween, 7 years old, son of Ralph Horween, Winnetka, class of 1918, now a Chicago attorney. Horween was a half back on the Harvard team.

The New Ballet About Satan Is a Colorful One

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Last night was Satan's night at the Auditorium. He strolled the stage for the best part of an hour distributing gold, enraging lovers, impersonating a fox, gumming up a street fiesta.

The occasion was the first Chicago performance of "Devil's Holiday," one of the six novelties now brightening the schedules of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. The company presented it on a bill which also included one standard work ["Les Sylphides"] and two other novelties, "Igrouchki" and "Capriccio Espagnol."

The fantastic story of "Devil's Holiday" is well set forth by the vigorous choreography of Frederick Ashton. In costumes and against scenery designed by Eugene Berman, a motley crowd of Italian townsfolk, hunters, gypsies, and assorted merrymakers bound their way thru the piece. The music is Paganini's—colored up a little by Vincenzo Tommasini—and much of it is familiar.

Strongest first impressions were made by Berman's effective use of color [here splashed on generously, there combined subtly and complexly], by the imagination which went into the designs [notably the tortured, twisted Paganini curtain], and by the fine bits of characterization which Ashton managed to fit into his fast moving [the devil, for example, is no Faust devil but a curious compound of Renaissance imagination and ancient lore].

Special honors in the performance went to Marc Platoff for his many faceted Satan, to Alexandra Danilova for the light touches she brought to her enactment of the young girl, to Robert Irwin for his romantic and at the same time sturdy impersonation of the beggar, to George Zoritch for the patrician ease and delicacy of his work as the fiancé, and to Nathalie Krassovska for the humor of her gypsy girl.

Efrem Kurtz conducted. The orchestra men had some trouble with the score. They played the notes, but much of the performance was oomphless.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

More and more women seem to be swinging over to the heavier type of cleansing cream. They feel—and we think they're right—that a cream that softens as it cleanses is a wise choice for the kind of skin that dries out in cold weather.

Among creams of this type we have rather a special pet. In our own family it's rated as the winter favorite. It's called an emulsified cream and in texture it's something like marshmallow icing. It's not one of those quick cleansers that you slather on and wipe right off.

Because it's rather a thick, smeary cream our favorite way to use it is to smooth it on and let it stay on the skin anywhere from a few minutes to half an hour, depending on how much time we can spare to the business of face cleaning.

The grime simply rolls off when you remove the cream and the skin is visibly softer than it was before it was applied. It comes close to being a lubricating as well as a cleansing cream, tho cleansing is its first function.

This has a pleasant, delicate fragrance, and you can tell when you touch your fingers to it that it's made of rich oils. If you don't use a foundation but do like a bit of moisture in the skin before applying your makeup you'll like this as a pre-makeup cleanser. Tho it doesn't leave the skin greasy it does leave it just a little "dewey."

This cream has the added advantage of being reasonably priced. It comes in various sizes; the largest ones are wonderful buys.

A Truly Versatile Pattern

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The versatility of this pattern is such that you may make with it a dress for the home, a semi-tailored model for southern resort wear, or a street dress with youthful lines. In fact, you may make all three, and no one will be able to guess that one simple pattern was all you used.

The home frock should be made of inexpensive cottons, plain or figured, while the model for vacation wear down south should be of washable silk, one of the finer types of cottons, or pastel, lightweight woolen. The street dress may be of crêpe, velvet, velveteen, or sheer woolen in a dark color with light accents.

Style No. 3139 is designed for size 16 and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material for dress, with 1 yard of contrasting for collar, cuffs, and pocket bands.

Yankee Greasy Drives Greazy Back Into Dixie

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

If Mary's little lamb is from southern Illinois, its mistress will get nothing but a blank stare by simply shouting, "Sheep!" But let her substitute, "Ko-dack!" and her pet will come running.

This was one of the lighter discoveries in linguistic geography reported yesterday to the National Association of Teachers of Speech at its meeting in the Stevens hotel by Harold B. Allen. Allen is field investigator of a survey of folk speech in the Great Lakes region and assistant editor of the Middle English Dictionary at the University of Michigan.

Old settlers' accents have been recorded in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois in a preliminary survey, Allen told the convention. Kentucky, Wisconsin, and lower Ontario will be included by September.

Working on a grant made by the Horace H. Rackham foundation, Allen and his associates are compiling for this region a study similar to one that has been made in the New England states.

In contrast to eastern and southern speech, the middle west was generally thought of as having common characteristics, Allen said, but the survey has brought out many variations which follow the pattern of land settlement during the early 19th century.

Northern forms brought west by New Englanders have pushed back the southern variants of the Virginia and Kentucky settlers who crossed the Ohio a hundred years ago. The line runs from the Mississippi at a point south of Quincy, Ill., northeastward to Fort Wayne, Ind., and south to Wheeling, W. Va. Up in Elburn, in Kane county, for example, the folks say diphtheria, two pounds, greasy, wish bone, poison ivy, and whipple tree. But down in Golconda in Pope county the old timers say, accordingly, diphthery, two pound, greazy, pulley bone, poison vine, and singletree.

A brown and savory pot roast with gravy made from its own drippings is a sure cure for hunger at any man's table. It means economy for that man's wife, too, for, an inexpensive cut to begin with, it can make a second day appearance and receive just as big a welcome.

The seasonings one uses for a pot roast are a matter of personal taste. This basic recipe will produce an excellent, flavorful piece of meat if directions are followed, but other seasonings, as indicated, may be added if the cook so desires.

Chuck pot roast seems to be an excellent buy at this time. Any other of the less expensive cuts of beef may be treated in a similar manner.

POT ROAST OF BEEF.

Choose a piece of meat weighing at least three or four pounds. Trim off a little of the fat and fry it out in a skillet, or if the meat is lean melt a little lard or bacon fat in the pan. Add an onion, sliced, and let cook several minutes. Remove the pieces of onion and place the meat in the skillet. Brown the meat well on all sides. It may be dredged with flour first, as flour aids in giving brown color.

Sprinkle the meat with salt and pepper and add a half teaspoon of celery salt and a fourth cup of water. Cover the pan, turn down the heat, and let the roast cook very gently until tender for several hours. As the water cooks off add more in very small amounts. Potatoes and other vegetables, such as carrots, may be added to the cooking meat about 45 minutes before dinnertime.

Remove meat and carrots to a hot platter, let the potatoes brown in the drippings, remove them to the platter, and then make gravy.

A tip on gravy making: Let the flour brown in the meat drippings before adding liquid if you want it to be brown. And remember that browned flour has lost some of its thickening power, so add a little more than you'd want for white sauce.

POT ROAST VARIATIONS—Add tomato juice, cranberry juice, pineapple juice or sour cream instead of water to the roast, but remember that fruit juice will make a fruity gravy. Add herbs such as thyme, sage, parsley, or bay leaf to the cooking roast. Celery tops may be used instead of celery salt.

Here are two ideas for second day pot roast, both of which are appetizing:

MEAT AND MACARONI CASSEROLE.

Cook macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender, drain and add melted butter and grated cheese. Line a greased casserole with the macaroni and fill with sliced or chopped left-over pot roast, seasoned with salt and pepper. Cover with canned tomatoes, top with crumbs and more grated cheese, and bake until thoroly hot in a 375 degree oven.

MEAT CROQUETTES.

Melt ¼ cup butter in a saucepan, add ¼ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Stir until smooth and add slowly 1 cup milk, stirring constantly. Cook until thick, then add 2 cups finely chopped cooked meat, 1 teaspoon minced onion, and 1 teaspoon chopped parsley. Chill, shape into patties, balls, or cones, and roll in sifted dry bread or cracker crumbs, in diluted egg, and again in crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat at 390 degrees until golden brown on all sides. Drain on soft paper and serve hot with white sauce or tomato sauce.

Outdoor Togs Are Priced for Smart Money

BY RHEA SEEGER.

No shopping apathy these in-between days. With the crowds down doing the exchanging, the shopping sleuths out for the bargains, and the gadabouts stocking the wardrobes for a flight to the southern resorts, the town is just as busy as it was last week.

You couldn't ask for a better time to find a stunning winter coat tagged for a modest sum, or an extra wool daytime dress also reduced for the bargain brigade. Costume accessories are other slick finds for the appreciative bargain buyer.

Winter sports togs are brilliant and irresistible. Mittens of all kinds and colors, socks, caps, and matching scarfs, together with waistcoat sweaters, cardigans, and pullovers, are abundant in color and styles. Separate skirts and jackets also are plentiful.

Sports clothes for the tropic wardrobes or for cruise luggage blaze with color. Slacks especially catch the eye because of the carbon blues, the tawny old gold shades, the aquamarine blues, and deep cypress green. Bright clear shades of yellow, turquoise, mint greens, and powdery pastels with lots of sugar white materials make these assortments particularly easy to shop. Sweaters still top the lists in popular favor. You'll wear them from dawn till dark for casual daytime wear, for afternoon with tweeds or smooth woolen suits or with dress parade slacks of velvet.

Gold and silver embroidery, sequin and multicolored beads make the dress parade sweaters, while fancy stitches, soft chenille yarn, and lovely colors mark the simpler but always smart classics for casual wear.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Recently I was advising one of these husbands on wives affairs and was invited to substitute for a few hands while one of the husbands went on an errand. The following gem was dealt during my incumbency while I sat North:

"South, dealer.
"North-South vulnerable.

	NORTH

"The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	2 diamonds	Pass	3 hearts
Pass	3 no tramp	Pass	4 diamonds
Pass	6 diamonds	Pass	6 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

"The controversy which ensued did not concern the bidding. I admit that my second bid should have been three diamonds, but my actual bid was brought about by the fact that in a hand dealt shortly before I had made a positive response to an opening two bid with a king-queen and a void deck and had eventually played the hand at seven no trump, being forced to take a finesse in each of four suits and find two suits breaking favorably, one of which didn't happen, so on this hand I attempted to be a trifle discouraging.

"The ace of spades captured the opening lead, and after studying the layout for about five minutes I realized that it might as well be now or later and took the diamond finesse, which lost to a singleton king.

"My partner maintained that I should have run the clubs and hearts before trying the diamond finesse, with the hope that somebody would ruff losing diamonds. I pointed out that, in that event, should the king be right, twice guarded, I left myself no chance to fulfill the contract. He then changed to the contention that I should have at least run my clubs with this hope.

"I contented myself by pointing out that there were several spades that could be used for discards, that such reasoning [?] was the product of an unsound mind and the harbinger of senility, and inquired why in ?!%$!! he wanted to bid seven of anything, especially no trump. However, all hands were against me, including the absentee husband, when he learned of what had happened, maintaining that I was dodging the issue and that I had misplayed the hand. If you care to comment, I would appreciate it. Maybe I'm nuts. T. S., Texas."

Criticism of the type offered the luckless declarer, my correspondent, might well be used as advertising copy by lunatic asylums. Personally, I would be afraid to tell a partner that he "should have run the club suit before taking the diamond finesse," because [a] I would fear a homicidal reaction from him and [b] I also would fear reprisals from the opponents whom I had so outrageously insulted with the suggestion that they might discard diamonds and thereby disclose the vulnerable condition of the blank king.

There was only one way to make this contract, and that was to find the diamond king onside. Any amount of stalling, squirming, or fidgeting could have no good result unless it were accompanied by an out-and-out peek.

South's seven no trump bid would have been an excellent call if he had had the king of diamonds.

HOW TO USE 第一 IN A SENTENCE

They say the way to learn a foreign language is to speak it. Take the Chinese word 第一. Easy as pie to learn that word by using it in a sentence:

第一 in war, 第一 in peace, 第一 in the hearts of his countrymen.

If you don't care for that sentence, try this:

Again in 1939 The Saturday Evening Post was 第一 in volume of advertising. The Post was 第一 in foods, 第一 in automobiles, 第一 in toilet goods, 第一 in home appliances, 第一 in any number of other important fields.

Scholars say that if you use a new word three times you will never forget it. So by now you know that 第一 means that the Post is 第一 choice of American advertisers. Why? Because they know people like to read advertising in the Post. Many readers say that when they pick up the Post they turn 第一 to the advertising pages.

No wonder the Post leads all other weekly magazines by over eleven million dollars. No wonder, though second and third places change from year to year, the Post is always 第一

INDIANA WINS; ILLINOIS BEATS NOTRE DAME

ENTRY LISTS OPEN FOR SILVER SKATES DERBIES

GARFIELD PARK SITE OF EVENT JAN. 13 AND 14

Meet First Held in 1917.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The 23d Silver Skates Derbies sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., will be held in Garfield park Jan. 13 and 14. The entry lists now are open. In the event the races cannot be held on that week-end because of inclement weather, the Illinois Skating association has granted the dates of Jan. 20 and 21.

Louis Massin [1939 men's senior champion]

The entry list which will be compiled between this morning and midnight Jan. 7, will determine eligibility for this competition even if a postponement should be necessary as it was in 1939 when the races were shifted to La Follette park.

The first Silver Skates race was held in January, 1917. Now the oldest sports promotion in the country, it has been renewed every year except in 1932 when, because of an unusually mild winter and lack of ice in the park lagoons, the meet was canceled. In 23 years it has grown from one event for boys to a series of eight Derbies. Many of the winners of these races have later won national and international honors.

Attracts 5,000 Contestants.

Each year from four to five thousand boys and girls, novices and experienced skaters, compete for the prizes which are unequaled in the sport of speed skating.

The only requirement is that boys and girls who are 16 years of age and older must register with the Illinois Skating association which sanctions the Derbies. The registration fee need not be paid until the day of the derbies unless the skater wishes to compete in other events sponsored by the association. The fee permits competition thruout this winter.

Five of the eight Silver Skates Derbies are for boys. Girls compete in the others. Sterling silver skates are the awards for senior men and senior girls. Plated silver skates are the first place prizes in the other six divisions. Those finishing second in each of the eight Derbies will receive chromium plated skates. Each third place winner will be awarded bronze skates.

Fourth and fifth place finishers in each Derby are given silver and bronze medals, respectively. This completes the list of 40 championship awards. However, there are gold medals for the skaters leading for the greatest number of laps in the longer races. The Walter Eckersall memorial team trophy, the second to be placed in competition since 1931, goes to the team scoring the greatest number of points in all Derbies.

Divisions Are Listed.

The list of age classes for the 23d Silver Skates Derbies follows:

Men's senior—18 years of age and over.
Men's intermediate—16 and 17 years of age.
Boys' junior—14 and 15 years of age.
Boys' juvenile—12 and 13 years of age.
Boys' midget—Under 12 years of age.
Girls' senior—18 years of age and over.
Girls' intermediate—16 and 17 years of age.
Girls' junior—Under 16 years of age.

The distances at which the various races will be skated follow:

Event—	Preliminary.	Champ'nship.
Men's senior	1 mile	2 miles
Men's intermediate	½ mile	1 mile
Boys' junior	440 yards	½ mile
Boys' juvenile	220 yards	440 yards
Boys' midget	110 yards	220 yards
Girls' senior	½ mile	1 mile
Girls' intermediate	440 yards	½ mile
Girls' junior	220 yards	440 yards

Trials in the first three of the boys' age groups and the girls' junior class will be held on Jan. 13. All other preliminaries and the championships in all eight Derbies are scheduled for Jan. 14.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

GEORGE R. RINDER, who hopes to graduate from the University of Chicago in 1941, is piqued no end at this department for its comment on his alma mater's withdrawal from intercollegiate football. . . . He also is pretty sore at our Irving Vaughan, who, as far as we know, isn't mad at anybody. . . . This is what Mr. Rinder has to say: "I see by the papers [a Midway colloquialism] that the University of Chicago is to be criticized for quitting football just because they are losing a few games. The paper's entire attitude [that's a lot of territory, George] is that the Maroons are poor sports and that there is no real reason for ceasing competition. However, the fact that impresses me is that THE TRIBUNE has for the last ten years continually knocked the Chicago team [this will be interesting news to Mr. Stagg and Mr. Shaughnessy]. Perhaps a more constructive attitude on the part of your paper might have helped to prevent what has happened. I believe that Irving Vaughan has been particularly guilty [what? Without even a trial?] of ridiculing the Maroons. Students on the campus have felt that the poor football teams are an unnecessary source of unpopularity. Since the fatal step [it can't be that bad, George] has been taken alumni, sports writers, and others say they had faith in the team all along. We students wonder why the alumni were so conspicuously absent at games this fall [now the man is getting somewhere]. All in all [he's now preparing to shoot the works], it is not surprising that the newspaper which has most consistently derided the efforts of the Chicago fellows now is the one to yell 'quitters' most loudly."

And this from an alumnus who helped to make gridiron history at Chicago: "Sorry to see the old school close shop on the greatest of all red blooded sports—intercollegiate football. Some of us old fashioned fellows cling to the theory that a university ought to serve the community to the greatest possible extent. As an alumnus I regretted to see the president and trustees kill that love and loyalty so necessary in developing a happy family. As a 'C' man, I am sorry to see school executives destroy a game that is founded on team play. All that Chicago has needed in recent years is a revival of the team spirit that makes for a winner." The author was Pat Page, 1906-'10.

This department has received many letters, pro and con, about football, or the lack thereof, at Chicago. It has been interesting to observe that those opposed to the university's decision outnumber those in accord by more than 5 to 1.

In case any one is interested, this department does not contend that the withdrawal of the University of Chicago from intercollegiate football makes the school less desirable as an educational center. Nor is there proof that it makes it more so, which seems to be a fairly important point.

GAMES TONIGHT.
Toronto at Montreal.

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—Tying the score with less than 3 minutes to play, the New York Americans went on to score two overtime goals and defeat the Chicago Blackhawks, 4 to 2, tonight in a National Hockey league game before 5,000.

Charley Conacher tied the score, batting home the puck from a goal mouth scramble, then Murray Armstrong and Tommy Anderson shot goals past Rookie Paul Goodman in the extra 10 minutes. Goodman, brought up from Providence of the International-American league, replaced Goalie Mike Karakas, who was released yesterday, and made a shaky debut.

Americans Score First.

Holding an edge in the play almost thruout the entire regular periods, and throwing up blanket protection in front of the nervous Goodman, the Hawks appeared to be on their way to victory on goals by Bill Carse and Art Wiebe.

The Americans went ahead at 12:22, Johnny Sorrell's shot from a few feet out and to the side barely catching the inside of the post. The puck bounced out swiftly and the Hawks protested it had hit the post but Referee Bill Stewart upheld the goal judge and allowed it.

Referee Stewart stopped play soon after the second period opened and had police remove a spectator from a rinkside seat for pulling Earl Seibert's sweater. Conacher then took the first penalty of the game for tripping Doug Bentley and Carse almost immediately tied the score.

Smith Starts Play.

Des Smith started the play, passing forward to the side of the net to George Allen, whose slow shot rolled off Robertson's stick direct to Carse. Carse's shot caught the open side.

A holding penalty to Cooper set the stage for an American offensive. Goodman dived into Eddie Wiseman and sent the puck over the net. Then the Hawks broke the tie, Wiebe coming up fast to take a loose puck passed out by Johnny Gottselig. Wiebe got it about 10 feet in front of the net and blasted it by Goalie Earl Robertson at 6:20.

Goodman kicked away Carr's hard shot in the third period, but finally a five man drive with four forwards and Conacher, clicked. Conacher batted the puck home at 17:33 as it bounced high in the air. The Hawks protested futilely that he drove it in with his hands.

With a setup chance at the start of the overtime period Phil Hergesheimer muffed Allen's perfect pass to the goal mouth. Then, at 4:30 Armstrong took a double pass in the clear from Sorrell and Allan Murray and his low angle shot went by Goodman's left foot for the winning goal. Anderson clinched the game at 7:39, intercepting a pass from Hergesheimer in center ice.

The Snows Come, but Football Goes On

When the Boston college Eagles, en route to the Cotton bowl in Dallas for the New Year's day game with Clemson, stopped off in St. Louis for an outdoor workout, they were confronted by 10 inches of snow. Practice was held indoors, but this hardy trio romped outside. Left to right: Joe Zabilishi, guard; Al Morro, tackle; Steve Levanitis, tackle. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Aron, Down Four Times, Puts Zivic Out in the Eighth Round

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Milt Aron of Chicago dethroned Fritzie Zivic as No. 1 welterweight contender by knocking out the Pittsburgh boxer in the eighth round of a bout listed for 10 rounds in the Coliseum last night.

Altho Aron dropped his rangy foe for a nine count in the seventh and repeated the dose in the final round, few of the spectators who stood screaming for first one and then the other fighter thruout the grudge match expected the bout to end when it did.

These same fans watched with unbelieving eyes when Zivic sent their idol crashing to the mat three times in the second round. They continued to stare in wonderment when Zivic floored Aron a fourth time in the third.

Aron Comes Back.

They snapped out of their trance in the fourth, however, and cheered when Aron came back and reddened Zivic's nose with a series of left hooks and then spun him around with a right to the chin.

However, Zivic rallied in the fifth and held his rival on even terms. In the sixth Fritzie forged to the front once again, tho he suffered a badly cut lip. Aron's lip also was cut open in this session. After Zivic had recovered from his first knockdown in the seventh he handed Aron a beating. Then came Aron's big victory round.

Shortly after the round opened a right caused Aron's nose to swell greatly. Undaunted, Milt stalked his prey until he caught Zivic coming in with a right to the chin. Fritzie went down, but got up.

Zivic wasn't on his rubbery legs long, however, when Aron drove a left and right to the point of the chin and Zivic, hailed as one of the hardest hitters in the division, went down for good.

Lello Wins Decision.

The highly excited fans thought the Pittsburgh boxer would beat the count, but he didn't. The crowd called it one of the greatest fights seen in Chicago.

The time of the knockout was 1 minute and 54 seconds. Aron weighed 150 pounds and Zivic, 146½.

Pete Lello, Golden Gloves alumnus, stretched his string of victories to nine by pounding out a decision over Eddie Lander, little west sider, in the 10 round semi-final. Referee Norman McGarity voted 59 to 41, and Judge Ed Klein 60 to 40 for Lello, but William Battye, the other judge, scored the match a draw.

The only damage in the match was suffered by Lello in the second round when a right opened a cut on the No. 3 lightweight challenger's left cheek. Lander surprised some of the 4,991 spectators by lasting the limit. Altho Eddie never seemed headed for victory he gave his opponent a difficult time of it with his bobbing and weaving style.

Gross receipts were $10,050 and the net was $8,376.

The first three bouts ended in knockouts. The winners were Altus Allen, 1939 International Golden Gloves heavyweight champion; Henry Wacker, Taylorville, Ill., 193 pounder, and Billy Seward, Ingomar, Mont., lightweight.

Allen Gains Revenge.

Allen stopped Lee Oma of Detroit in the fourth round of a scheduled 10 round event. Wacker sent Harry Sutton, south side, to the floor in the first round of a contest booked for six rounds, and Seward stopped Bob Jarrell, also of the south side, in the first round of a scheduled four round event.

By his victory, Allen obtained revenge for a one round knockout at the hands of Oma in a previous meeting. It wasn't until the third round, however, that Altus gave indication he would win.

BOSTON BRINGS ITS OWN WEATHER TO MIDDLE WEST

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 27 (AP).—The Cotton bowl-bound Boston college football team worked out here today on the sawdust covered floor of a riding academy arena.

The team, en route to Dallas to meet Clemson New Year's day, had planned to hold its first scrimmage since Saturday this afternoon. But a 10 inch snow caused a change in the schedule and the barn was the only suitable indoor spot available.

The squad of 39 players spent two hours running thru light drills. They left on the Cotton bowl special early tonight and will get their first real practice soon after arriving in Dallas tomorrow afternoon.

COLD IN DALLAS, TOO

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 27 (AP).—Icy winds chilled the Clemson College football players in their first Dallas workout for the New Year's Day date with Boston college. Coach Jess Neely worked the chilled lads at top speed. After today all workouts will be private.

Banks McFadden's kicks spiraled far downfield with the wind and his passes were hitting the receivers. Guards Frank Dietz and Walter Cox were still a trifle under the weather but will be ready by Monday, Neely said.

ILLINI TRIUMPH, 42-29; HOOSIERS WHIP DUQUESNE

Purdue Five Drops S. M. U., 48-26.

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 27 [Special].—Illinois' basketball team took an early lead to defeat Notre Dame, 42 to 29, tonight for its fifth victory. The Illini piled up a 20 to 8 lead in the first half and were able to stave off a second half Irish rally.

Illinois assumed a 6 to 0 lead soon after the game opened on baskets and free throws by Capt. Bill Hapac and Vic Wukovits. George Sobek accounted for three of Notre Dame's points when he was fouled by John Drish as he shot. Baskets by Rex Ellis and Ken Oberbruner and Riska's free throw were the only other Irish points of the half.

Notre Dame came within eight points of tying in the second half, at 33 to 25, but Illinois then made four baskets and a free throw to pull away.

Hapac with five baskets and a free throw and Drish, with five baskets, paced Illinois. Ellis, with three baskets and four free throws topped the Irish. Lineups:

PURDUE, 48; S. M. U., 26

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 27 [Special].—Purdue scored its third straight intersectional basketball triumph tonight by outclassing Southern Methodist, 48 to 26.

Altho the Boilermakers lacked the all-around precision that they displayed against Oregon, they still had enough scoring power to dominate play from the start. Purdue was off on its shooting in the first half, when it earned a 17 to 11 lead, but launched a scoring spurt shortly after the start of the second half that removed all doubt as to the outcome.

Igney Speeds Up Boilermakers.

With Bob Igney, who did not enter the game until late in the first half, setting the pace by hitting four out of seven field goal attempts the Boilermakers jumped into a 42 to 21 lead with slightly less than five minutes left to play.

INDIANA WINS, 51-49

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 27 [Special].—Indiana of the Western conference kept its basketball record untarnished by defeating hitherto unbeaten Duquesne, 51 to 49, in a thrilling battle tonight. Paced by Center Bill Menke, who tallied eight field goals and six free throws in six attempts, the Hoosiers ran their string to six victories and in so doing dealt Duquesne its first defeat of the year in any sport. The Dukes previously had won eight games and tied one in football, won three in hockey and triumphed in three basketball games.

Indiana took an early lead, only to have Debnar of Duquesne score a field goal and two free throws to tie the score at 10 all with five minutes played. Becker, Widowitz, and Debnar then ran the count to 21 to 10 before Herman Schaefer, Jack Torphy, Ralph Dorsey, and Menke tallied five points among them. The Hoosiers narrowed the margin to 29 to 22 at the half. Menke, aided by Paul Armstrong and Jay McCreary, cut down the Dukes' lead in the second half. Then, with two minutes to go, Schaefer scored the winning basket.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Crane High school, defending champion in the University of Chicago's interscholastic basketball tournament, broke a 25 to 25 tie in the last minute of its first round game with Senn, and went on to win, 28 to 25, last night in the Midway fieldhouse.

Earlier in the day, Austin, last year's runnerup, advanced at the expense of Schurz, 44 to 23. In addition to Crane and Austin, the winners of the games played yesterday afternoon and last night were Manley, Waller, Tilden, Calumet, Marshall, and Hirsch.

These eight teams will join Tuesday's winners in the second round, which will be played this afternoon and evening. The quarter finals are scheduled for tomorrow and the semi-finals Saturday. The championship will be decided on the afternoon of New Year's day.

Marshall Sparks Crane.

Horace Marshall, who was an important factor in Crane's championship team last season, did the most conspicuous work in last night's defeat of Senn. He made six baskets and five free throws—and three of those 17 points were the ones which were made in the last minute to decide the game.

Both teams played in rather sloppy fashion during the early stages. Crane led, 8 to 5, at the quarter and 13 to 11 at the half. In the third period, which ended with Crane still ahead, 20 to 13, Senn missed one chance after another, getting only one field goal in eight minutes.

Senn Makes Late Bid.

As the last quarter began Senn began cutting into its adversary's advantage, and with a minute and twenty seconds to go, Grant Yost sent one swishing thru without touching the rim, to tie the score at 25 to 25.

A few seconds later Marshall was fouled while attempting to shoot and was awarded two free throws. He missed the first but sank the second to give Crane a 26 to 25 lead. Immediately thereafter, Senn launched a charge but Crane got control on the rebound. Bennie Erkes, of Crane, meanwhile had sneaked down the floor and was clear to receive a long pass. He relayed the ball to Marshall, who took it on the run and flicked in the concluding two points.

Rodnick Paces Manley.

Leonard Rodnick's sharpshooting was an outstanding feature of an afternoon game in which Manley beat Tuley, 43 to 37. He made 19 of Manley's points on nine baskets and a free throw. This was the highest individual score of the tournament.

Marshall opened last night's program by beating Phillips, 25 to 20. After trailing, 14 to 11 at the half, the Marshall boys got to the front soon after the third period began and never relinquished the lead. Siegel of Marshall and Bronson of Phillips each made five baskets.

Hirsch concluded the evening by beating Kelly, 22 to 20.

Rapp Is Granted Injunction in Paycheck Row

A temporary injunction restraining Johnny Paycheck, 1933 Chicago Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, from engaging in bouts in this city unless contracts for them are signed by Clarence W. Rapp, local manager, was issued yesterday by Superior Judge Charles A. Williams. The order was granted after Rapp had brought an accounting suit charging breach of contract against Paycheck, Harold Steinman, former manager of King Levinsky, and Pinkie George, Des Moines, Ia., promoter. George was Steinman's partner in the direction of Paycheck until five months ago.

In his complaint Rapp, thru Attorney David H. Caplow, co-counsel with Gen. John V. Clinnin, alleged he and Paycheck entered into a life management contract July 22, 1935, and that in May, 1936, Paycheck and Steinman "conspired" to break the contract, subsequently participating in numerous bouts without Rapp's knowledge or consent.

Last Dec. 11 the Illinois boxing commission accepted a six year contract between Steinman and Paycheck for filing purposes. The action recognized Steinman as Paycheck's manager. Previously the board declared Rapp's agreement with the boxer to be void on the grounds that it had been violated by Rapp.

Murray Faces Miles on Card at Hammond

Ed [Tipperary] Murray, Cleveland heavyweight, who knocked out Tom Kenneally of the Catholic Youth organization recently, yesterday was matched to meet Johnny Miles of St. Louis in a 6 round semifinal to a 10 round bout between Lem Franklin and Eddie Simms in Civic center, Hammond, Ind., tomorrow. Matches of four rounds will involve Steve Souris, former Gary sectional Golden Gloves welterweight winner, and Tony di Pasquale, and Kenny Cannon and Billy Sherman, local lightweights.

Franklin, 1937 international Golden Gloves heavyweight winner, ended sparring sessions yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium. His partners in a four round drill were Clarence Brown and Selman Martin. Big Lem appeared in such good form that Irving Franklin, his father and trainer, predicted his son would avenge a previous setback at the hands of Simms in Cleveland Dec. 20. Simms won on a technical knockout in the eighth round.

If he emerges victorious Franklin will be matched to meet Bob Nestell of Los Angeles on Jan. 12.

Only one pound will be allowed over each weight class except the heavyweight division in the eighth annual amateur boxing tournament in the Illinois Athletic club, Jan. 16, 17, and 24. Johnny Behr, sports director, said yesterday. Flyweights will remain eligible if they weigh 113 pounds; bantamweights, 119; featherweights, 127; lightweights, 136; Welterweights, 148; middleweights, 161, and light heavyweights, 176 pounds.

Any contestant who weighs more than 176 pounds must compete as a heavyweight. In the event a boy comes in overweight he must compete in the next weight class or be disqualified. Application blanks can be obtained at the I. A. C. Deadline for entries is Jan. 13.

The last amateur boxing show of the year will be held tomorrow in Madison Athletic club with Jack Wittinghill, Bloomington, Ill., middleweight, and Harold Rodie of the 124th Field Artillery armory meeting in a five round main bout.

ROSE BOWL GETS CHEERING NEWS: CLEAR FOR GAME

Scalpers Will Sell You a Ticket for $10.

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 27 (AP).—The University of Tennessee football delegation welcomed news today that the battle with Southern California's Trojans in the Rose bowl probably will be played under ideal conditions. Weather experts predicted that New Year's day would be clear.

Southern California, already a slight favorite, would be given more chance on a wet turf because of its weight advantage.

Skies were cloudless today as both teams went thru hard workouts behind gates locked to outsiders. Each will wind up preparations Saturday.

Rose bowl ticket scalpers are having a profitable season. Tickets are selling for $10 apiece. In Hollywood, a pair of seats located anywhere within the two goal lines brings $25 or more.

Representatives of the rivals got together over the weight charts and came up with an accurate scale that shows Southern California with a team average of 199 pounds, Tennessee 190; U. S. C.'s line average is 206, the Vols' 196; Troy's back field 187, Tennessee's 180.

COACH WARNS MISSOURI

Miami, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP).—Coach Don Faurot talked seriously to the University of Missouri football players today about getting down to business and cutting the horseplay from practice for the Orange bowl. The team spent much of its time working against types of defense that Georgia Tech may pull in the New Year's day game.

During blocking practice, Bob Orf, Missouri right end, strained a back muscle that will keep him quiet for several days at least, but officials hoped he would be able to hold down the flank position opposite his twin brother, Bud Orf.

Coach Faurot let the team know that he thought the players were taking their game against Tech too lightly. He promised another stiff workout tomorrow.

STAR CALLED HOME

New Orleans, La., Dec. 27 (AP).—Ralph Wenzel, Tulane's star end, left today for Tucker, Ark., because of the death there of his grandfather, but he may be back in time for the Sugar bowl game with the Texas Aggies Monday.

Trainer Monk Simon said the squad was in good shape with the exception of Bob Glass, sophomore halfback who is understudy to Bob Kellogg and Harry Hays. The team may continue practice sessions thru Sunday.

Catholic U. Puts Snow Behind on Way to Sun Bowl

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—Thirty-three football players from Catholic university left the capital in a snowstorm today headed for the Sun bowl in El Paso, Tex., where they meet the Arizona State Teachers Jan. 1.

Concerning his team's chances of winning, Coach Arthur J. [Dutch] Bergman said:

"We don't know just yet what we're going up against, but our advance men tell me this Arizona team is made up of big, strong boys."

The Catholic players are in a fine frame of mind for the game. Their plunging full back, Rocco Pirro, is in top condition, but he probably will play.

Catholic played a light schedule this year and when it seemed as if the team would go undefeated Holy St. Anselm gave it one of the worst beatings it has suffered in years. The Sun bowl bid came first to another capital school—Georgetown, which has been undefeated for two years. Hoping for a bigger bowl game the Hoyas turned down the offer.

CUBS GET TWO CARDINAL FARM HANDS IN TRADE

Give Lillard, Mesner and Cash.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

After weeks of dickering, in which there were rumors they might come up with some important athlete, the Cubs yesterday announced consummation of a deal thru which they acquired a shortstop and a pitcher—both products of the St. Louis Cardinals' expansive minor league chain store system.

One of the new Cubs is Robert Sturgeon, who arrived by way of the Cardinals' Columbus American association farm. The other is Kenneth Raffensberger, whose left arm, Cub chiefs believe, might contain some big league pitching. Raffensberger spent last season at the Cardinals' Rochester affiliate in the International league.

To get this pair the Cubs surrendered Infielder Steve Mesner, Pitcher Gene Lillard and some cash. The amount of money involved was not announced.

He's a Californian.

Sturgeon is one of several players, all minor league property of the Cardinals, the Cubs' trading department has been seeking to fill Manager Gabby Hartnett's demands for a shortstop. Whether Sturgeon is the one the Cubs wanted all along or whether he was the only one cagey Cardinals' officials would trade isn't known. But Scouts Jack Doyle and Clarence Rowland watched Sturgeon at various times during the last summer and both stamped him O. K.

Sturgeon, a 19 year old resident of Long Beach, Cal., is a 6 footer who weighs 170 pounds. He hit .297 and fielded a rather shaky .942 for Columbus last season. He was snared by Cardinal scouts in Pacific Coast league territory and started his organized baseball career at Albuquerque, N. M., where he spent 1937 and 1938. He probably will be given first crack at the shortstop job next spring.

Form Pleases Doyle.

Raffensberger worked on a 50-50 basis last season at Rochester. He won 15 and lost the same number, but his pitching form struck the fancy of Scout Doyle. In 242 innings, he was frisked for 108 runs, 227 hits and 68 bases on balls. The 21 year old 6 footer fanned only 16 men.

Lillard, who came to the Cubs as a third baseman, then went back to the Coast league and returned as a pitcher, saw little service last season. He compiled a record of 3 victories, against 5 defeats. Mesner had been released by the Cubs to San Diego, but the Cards will take over the option on his services.

Including Sturgeon, the Cubs now own four shortstop candidates, the others being Bobby Mattick, who played the post after Dick Bartell was benched last season; Billy Rogell, recently taken from Detroit for Bartell, and Leonard Merullo, the collegian, who had to go into retirement last summer because of a lame arm.

East All-Star Squad Finds a Dropkicker

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 27 (AP).—Outstanding football players of the east and west, in training for the annual charity game New Year's day, provided two types of news today.

A slightly gloomy outlook from the Palo Alto quarters of the western squad disclosed that two injured players had shown no noticeable improvement. Clyde Turner, center from Hardin-Simmons, limped badly from recurrence of an old thigh injury. Another western hope, Bob Smith, right half from the University of Oregon, remained inactive because of a leg bruise.

West Squad Scrimmages.

The incapacitations caused no letdown in the training. Coaches Orin Hollingbery and Lawrence Jones put the squad thru a scrimmage, defending against passes and kicks, and outlined plans for more rigorous bodily contact tomorrow.

On the bright side was the report from the eastern camp at Berkeley. A drop kicker has been discovered in Ed Boell, New York university full back.

Boell Gets Chance.

Coach Andy Kerr, recalling there hadn't been a long distance drop kicker since Frosty Peters of Illinois helped the east win in 1929, said Boell had shown considerable aptitude.

"We intend to concentrate on Boell's ability," Kerr said. "This gives us a new threat inside the other team's 40 yard line. It may mean the ball game.

SOUTH SIGNS FORDHAM

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 27 (AP).—Jim Fordham, a 195 pound full back from Georgia, tonight was added to the Dixie squad that will oppose an all northern team in Montgomery's second Blue and Gray football game Dec. 30.

The signing of Fordham was announced a few hours after Paul Shu, Virginia military institute star, suffered a torn cartilage in his right knee.

There also was a minor casualty in the northern camp. Bern Sweeney, Columbia guard, suffered a bruised leg. Sweeney, however, was able to go ahead in a rough intra-squad scrimmage.

What Price Glory!

Last night I saw a newsreel which showed
The Croix de Guerre being made;
Being ground out by the thousands
To adorn the Unafraid;
To decorate the manly breasts
Of the heroes in this new strife,
A nation's badge of gratitude
For the loss of a limb—or a life.

And I thought of a walk down the Avenue
On a long ago, rainy night,
And a pause at a pawnshop window
Where, ranged in the dim, sad light
Were row upon row of Croix de Guerre,
All tarnished and gone to seed,
From field of honor to pawnshop's gloom—
What price glory, indeed!

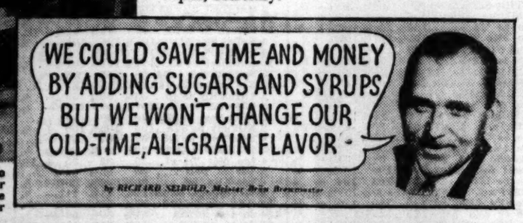
LARGEST SUBURBAN BOWLING LEAGUE Votes Meister Bräu Best—106 to 8

Richard Seibold invites you to try Meister Bräu Draft Beer —Made with the same care —Ask at your favorite Bar

When members of the largest bowling league in suburban Chicago met recently for an evening of sport with the pins, they were asked to taste Meister Bräu Beer, compare it with other brands, and then vote their preference by secret ballot. This fraternal league which bowls at the Hawthorne Bowling Alleys, 4738 Cicero Avenue, Cicero, voted Meister Bräu the best bottled beer by the landslide majority of 106 to 8.

The photo shows Stanley Kosobucki, National Fraternal Singles Champion, bowling "under fire" from friends (left to right) Thomas J. O'Keefe, league President and V. Pres. of O'Keefe Bros. Coal Co., Raymond T. Mally, chief fraternal officer, Peter J. Stoffel, Treasurer and Bernard Lipke, Secretary.



WE COULD SAVE TIME AND MONEY BY ADDING SUGARS AND SYRUPS BUT WE WON'T CHANGE OUR OLD-TIME, ALL-GRAIN FLAVOR
by RICHARD SEIBOLD, Meister Bräu Brewmaster

Independent Investigator Finds the Reason for Amazing Popularity of Meister Bräu Beer

When asked by Chicago newspapers which bottled beer outsells all others, leading retailers from all sections of town said, "Meister Bräu is away out in front by from 2 to 1 to 10 to 1." An independent investigator, the Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation, was asked to check on this astonishing popularity and to find out the reason for it by holding taste-and-compare tests among groups of men and women.

These tests reveal that the flavor makes Meister Bräu the winner among bottled beers. They show that Chicagoans appreciate the determination of Richard Seibold, Meister Bräu Brewmaster, not to change that flavor by adding sugars or syrups, even though he could save time and money by so doing.

To see the difference taste and compare. Your retailer can supply you with Meister Bräu.

ST. LOUIS CARDS PAY $101,520 IN DIVIDENDS

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 27 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals' 1939 comeback, which lacked a few victories of beating Cincinnati's Reds for the National league championship, enabled the club to declare a $101,520 dividend today.

The board of directors fixed the profits at $10 a share—a belated Christmas gift, particularly to President Sam Breadon, controling owner of the club.

Dividends for 1938 were passed up after the Cardinals drew only 292,000 customers to Sportsman's park while finishing sixth.

Last season the team played to 411,000 here, and also increased its road attendance to 700,000. Only the Reds outdrew the Cards on the road in the National league.

GOVERNOR CALLS OFF MASS FLIGHT TO ROSE BOWL

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 27 (AP).—Gov Prentice Cooper today called off his proposed flight with seven Tennessee national guard planes to the west coast and left by train tonight for the Rose bowl game.

Cooper canceled the trip, which had been authorized by the war department for training purposes, in the interest of safety, in view of inclement weather.

The governor will head the Tennessee delegation at celebrations incident to the football game in which the University of Tennessee will meet Southern California.

EVERT, LARNED ADVANCE TO 4TH ROUND IN JUNIOR

Umstaedter, Seeded No. 1, Scores Easy Victory.

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—Chicago's two candidates for the national junior indoor tennis championship eased their way into the fourth round today. James Evert eliminated Dick Fricke of Cornell, 6-1, 6-2, while Gardner Larned blanked Bruce Corbett, University of Wisconsin entrant, 6-0, 6-0. Evert is seeded second, Larned fourth.

Bill Umstaedter, Louisiana State university star from Milburn, N. J., seeded No. 1, joined the Chicagoans in the fourth round by defeating Ed Engle of Williams college, 6-3, 6-2.

In the day's only upset Edgar Buttenheim of Wallingford, Conn., defeated George Collins of Princeton, 6-4, 6-2.

Dick Bender of Westfield, N. J., seeded third, advanced at the expense of Charles Stewart, New York, 6-1, 6-1. The three remaining seeded players, Melvin Schwartzman, Judah Lober, and Fred Krais all won their matches. Lober had a tough time with Ed Roszak of Hamtramck, Mich., who finally yielded, 6-3, 8-6, but Schwartzman and Krais won easily. Lober's next opponent will be Dick Shipp of Lemoyne, Pa., who today defeated Harold Levine of New York, 6-3, 7-5.

Bobby Bensinger, favorite to capture the boys' title, reached the quarter final round in that division with a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Lawrence Claman of New York.

$4,092 LOST BY BATHHOUSE JOHN RACING STABLE

After Ald. John J. [Bathhouse John] Coughlin died on Nov. 11, 1938, his estate continued operation of his racing stable. The nags that carried on in memory of their late owner were not complete liabilities—the stable did suffer a net loss of $4,092.48 to the Coughlin estate between the date of the alderman's death and last Aug. 9. Figures were revealed yesterday in the final account of Administratrix Marion Christiansen, filed in Probate court.

The report showed that three horses were sold for $1,475, and $1,150 was received in stud fees. Other receipts lifted the total to $3,476.93. Against this total were sensible expenses totaling $7,569.41.

The value of the estate on Aug. 9, according to the listing, was $36,731.72, with claims of $26,303. Most valuable of racing assets ilsted were two stallions, Karl Eitel and Roguish Eye, inventoried at $3,000 each.

ENGLAND'S WAR MEASURES HARM AMERICAN TRADE

Hits Commerce with Neutral Nations.

England's war time trading devices are striking a blow at the United States' trade with both England and many neutral countries, an analysis of British trade practices showed yesterday.

The British threat to America's foreign business, moreover, appears to be growing, altho only last year England signed a reciprocal trade agreement with the United States, designed to stimulate commercial relations and good will between the two nations. Other neutral countries are also affected.

Britain's rigid naval blockade, recently tightened to include the seizure of all neutral ships carrying goods to or from Germany, is only one part of its economic plicy aimed at strengthening England and crippling Germany economically.

Britain Seeks to Win Trade.

England is now taking steps to appropriate the overseas trade Germany has lost because of the blockade. Particular efforts are being made to prevent the United States from taking over the markets that have been shut off from Germany.

The British, for example, have brought pressure to bear on Argentina to buy British products to the exclusion of goods from the United States or any other neutral country. This pressure has resulted in Argentina's recent announcement that no goods may be bought from any country except Britain and France as long as the two empires can supply the needs.

In tightening its belt to meet the war emergency, England has already invoked the "war clause" of its reciprocal trade agreement with the United States and has forbidden the purchase by Britons of 20 luxury products covered in the pact.

May Enlarge Forbidden List.

More kinds of goods are expected to be placed on the forbidden list if the war continues — leaving the United States making tariff concessions on goods bought from Great Britain while Britain stops buying many items altogether. British purchases of aircraft, munitions, and other war needs in America, may compensate, however, for the loss in other lines.

The British trade program naturally seeks primarily to injure Germany. But its trade policies are being extended farther—based on the theory that Britain, having crippled Germany's trade, consequently has the exclusive right to take over the business. This policy is explained in a recent article in the London Economist, an influential British financial organ.

Seeks to Supplant Germany.

"It is elemental logic that the profits to be derived from appropriating Germany's former oversea trade should go to those nations who have chased German ships off the seas and are bearing the burden of resisting German aggression," the article says.

Germany in 1938 sold approximately $150,000,000 of goods to South American and Central American customers. Britain is now seeking to substitute its products for most of those no longer available from Germany. This attempt is being made in a market that United States business men can readily supply. Among the chief products involved are coal and coke, textiles, iron and steel, and machinery of all kinds.

One of the devices Britian is using in South America is to restrict the use of the British pound sterling.

Restricts Use of Exchange.

For example, when England buys from Argentina, the sterling paid for the purchase is "blocked" so that it can be used only to buy British goods. Thus, Britain is not only attempting to take over Germany's trade, but is also using Nazi trade schemes. "Blocked marks" were one of the pillars of Germany's desperate trading devices before the war.

Other practices are now being proposed and used by the British to help England and hurt Germany, regardless of the effects on neutral nations or violations of accepted trade practices. It is proposed to raise the price of pound sterling where it would help Britain, and to lower the price where it would hurt Germany. It is proposed to maintain prices for goods which Britain can sell and on which she has a near-monopoly; and to hammer down prices on goods also sold by Germany, thus cutting Germany's supplies of foreign exchange.

Explains Price Devices.

These suggestions are illustrated by articles recently published in the London Economist.

"The price of British goods makes very little difference to the volume of them that America buys—far less difference than the state of American business activity," the Economist said in one article. "As a matter of record,

Administration Retains Farm Subsidy Plan

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—After a conference with President Roosevelt today Senator John H. Bankhead [D., Ala.] said that the administration will continue the principle of parity price payments on farm commodities.

Senator Bankhead.

He indicated, however, that the 1941 budget would not contain any provision for such payments. Bankhead gave the impression that Mr. Roosevelt cannot recommend at this time what funds would be necessary because farm prices are rising and may reach parity levels by the time farm appropriations are considered.

Elimination of parity payments from the budget also means that the administration is still considering Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's proposed certificate plan for self-financing of parity payments.

Denies Abandoning Program.

Bankhead said after his conference at the White House that he had discussed with the President the "widely publicized" report that the administration planned to abandon parity price appropriations in an effort to cut government expenditures.

"As a result of our discussion," he said, "I am in a position to say there is no intention of abandoning the principle of parity payments. At this time it is not sufficiently known what money, if any, will be needed to carry out that principle because we don't know what the prices will be."

He said that parity payments cease when prices rise to 75 per cent of parity and that the last session of congress appropriated 225 million dollars to meet such payments for the fiscal year beginning last July 1. Hence any new appropriations for that purpose will not be needed until next July 1.

Compares Plan with Tariff.

Wallace today compared the certificate plan with the tariff which, he said, is also a tax on consumers. The certificate plan would enable farmers coöperating in the AAA program to sell certificates to processors purchasing their products. The certificates would be worth the difference between the market price and an established parity price. Processors would buy the certificates and presumably pass the cost along to consumers thru higher prices.

"The great advantage of the certificate plan," Wallace contended, "is that it does not appear in the budget." This indicates that the administration might be sold on the idea for this reason—letting the consumers finance farm benefits and taking pressure off the treasury.

However, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau is opposed to the plan as a consumer tax. Any outside tax in the long run must compete with the treasury which intends to guard its source of taxable revenue.

Morgenthau yesterday issued figures estimating that 63.1 per cent of all American taxes in 1938 were paid by consumers.

FURNITURE FIRM TO HAVE PLANT AT LIBERTYVILLE

Bellingham Furniture Manufacturers, Inc., of Bellingham, Wash., have completed negotiations for establishment of a furniture manufacturing plant at Libertyville, Ill., it was announced yesterday by E. P. Querl, industrial manager of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

A separate Illinois corporation, to be known as Bellingham Furniture Manufacturers of Illinois, will be established with initial paid in capitalization of $25,000. Howard H. McCaskey will be president, and Bertel Jonson will be secretary and treasurer of the new company. Both are Chicago men.

Purchase of property at Libertyville has been arranged. The property includes about seven and one-half acres of land and five buildings. The latter contain 120,000 feet of floor space. Production is expected to begin on the special lines of breakfast sets and dinettes by Feb. 1. The new company will use patterns and production methods of the Washington company.

Eastern Air Lines' Traffic at Record for 11 Months

Eastern Air Lines established new traffic peaks in the first 11 months of 1939, Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, president, reported yesterday. Revenue passenger miles totaled 91,320,952, a gain of 41 per cent over the corresponding period of 1938. The number of revenue passengers carried increased to 208,286, or 40 per cent more than a year ago. Mail poundage increased 25 per cent, and air express volume gained 28 per cent.

GOLD IMPORTS ESTABLISH NEW PEAK SINCE WAR

Canadian Shipments Top 167 Million.

Huge shipments of gold from Canada during the week ended Dec. 20 lifted imports of the metal to the highest level for any seven day period since the start of the European war. The department of commerce yesterday reported imports were nearly eight times those of the preceding week and topped the previous post war high by 50 million dollars.

Canadian shipments, accounting for $167,088,345 of the week's total of $193,666,769, were probably linked with British purchases of war materials in this country. This was indicated, observers said, by the fact that most of the Canadian metal was not sold immediately to the treasury as is customary.

Deposited with Reserve Bank.

Most of the dominion's gold shipments were deposited under earmark with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

In the preceding week gold imports aggregated $25,429,792 while in the week ended Dec. 6 imports established a post-war high of $141,996,834 and approached the level existing for several months prior to the outbreak of hostilities.

Because countries other than Canada made offsetting withdrawals, the agregate increase in earmarked gold held by federal reserve banks was limited to $90,131,526 during the week ended Dec. 20. This lifted the amount of gold stored in the United States by foreign governments and central banks to $1,120,000,000.

Gold Stock Up 5 Millions.

The treasury department meanwhile announced the nation's gold stock totaled $17,601,444,948 on Dec. 22, an increase of $5,300,000 over the preceding day's level. It compared with $14,454,494,616 on the corresponding day a year ago.

Besides the Canadian shipments listed in the commerce department's report, other imports included $9,699,483 from the Netherlands, $4,442,929 from Sweden, $4,008,305 from Norway, $2,886,148 from India, $2,107,187 from Colombia, and $2,087,365 from South Africa.

Imports of silver during the latest week advanced to $1,018,982.

IMPORTS RISE SHARPLY OVER NOVEMBER, 1938

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 [Special].—United States merchandise imports increased to $235,402,000 during November, compared with $176,187,000 in November, last year, Secretary of Commerce Hopkins announced today. Imports last month were 9 per cent larger than in October.

November imports boosted the total for the first 11 months of 1939 to $2,071,193,000, against $1,789,082,000 in the corresponding period of 1938. A relatively heavy demand existed last month for various imported crude materials and semimanufactures, Hopkins said.

Final figures showing American exports of $292,734,000 during November were virtually unchanged from the preliminary estimate announced earlier this month. The revised export figure for November represented a 12 per cent decline from exports in October.

RUBBER COMPANY EXTENDS "FINAL" OFFER IN MERGER

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—The United States Rubber company announced today it had made its final offer for purchase of the Fisk Rubber corporation of Chicopee Falls, Mass. The announcement came in the midst of a proxy battle with Whitfield Reid of Springfield, Mass., leading the opposition.

The company's offer is one-quarter share of United States common stock and $6.75 in cash for each share of Fisk common stock after paying off the Fisk preferred stock at $110 a share, its call price.

Reid's group urged Fisk stockholders to hold out for a higher price. Reid said he had a "sufficiently large percentage of proxies to block the deal in its present form."

New York Exchange Fails to Act on Service Charges

New York, Dec. 27 [Special].—Governors of New York Stock exchange took no action today on a committee's report recommending adoption of a schedule of charges for various services performed for customers by member brokerage firms.

Wheat Slides as More Snow Falls in West

Grain markets turned downward yesterday as the result of official reports indicating that the winter wheat belt had received additional moisture overnight.

Many points in Nebraska and Kansas which had received no moisture for over four months, reported that winter wheat fields were buried under eight inches to a foot of snow. The snowfall gave ample protection to the plant from zero temperatures in western Kansas and Oklahoma.

Wheat and rye prices declined about 2 cents at one time. The markets showed little disposition to rally until near the close, when short covering started and lifted prices about 1 cent from the bottom. Closing trades on wheat were ¾ to 1 cent lower. Rye declined 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents. Corn and oats closed unchanged to ⅛ cent lower.

Moisture Improves Outlook.

A marked change for the better in the outlook for the winter wheat crop has occurred as the result of rain and snow which blanketed the country in the last week, the weather bureau reported yesterday.

Moisture was the best distributed since late last summer. All sections of the winter wheat belt received rain or snow, the report said.

The precipitation over the western wheat belt gives increased prospect that the plant will be able to survive the winter, the bureau said. In central and eastern parts of the main wheat belt the situation has changed little, altho helpful precipitation occurred in most sections.

Plant Becomes Dormant.

With the advent of cold weather the crop has become dormant in considerable portions of the wheat belt.

Two to 5 inches of snow fell in Missouri and there was considerable snow in southwestern Iowa, the weather bureau said.

Rain and snow in eastern Colorado and western Kansas has improved the general outlook in that area, and the additional moisture in Oklahoma was decidedly helpful. The Texas wheat crop continues in fairly good condition, except in some north central localities. Two to 6 inches of snow fell in Nebraska, except in the northeast. Winter wheat in Washington shows much improvement since recent rains.

Reports were received that some farmers in southwestern Kansas had taken advantage of the heavy snowfall in that area to drill in winter wheat. This is said to be an unique operation.

R. E. PAUL REPORTED IN RUNNING FOR HANES' POSITION IN TREASURY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—Another strong candidate appeared in the running today for undersecretary of the treasury to succeed John W. Hanes whose resignation becomes effective Jan. 1. Randolph E. Paul, New York tax lawyer, is receiving prominent mention for the job.

There were unconfirmed reports that Paul has already been offered the post. If any insider gets the job, however, it will be Herbert Gaston, now assistant secretary and long time associate of secretary Morgenthau.

Paul is Hanes' personal lawyer and is a close friend of Roswell Magill, former undersecretary. He worked with Magill in plugging up the loopholes in federal taxes. Paul is the author of several tax textbooks.

He is favored by the Corcoran-Cohen group in the administration, who tried last may to persuade Paul to take the post of assistant attorney general and conduct the justice department's drive on income tax evasion.

Pullman Builds New Cars for Eastern Runs

One hundred passenger cars to cost a total of about 8 million dollars are being built for the Pullman company in the Chicago shops of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, it was disclosed yesterday. Fifty of the cars will be assigned for use on the New York Central railroad and 50 on the Pennsylvania.

The cars will be of light weight streamlined construction and will be similar in type to cars in the Broadway Limited of the Pennsylvania and the Twentieth Century of the New York Central.

Composition of Cars.

Of the cars to be used on the Pennsylvania, 33 will have 10 roomettes and 5 double bedrooms; 4 will have 12 duplex single rooms and 5 double bedrooms and 13 cars will have 6 double bedrooms, buffets and lounges. The New York Central cars will include 13 with 10 roomettes and 5 double bedrooms; 6 with 18 roomettes; 11 with 4 bedrooms, 4 compartments and 2 drawing rooms; 8 with 13 double bedrooms and 12 with 6 double bedrooms, buffets and lounges.

The cars will be built of high tensile strength steel of welded construction. They will weigh 112,000 to 120,000 pounds each, compared with weights of 160,000 to 175,000 pounds for old conventional equipment.

Will Have Improved Trucks.

Improved trucks of a type placed in use about a year ago will be used. The air conditioning equipment shows a number of improvements. An innovation is the use of excess energy produced by the generator that runs the air conditioning apparatus to operate the lights and other electrical equipment. Lights will be of the bull's eye nonglare type.

Entrances to the cars will be at one end to conserve space used on vestibules. All cars will be equipped with tight lock couplers.

Delivery of the cars is to start late in May and be completed in July. A substantial amount of employment will be furnished which will be shared by possibly 2,000 persons.

Litsinger Forms New Firm with 4 of Old Law Partners

Edward R. Litsinger yesterday announced the formation of a new law firm in which he will be associated with Herbert W. Bye, Andrew W. Gatenbey, Lawrence W. Spuller, and William T. McNeill. All members of the firm are former partners of the firm of Litsinger, Healy, Reid and Bye which is being dissolved. Litsinger continues as the senior partner in the new firm.

HALSEY-STUART PROTESTS RAILROAD FINANCING DEAL

L. & N. PRESIDENT DEFENDS SALE TO MORGAN, STANLEY

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—Lyman Delano, chairman of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, asserted tonight that attempts to interfere with the road's contract with Morgan, Stanley & Co. for the handling of a $60,000,000 bond issue would put upon objectors a "grave responsibility."

The executive defended the financing plans in a letter to Halsey, Stuart & Co., Chicago investment underwriting firm which had criticised the road's proposal to sell the bonds to Morgan, Stanley & Co.

"The contract with Morgan, Stanley & Co.," said Delano's letter "protects the railroad against an unfavorable market and gives it the benefit of improved markets. I trust you will consider carefully the grave responsibility of attempting to interfere with our exercising our best judgment" in the financing.

Delano asserted that a partner of Halsey Stuart had been informed Dec. 15 of discussion on the proposed financing and stated in reply "he had no specific proposal to make."

NAT'L SECURITY BANK PLANS TO BOOST CAPITAL

Stockholders of the National Security Bank of Chicago will meet Jan. 9 to vote on a proposal to increase the bank's capital by 50 per cent, Norman B. Collins, president, said yesterday. The plan, approved recently by the board of directors, calls for an increase in capital from $200,000 to $300,000 thru the sale of 1,000 additional shares of $100 par common stock to stockholders at par value.

Rights to purchase one additional share for each two shares now owned would be given stockholders, according to Collins. He said the plan would probably be completed by April 1. The bank is located at 767 North Milwaukee avenue.

Collins added that stockholders had been informed that dividends at the present rate of 6 per cent would be paid on the increased capitalization unless earnings decreased substantially.

Renews Battle Over Awarding Issues Without Bids.

Harold L. Stuart.

The controversy between Halsey, Stuart & Co., Chicago investment banking house, and large eastern investment firms over competitive bidding in the sale of security issues flared anew yesterday.

In a sharply worded letter to Lyman Delano, chairman of the board of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, the Chicago company said it proposes to inform the Interstate Commerce commission about the decision to place the sale of $60,000,000 of L. & N. bonds in the hands of a syndicate headed by Morgan, Stanley & Co., New York, without competitive bidding.

Recalls Earlier Statement.

"It was a great surprise to learn from your letter of Dec. 22, that your board has authorized you to enter into a contract with Morgan Stanley & Co. in view of your statement to us only a week earlier that you had not then reached a conclusion as to the form which the L. & N. financing would take to meet the July 1, 1940 maturity," the Halsey-Stuart letter said.

"We have noted your statement that the present proposal is eminently fair and in the best interests of the stockholders, but we do not see how your board could reach that conclusion without knowing what other bankers would do.

Other Roads Effected Savings.

"The Chesapeake and Ohio railroad and the Cincinnati Union Terminal made great savings by entertaining proposals from other bankers as well as from Morgan Stanley & Co. and it is quite likely that a similar service would be performed for your stockholders if other bankers were given an opportunity to submit proposals for meeting your maturity as sug-

No Train Passes Through Chicago

NO train passes through Chicago, the greatest railroad terminal in the world. But more trains stop at and start from Chicago than any other city on earth.

Nearly two hundred thousand people—twice the population of any other city in Illinois—arrive and depart on the fourteen hundred trains which enter and leave Chicago each day. Almost half of the entire railroad mileage of the United States terminates here, while fourteen hundred miles of belt lines—one-third of the total belt line mileage—encircle Chicago.

The railroads have been one of the greatest factors in Chicago's growth and development, and every property owner and resident of the city owes a debt of gratitude to the men who built these roads and brought them to their present state of efficiency.

Chicago, the Wonder City—The commercial progress of Chicago is one of the marvels of the century. In common with other financial institutions, the growth of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank is largely dependent on the growth of Chicago. And the growth of Chicago rests on the faith and vision of its citizens. In a series of advertisements, of which this is the Text, we are trying to set forth a few of the achievements of this great city. Chicago will continue to contribute to the benefit of its citizens in proportion to their faith in its future.

ALTHOUGH the technique of railroad transportation has changed considerably in the 19 years since the publication of the advertisement reproduced above, the central fact remains true. Chicago is still the greatest railroad terminal in the world.

New York Stocks.

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—Pounded by year-end selling, the stock market retreated today, surrendering fractions to 2 or more points in most sectors.

Steels were hardest hit, but also falling back as groups were motors, rails, utilities, aircrafts, retail stores, metals, and miscellaneous issues. Transactions at 1,146,340 shares were the largest since Nov. 9, and compared with 724,070 on Tuesday.

It was not, however, a complete rout. After giving up territory all morning, the backward march was halted after the noon hour. Positions were consolidated, and in the final minutes of trading part of the ground lost by some shares was regained.

With 1940 only a few days away, traders said the bulk of offerings represented year-end evening up of investment portfolios. Some selling for income tax purposes was also reported.

Frequent offerings of blocks of 300 to 500 shares of low priced issues in part was said to represent selling of securities to establish losses for income tax purposes. However, brokers asserted that, because of a change in the tax laws, this year for the first time sales for tax purposes may be made in the regular way up to the close on Saturday, lengthening the tax selling period. Under last year's rules today would have been the last day tax selling could have been done except on a cash basis.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 27 (AP).—Selling activities carried the principal weight today in the most active bond market since the war-stimulated sessions of last September. Transactions expanded to $10,843,500, face value, from $7,657,200 Tuesday.

United States governments and a scattering of corporate and foreign loans were given special support and moved ahead for moderate gains. Elsewhere the buying urge was faint, and most offerings were taken at losses running from fractions to around 2 points. Rail loans were almost uniformly lower under what dealers described as year-end shifting of accounts.

United States governments worked up 1-32d to 13-32d's in quiet dealings. In the foreign division higher prices were paid for bonds of Canada, Belgium, Italy, and Poland. German General Electric issues scored wide gains on small transfers.

Chicago Stocks.

More than 10,000 shares of Chicago corporation were traded on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. At the close, however, the issue was unchanged at 1%. Commonwealth Edison gained ¼ point to set a new 1939 high at 31¾. Rath Packing and National Battery preferred also reached new 1939 peaks.

United States Steel shares sank 1% as most issues thruout the list turned lower. Turnover expanded to 43,000 shares. Of 140 issues dealt in, 72 declined, 23 advanced, and 45 closed unchanged.

Arrangements were completed for the sale of a membership in the exchange at $1,800. This price was unchanged from the last previous sale.

Bank Stocks.

Northern Trust shares declined four points in Chicago bank stock trading yesterday to close at 568 bid. First National dropped three points to 222, and Continental Illinois was off 1½ to 92¼ bid. Other issues were steady.

CORSET MAKER'S PROFITS BULGE IN LAST YEAR

But Taxes and Increased Costs Pinch Earnings.

The H. W. Gossard company yesterday reported consolidated net income for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30 was $391,502, equal to $1.81 per common share. Derby Day on the Farm & HOMER CROISZ

Stock Still Pastured.

December 27, 1939.

CATTLE, sheep, and horses at the Du Page county farm still are being kept out in the pastures. They are grazing on dry bluegrass and apparently like it better in winter than in summer. Animals that refused to touch bluegrass last summer are eating it now.

It is grass that was not grazed closely during the summer. It grew tall and rank and fell over. After frosts killed the tall grass in the fall the live stock started eating it. They have been grazing on it ever since.

Pass Up Hay for It.

Men at the farm have observed that stock always graze on dry bluegrass in the winter when they are permitted to run out in the pastures. It is not uncommon to see the cows and sheep nuzzling around in the snow, hunting for dry grass to eat. They will leave good hay and go out into the pastures and eat the tall, dead bluegrass. They refuse to eat this tall grass in the summer when it is green. Then the shorter grass appears more palatable.

Bluegrass, the most widely grown pasture grass in America, is included in virtually every pasture mixture on farms in the corn belt. On good land it provides abundant grazing during the spring and early summer and again in the fall except when stunted by drouth as it was this fall. In midsummer it goes thru a semidormant period when it furnishes little or no grazing.

Proves Fattening.

Cattle, horses, and sheep have an instinctive appetite for bluegrass and usually will fatten on good bluegrass pasture. They like it after it has been killed by frost, either because it is more palatable after being frosted or because it is the closest approach to green grass that they can find in the winter.

A relatively large acreage of pasture on the farm makes it possible to leave the live stock out in the open as late in the winter as the weather will permit without danger of the pastures being injured by close grazing. Pastures sometimes are injured severely by close grazing late in the fall.

Nutritive Value Higher.

The mature dry grass in the pastures this winter is thought to be higher in nutritive value than such grass ordinarily is at this time of year. This is because of the scant rainfall since the grass matured. Dry grass that has been weathered by fall rains usually is of little feeding value, altho live stock will eat it, especially if it is bluegrass. Dry prairie grass on the western ranges where rainfall normally is light makes fair feed.

FRANCE LARGEST PURCHASER OF AMERICAN ARMS

Month's Export Licenses Exceed 95 Million.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27 (AP).—The state department issued $119,812,042 in export licenses for arms, ammunition, and implements of war in November, it was announced today.

France obtained licenses totaling $95,579,366, almost entirely for aircraft. Great Britain was given licenses for $14,970,091, also for aircraft.

Actual exports started slowly, however. During the month France was able to get only $2,149,298 in war materials. Great Britain received exports totaling $701,093.

Stress Japanese Shipment.

The state department called pointed attention to the fact that the Douglas Aircraft company of Santa Monica, Cal., exported $4,584 of airplane parts to Japan. The department referred to previous statements that only "with great regret" would it issue licenses for the export of airplanes and parts to countries bombing civilian populations.

It explained, however, that the Douglas company stated that the parts were intended for use in aircraft sold prior to the announcement of Secretary Hull's policy on June 11, 1938, and that, when the planes were sold, the company agreed to supply spare parts.

Neutral Nations Obtain Planes.

The arming of northern European neutrals to protect themselves against more powerful neighbors was manifest in the November report. The Netherlands was second in actual exports, at $926,978. Norway obtained licenses running to $644,086, almost entirely for war planes.

Germany and Italy obtained no licenses, not having applied for any.

Finland obtained licenses totaling $13,730, and Russia obtained $150,640. Both were for engines for commercial planes.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

A broad demand for most hogs sent the various classes up 5 to 25 cents at the stockyards yesterday. The average rose 15 cents to $5.70, the highest daily average in five weeks. This price was 70 cents above the six year December low of 13 days ago. The $6.15 top, up 15 cents for the day, was 65 cents above the low point.

Lighter receipts, colder weather and a wide demand for fresh pork in retail stores, where prices have been relatively lower than for other foods, were the bullish factors in the hog trade. Cattle advanced mostly 15 to 25 cents in a lively session. Sheep and lambs sold steady to strong.
